Reds Capture Big Sector In Yugoslavia

Allied Forces Still Striving For Quick Knockout Of Nazis

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

September moved off the European war scene this week-end leaving behind it no conclusive evidence either way on whether the struggle could reach a decisive stage on any front, east, west or south, before winter sets into checkmate Russian and Allied hopes of a quick victory.

Both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill reflected that in specifically refusing even to guess when or how German collapse might come. Had the Arnhem bridge across the Neder Rhine, seized, then lost with heavy British "Red Devil" casualties, been held like those over the Maas and the Waal-Rhine it is probable that neither man would have voiced his warning against over-optimism.

Both know, of course, what Eisenhower is now preparing in the west. Everybody, including the Nazis, knows that the directives under which he is operating call for victory at the earliest possible moment to cut Allied battle losses. That sufficiently dismisses the thought that a west front stalemate has yet been reached, or that the limited present Allied activity from Holland to the Swiss border is mere jockeying for position for a winter sit-down campaign.

It is anything but that in fact. It requires no inside information nor more than a layman's knowledge of the military art to be certain that Eisenhower and his Anglo-American subordinates are as eager now to force a decisive break-through into Germany before bad weather sets in as they were in June to force their way onto the continent via Normandy. Bad weather did not stop them then. The Arnhem disappointment will not halt them now. It only delayed them.

Nor should it be forgotten that there is another vitally important quarter in Europe to be heard from as to

LESTER CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

District Attorney George W. Lester announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for district judge for Ouachita and Morehouse parishes to succeed Judge Frank W. Hawthorne, who recently was elected to the state supreme court bench.

Judge Hawthorne will take office on January 1 and an election to fill the district vacancy will be called shortly thereafter.

Mr. Lester has practiced law here 20 years, spending 10 years in civil practice and 10 years in the district attorney's office, eight years as assistant and two years as district attorney. He was elected to his present office in 1942. He has lived in Monroe for the past 25 years. He is married to the former Miss Erie Buatt of Morehouse parish.

"I believe that I am most certainly qualified to serve as district judge because of my long and varied experience," Mr. Lester said, "and I am therefore asking the people of Ouachita and Morehouse parishes to grant me a promotion that I believe is deserved."

Only one candidate, E. L. Gladney of Bastrop, has announced. It is believed with the announcement by Mr. Lester that several men mentioned as probable candidates will not enter the race.

NEW WPB CHIEF TO CUT ORDERS

Plans To Rid Industry Of 350 When War With Germany Ends

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—J. A. Krug, new WPB chairman, tonight announced a plan for reconversion without "spoon feeding" of economy," and a V-E Day project to rid industry of 350 of the existing 500 War Production Board orders.

"No attempt should be made to curtail individual initiative in the search for and purchase of materials and components that will remain in short supply for only a brief period," Krug said in outlining the bulky blueprint for relaxing war controls upon the collapse of Germany.

Krug did not reveal specifically which orders will be revoked, stating that the program will not be complete until the draft has been circulated among other agencies "to assure its workability and soundness."

The announcement was Krug's first official act as chairman replacing Donald M. Nelson, whose resignation was accepted by President Roosevelt today. The plan was pushed to completion by Krug as acting chairman in Nelson's absence.

It was prepared by a special task committee which worked under these instructions, Krug said:

"Eliminate rules, regulations and orders whenever and wherever feasible—on the theory that the fewer the restrictions the quicker will be reconversion and re-employment."

"There should be no spoon feeding of the economy," the report said. "No action should be taken that might hamper private enterprise or ingenuity, either by restricting or by preventing entry of newcomers.

"Except for military equipment which must be contracted at any cost until victory over Japan is secured, it is expected that essential needs will by and large be met without government control, either restrictive or supporting."

Salient features of the plan are the revocation of "the great bulk" of orders and regulations now on the books, creation of a single normal-use priority rating, dubbed "M. M.,"

TOWN RECAPTURED FROM NICARAGUANS

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A spokesman for President Teodoro Picardo reported tonight that a Costa Rican patrol had recaptured the town of Muelle de San Carlos without a struggle from Nicaraguan revolutionaries who seized it this morning.

The exiled Nicaraguans occupied the town as part of a general plan to attempt to re-enter Nicaragua and overthrow President Somoza, it was reported. They also had attempted to take other border towns in executing their plan.

Picardo's spokesman said the Nicaraguan band fled aboard a motor launch headed down the San Carlos river, probably in the direction of the Nicaraguan border, when the Costa Ricans arrived at Muelle de San Carlos. They abandoned an armored truck they had captured from Costa Ricans yesterday.

'BLACK CAT' SINKS 4 JAPANESE SHIPS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Black Cats are covering Japan's shipping lanes in the southwest Pacific, bringing the enemy nothing but bad luck.

Today's communique reported that a navy Catalina flying boat—called a "Black Cat" because it usually operates at night—sank four freighter-transports and six barges clustered about a jetty in Darvel bay, Borneo, in a lone mission of destruction Thursday night and early Friday.

Another "Cat" proved to the Japanese that not even the northern waters of Mindanao in the Philippines are safe for shipping by driving an enemy schooner aground at Surigao. It later broke up.

These "Cats" have been deadly in their prowls around Mindanao, one of them earlier in the week spotting a seaplane tender refueling two destroyer escorts and sinking all three.

The Borneo raider first made a strafing run, setting fire to stores piled on a dock at Malapang. Then it circled, returned and scored direct hits with 500-pound bombs on a 4,000-ton vessel and three of 1,500 tons. It got the heavily loaded barges with machinegun bullets. The Nipponese tried vainly to bring down the navy plane by filling the black sky with bursting ack ack, but succeeded only in damaging it.

Friday, a Liberator bomber spotted an enemy destroyer 80 miles northeast of Biongko on the southeast tip of Borneo, heading south and attacked it but the results were not determined.

Germans Will Face Ruthless Devastation If Allies Are Forced Into Winter War

No Group Believed Able To Bring Revolution And Surrender

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—If the Germans force the European war into a winter stalemate and a spring clean-up campaign, they will subject their country to the most ruthless devastation yet planned by the Allied high commands.

The belief of military authorities here is that Nazi scorched-earth threats promise considerably less destruction to Germany's cities, industries and communications than do Allied plans for conquering the country piecemeal if the Allies have to do it that way.

There are not reports here of any group capable of bringing about a revolution and surrender. And the nazi leadership, it is emphasized, has nothing to gain by surrender.

Responsible Allied military authorities believe that the Reich is being held together by Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo, which has exercised enormously increased power since the failure of the army generals' attempt on Hitler's life last summer.

Among diplomats as well as military leaders here it is considered a significant indication of Allied determination to stamp out German militarism completely—by forcing the war home to the German people through unconditional surrender or fighting on German soil—that there has not been, and according to present plans will not be, any definition of unconditional surrender for Germany.

The decision against any direct appeal based on limiting unconditional surrender was made by the Allied high command in the belief that the German general staff would use it to keep the German people in the war for a maximum time and then at the eleventh hour save themselves from destruction to fight another day by falling back upon Allied promises. That is said to be substantially what happened in 1918.

Actually the future of Germany is not considered by either military men or diplomats here to be hopeless from the point of view of the German people. Under policies now reported predominant in American planning it will have opportunity to grow again as an industrial nation with a relatively high standard of living—after Nazism and militarism have been uprooted and the devastation of other European countries has been restored.

But the plans do call for (1) rigid limitation of certain key war-making industries such as oil and steel and

BRITISH DRIVEN BACK IN ITALY

Forced From Small River Bridgehead Northwest Of Rimini

ROME, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Enemy tanks have driven the British Eighth Army from a small bridgehead across the Fiumicino river northwest of Rimini, headquarters disclosed today but Americans advancing to the west held firmly to their rain-swept mountain salient knifing into the German lines despite strong enemy attacks.

The Fiumicino, the lower course of Caesar's famous Rubicon of Antiquity, was running deep and swift from the autumn downpours, and some of the Americans mountainous supply roads were so flooded that even mule trains were stalled.

Both the Americans and the British reported moderate gains in rooting the Germans from highland strongholds overlooking the roads leading into the Po Valley.

The British reverse on the Fiumicino came west of San Mauro Di Romagna, nine miles west and slightly north of the Adriatic city of Rimini.

New Zealanders held 400 yards of the south bank and a small force braved the current and planted itself on the farther side. Before it could

GERMANS SEE THREAT TO SEIZED HOLDINGS THERE

LONDON, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Red army, crossing into Yugoslavia in a drive aimed at trapping 200,000 Germans in the lower Balkans, has seized a 60-mile bridgehead on the west bank of the Danube opposite Romania, and captured a score of villages, Moscow announced officially last night.

A late German broadcast, accenting the peril to all the Nazi holdings grabbed there in the Maelstrom of 1941, said the unfolding Soviet operations there and on the rich Hungarian plains leading to Budapest, had been built into a dangerous dagger "pointed at the heart of Europe."

With defeatism reported rampant in the Hungarian armies and also in the puppet troops build up by the once-mighty Nazi legions, a showdown was imminent in the Balkans.

The Red army, swinging westward within 94 miles of Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital, in aid of Marshal Tito's Partisan forces, crossed the winding Danube above and below the Iron Gate rapids on a stretch between Orsova and Negotin, the broadcast Soviet communique said.

The Russians drove six miles into Yugoslavia at Negotin, and Tito's spearheads, battling a mixed force of Germans, Serb puppet troops and Gen. Draja Mihailovic's Chetniks, were reported by the Free Yugoslav radio already to have reached a point on the southwestern approaches of Belgrade.

Imperiled Hungary, reportedly suing for peace, thus was threatened anew from the south at the same time that a Budapest bulletin acknowledged that other Soviet forces and Romanian contingents had fought their way at least 10 miles inside southeastern Hungary on a line between Szeged, Hungary's second city, and Oradea, big Transylvanian rail town 100 miles to the northeast.

Soviet troops also punched out gains along the Polish-Czechoslovak frontier, in northeastern Romania, and in Transylvania in the powerful assault aimed at knocking Hungary out of the war. Moscow dispatches said the Hungarian troops already were showing signs of dissension among themselves, and Soviet front line commanders set up loudspeakers calling on them to desert Germany.

Red army planes dropped leaflets over the Hungarian lines, promising the Hungarians good treatment if they should surrender.

The Russians crossed into Yugoslavia by way of the big Danube Bend near the junction of the Yugoslav-Romanian-Bulgarian frontiers several days ago, Moscow said. Berlin first had reported a crossing in force Thursday.

The Red army's double purpose was to effect a junction with Tito's men and the Allied Adriatic forces in the west so as to throw a powerful block across Nazi escape lines out of Yugoslavia, Albania and Greece and also to turn northward toward Hungary and Austria.

Rail lines and roads leading through Yugoslavia to the north already are

ELECTION CALL MAY FACE COURT ACTION

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The action of Gov. James H. Davis in calling a special election for the selection of an assessor in Tangipahoa parish to succeed Archie L. Addison, who died subsequent to his election but before time for him to take office in January, is facing a court attack.

Dr. J. H. McClendon of Amite said yesterday he had been appointed to the office several weeks ago and if necessary he will defend his appointment in the courts. He said he had not been commissioned because it was not yet time for the issuance of the commission.

"I think," he said, "the governor's latest action in calling a special election to fill the post he already appointed me to fill is just a move to stir up a lot of trouble in connection with the congressional race between (H. A.) Brunfield and (James H.) Morrison."

Brumfield, speaking in Hammond today, said that in the September 12 primary "local situations occurred in several places in the district which influenced some to register a protest vote against me." "One of these instances," he said, "was the appointment of Dr. J. H. McClendon. This appointment met with the objection of the vast majority of the people of the parish and they registered their votes against me in teh first primary."

Brumfield said he urged "my good friend, Governor Davis, to call an election in order that the voters may select an assessor of their own choice" and that the governor had issued the call.

8 Dents Made In Siegfried Line

113 German Tanks, Equivalent Of One Armored Division, Knocked Out In Two Days; British Defend Positions

By Alan Randal

(Canadian Press War Correspondent)

WITH CANADIANS IN CALAIS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—German resistance collapsed in Calais this afternoon after a bitter two-hour artillery bombardment on the German fortified positions together with a brief air attack.

As the sun went down, five great columns of smoke rose above the battered town and the Germans were marching out as prisoners in long files.

There was little point in their holding out longer except to deny the Allies use of the Calais port for a brief time more. The Calais cross-channel guns previously had been knocked out.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The U. S. Seventh army, fighting through snow sweeping out of the Vosges mountains, wheeled up to two foothill passes today and was only nine miles northwest of the gateway city of Belfort to challenge the Germans along the chain of peaks blocking the southern route to the Rhineland.

To the north, the United States First army opened up with an attack on a 60-mile front, carved out limited gains, and smashed through eight fortifications of the Siegfried line near its western fortress of Prum.

Between these sectors the United States Third army wiped out the equivalent of a German armored division in two days—113 tanks, 31 of which fell to gunners and fighter-bombers in the last 24 hours in a battle eddying around the American salient east of Metz and Nancy.

The British on the Dutch end of the long front beat back German counterblows from east and west at their Nijmegen bridge positions. The enemy tossed 300 fighters and fighter-bombers into the struggle and lost 33 without getting within strafing distance.

In the Nijmegen sector only one small German bridgehead remains to be knocked out before the Allies control the area between the Waal Rhine and the Maas (Meuse) rivers west of Arnhem and north of Hertogenbosch where British troops are attempting to seal off more than 100,000 Nazi soldiers pinned between the narrow Arnhem corridor and the sea.

British troops captured Merxlas on the Belgian front as they advanced slowly and widened their two bridgeheads across the Antwerp-Turnhout Canal. Polish patrols are operating one mile farther north of Merxplas. The bridgehead at St. Leonard, 15 miles west of Merxplas, was expanded.

There was no confirmation at SHAEF of a German broadcast claim that either Nazi or Dutch saboteurs had destroyed the vital mile and one-half-long railroad bridge at Nijmegen. The enemy report said the wreckage had been spotted yesterday by a German pilot.

Canadian artillery and infantry on the Franch channel coast beat again at Calais after a 24-hour armistice during which 10,000 French civilians were cleared from the beleaguered port.

During the pause in the hostilities, a Colonel Schroeder, the German commander of a garrison believed to number 7,000 or 8,000, told his opponents he had been ordered by Hitler to fight to the death and he proposed to do so.

NELSON RESIGNS AS WPB CHAIRMAN

Roosevelt Says He Will Be Given Foreign Relations Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson ended a turbulent career as WPB chairman today to take a new post described by President Roosevelt as a task of "major importance," connected with foreign economic relations.

Thirty-six-year-old J. A. (Cap) Krug, recently released by the navy to become acting chairman, took over as Nelson's successor with the pledge he would "try to keep things running on the rails you laid down."

In his letter accepting the resignation—a message warmly praising Nelson's part in arming the country—Mr. Roosevelt did not reveal the post he has in mind for the retiring production chief.

The president indicated, however, that he plans to use Nelson's ability in economic negotiations like his missions to China and Russia. The results achieved there, said Mr. Roosevelt, "make me feel strongly that your experience, insight and skill will be urgently needed by this country in laying the groundwork for post-war economic cooperation with other nations."

"I am counting on you to remain in the government in a high post of major importance," the White House message said.

Whether this meant the creation shortly of a new foreign economic agency in the government with Nelson at its head, was not revealed. Nelson, who met reporters in his office shortly after the White House announcement, avoided that question. He would say only that the president had outlined the job to him "in general terms."

The former vice-president of Sears Roebuck read for newsmen the text of his letter of resignation, saying he felt his production assignment was complete after four years in Washington; that he had planned to resign "ever since war production met its crucial test in the invasion of Europe;" that he had delayed his departure

CIVILIANS FLEE FAST FROM CALAIS

ST. OMER, France, Sept. 30—(AP)—The last civilians of the from 17,000 to 20,000 fleeing Calais passed this way today under the threat of a battle about to open in their streets, yards and homes.

These people had just 24 hours to leave their city, the length of a "cease firing" agreement between the opposing forces that ended at noon today.

To St. Omer from besieged Calais the refugees came in Canadian army trucks driven by French army men under the direction of civil affairs organizers.

With them they brought bundles of personal belongings but only as much of their goods as they could carry on their backs. It was the same wearisome sight that France had so often seen on her roads.

From St. Omer they were moved to designated villages.

Hanging on the backs of many trucks were bicycles and baby carriages and inside the trucks were jammed old women and old men, boys and girls, small babies and young women but few young men.

The old people seamed the calmest of all. They had been through all this before in the last war and in the early part of this one.

DOVER FREED FROM BIG GUNS' THREATS

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 30—(AP)—Prayers of thanksgiving supplanted the screech of shells over the chalk cliffs today and the people danced in the streets of Dover as this capital of "Hellfire Corner" celebrated its liberation from four years of shellfire by Nazi long-range batteries across the straits.

"The mayor has received official information," said proclamations which rang from loud-speakers on trucks through the long-embattled towns of Dover, Folkstone and Deal, "that all the long-range guns on the other side of the channel have now been captured."

The people rushed from their homes, their shelters and their caves and set out on a carnival of rejoicing.

Flags appeared by the hundreds and fluttered from windows in all the towns. Even baby carriages flew Union Jacks, and older children—those who had not been set away—held their own flag-waving parades.

In their joy, the people of Folkestone remembered to thank their liberators. Street dancing stopped for the reading of a message dispatched to Canadian troops who yesterday captured the last guns which the Germans had fired furiously in recent weeks to use up ammunition before their capture.

"We desire to express our sincere, grateful thanks," they messaged Lt. Gen. Henry G. Crerar, commander, "to you and all your command. The people of this area followed anxiously the great efforts of Canadians in the hazardous job of clearing the French channel ports. Pass on our thanks to all ranks. Good luck and a safe return."

Appointment of Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Junior College, to a newly-created post on the faculty of the University of Texas as professor-consultant in junior college education, was announced Saturday. The announcement was made by the board of regents of the University of Texas, and it is stated that the dean will accept his new charge November 1.

His position is to be a new one, created last summer in response to demands by the junior college of Texas for a teacher-training and advisory program under university auspices.

Dean Colvert, in his new capacity, will be in direct charge of the 38 junior colleges of the state of Texas

TOWN RECAPTURED FROM NICARAGUANS

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A spokesman for President Teodoro Picardo reported tonight that a Costa Rican patrol had recaptured the town of Muelle de San Carlos without a struggle from Nicaraguan revolutionaries who seized it this morning.

The exiled Nicaraguans occupied the town as part of a general plan to attempt to re-enter Nicaragua and overthrow President Somoza, it was reported. They also had attempted to take other border towns in executing their plan.

Picardo's spokesman said the Nicaraguan band bled aboard a motor launch headed down the San Carlos river, probably in the direction of the Nicaraguan border, when the Costa Ricans arrived at Muelle de San Carlos. They abandoned an armored truck they had captured from Costa Ricans yesterday.

No Group Believed Able To Bring Revolution And Surrender

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—If the Germans force the European war into a winter stalemate and a spring clean-up campaign, they will subject their country to the most ruthless devastation yet planned by the Allied high commands.

The belief of military authorities here is that Nazi scorched-earth threats promise considerably less destruction to Germany's cities, industries and communications than do Allied plans for conquering the country piecemeal if the Allies have to do it that way.

There are not reports here of any group capable of bringing about a revolution and surrender. And the nazi leadership, it is emphasized, has nothing to gain by surrender.

Responsible Allied military authorities believe that the Reich is being held together by Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo, which has exercised enormously increased power since the failure of the army generals' attempt on Hitler's life last summer.

Among diplomats as well as military leaders here it is considered a significant indication of Allied determination to stamp out German militarism completely—by forcing the war home to the German people through unconditional surrender or fighting on German soil—that there has not been, and according to present plans will not be, any definition of unconditional surrender for Germany.

The decision against any direct appeal based on limiting unconditional surrender was made by the Allied high command in the belief that the German general staff would use it to keep the German people in the war for a maximum time and then at the eleventh hour save themselves from destruction to fight another day by falling back upon Allied promises. That is said to be substantially what happened in 1918.

Actually the future of Germany is not considered by either military men or diplomats here to be hopeless from the point of view of the German people. Under policies now reported predominant in American planning it will have opportunity to grow again as an industrial nation with a relatively high standard of living—after Nazism and militarism have been uprooted and the devastation of other European countries has been restored.

But the plans do call for (1) rigid limitation of certain key war-making industries such as oil and steel and

Forced From Small River Bridgehead Northwest Of Rimini

ROME, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Enemy tanks have driven the British Eighth Army from a small bridgehead across the Fiumicino river northwest of Rimini, headquarters disclosed today but Americans advancing to the west held firmly to their rain-swept mountain salient knifing into the German lines despite strong enemy attacks.

The Fiumicino, the lower course of Caesar's famous Rubicon of Antiquity, was running deep and swift from the autumn downpours, and some of the Americans' mountainous supply roads were so flooded that even mule trains were stalled.

Both the Americans and the British reported moderate gains in rooting the Germans from highland strongholds overlooking the roads leading into the Po Valley.

The British reverse on the Fiumicino came west of San Mauro Di Romagna, nine miles west and slightly north of the Adriatic city of Rimini.

New Zealanders held 400 yards of the south bank and a small force braved the current and planted itself on the farther side. Before it could

'BLACK CAT' SINKS 4 JAPANESE SHIPS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP)—"Black Cats" are crossing Japan's shipping lanes in the southwest Pacific, bringing the enemy nothing but bad luck.

Today's communique reported that a navy Catalina flying boat—called a "Black Cat" because it usually operates at night—sank four freighter transports and six barges clustered about a jetty in Darvel bay, Borneo, in a lone mission of destruction Thursday night and early Friday.

Another "Cat" proved to the Japanese that not even the northern waters of Mindanao in the Philippines are safe for shipping by driving an enemy schooner aground at Surigao. It later broke up.

These "Cats" have been deadly in their prowls around Mindanao, one of them earlier in the week spotting a seaplane tender refueling two destroyer escorts and sinking all three.

The Borneo raider first made a strafing run, setting fire to stores piled on a dock at Malapang. Then it circled, returned and scored direct hits with 500-pound bombs on a 4,000-ton vessel and three of 1,500 tons. It got the heavily loaded barges with machinegun bullets The Nipponese tried vainly to bring down the navy plane by filling the black sky with bursting ack ack, but suceeded only in damaging it.

Friday, a Liberator bomber spotted an enemy destroyer 80 miles northeast of Biongko on the southeast tip of Borneo, heading south and attacked it but the results were not determined.

200,000 NAZIS ARE IMPERILED

GERMANS SEE THREAT TO SEIZED HOLDINGS THERE

LONDON, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Red army, crossing into Yugoslavia in a drive aimed at trapping 200,000 Germans in the lower Balkans, has seized a 60-mile bridgehead on the west bank of the Danube opposite Romania, and captured a score of villages, Moscow announced officially last night.

A late German broadcast, accenting the peril to all the Nazi holdings grabbed there in the Maelstrom of 1941, said the unfolding Soviet operations there and on the rich Hungarian plains leading to Budapest, had been built into a dangerous dagger "pointed at the heart of Europe."

With defeatism reported rampant in the Hungarian armies and also in the puppet troops build up by the once-mighty Nazi legions, a showdown was imminent in the Balkans.

The Red army, swinging westward within 94 miles of Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital, in aid of Marshal Tito's Partisan forces, crossed the winding Danube above and below the Iron Gate rapids on a stretch between Orsova and Negotin, the broadcast Soviet communique said.

The Russians drove six miles into Yugoslavia at Negotin, and Tito's spearheads, battling a mixed force of Germans, Serb puppet troops and Gen. Draja Mihailovic's Chetniks, were reported by the Free Yugoslav radio already to have reached a point on the southwestern approaches of Belgrade.

Imperiled Hungary, reportedly suing for peace, thus was threatened anew from the south at the same time that a Budapest bulletin acknowledged that other Soviet forces and Romanian contingents had fought their way at least 10 miles inside southeastern Hungary on a line between Szeged, Hungary's second city, and Oradea, big Transylvanian rail town 100 miles to the northeast.

Soviet troops also punched out gains along the Polish-Czechoslovak frontier, in northeastern Romania, and in Transylvania in the powerful assault aimed at knocking Hungary out of the war. Moscow dispatches said the Hungarian troops already were showing signs of dissension among themselves, and Soviet front line commanders set up loudspeakers calling on them to desert Germany.

Red army planes dropped leaflets over the Hungarian lines, promising the Hungarians good treatment if they should surrender.

The Russians crossed into Yugoslavia by way of the big Danube Bend near the junction of the Yugoslav-Romanian-Bulgarian frontiers several days ago, Moscow said. Berlin first had reported a crossing in force Thursday.

The Red army's double purpose was to effect a junction with Tito's men and the Allied Adriatic forces in the west so as to throw a powerful block across Nazi escape lines out of Yugoslavia, Albania and Greece, and also to turn northward toward Hungary and Austria.

Rail lines and roads leading through Yugoslavia to the north already are

ELECTION CALL MAY FACE COURT ACTION

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The action of Gov. James H. Davis in calling a special election for the selection of an assessor in Tangipahoa parish to succeed Archie L. Addison, who died subsequent to his election but before time for him to take office in January, is facing a court attack.

Dr. J. H. McClendon of Amite said yesterday he had been appointed to the office several weeks ago and if necessary he will defend his appointment in the courts. He said he had not been commissioned because it was not yet time for the issuance of the commission.

"I think," he said, "the governor's latest action in calling a special election to fill the post he already appointed me to fill is just a move to stir up a lot of trouble in connection with the congressional race between (H. A.) Brunfield and (James H.) Morrison."

Brumfield, speaking in Hammond today, said that in the September 12 primary "local situations occurred in several places in the district which influenced some to register a protest vote against me." "One of these instances," he said, "was the appointment of Dr. J. H. McClendon. This appointment met with the objection of the vast majority of the people of the parish and they registered their votes against me in teh first primary."

Brumfield said he urged "my good friend, Governor Davis, to call an election in order that the voters may select an assessor of their own choice" and that the governor had issued the call.

8 Dents Made In Siegfried Line

113 German Tanks, Equivalent Of One Armored Division, Knocked Out In Two Days; British Defend Positions

By Alan Randal
(Canadian Press War Correspondent)

WITH CANADIANS IN CALAIS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—German resistance collapsed in Calais this afternoon after a bitter two-hour artillery bombardment on the German fortified positions together with a brief air attack.

As the sun went down, five great columns of smoke rose above the battered town and the Germans were marching out as prisoners in long files.

There was little point in their holding out longer except to deny the Allies use of the Calais port for a brief time more. The Calais cross-channel guns previously had been knocked out.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The U. S. Seventh army, fighting through snow sweeping out of the Vosges mountains, wheeled up to two foothill passes today and was only nine miles northwest of the gateway city of Belfort to challenge the Germans along the chain of peaks blocking the southern route to the Rhineland.

To the north, the United States First army opened up with an attack on a 60-mile front, carved out limited gains, and smashed through eight fortifications of the Siegfried line near its western fortress of Prum.

Between these sectors the United States Third army wiped out the equivalent of a German armored division in two days—113 tanks, 31 of which fell to gunners and fighter-bombers in the last 24 hours in a battle eddying around the American salient east of Metz and Nancy.

The British on the Dutch end of the long front beat back German counterblows from east and west at their Nijmegen bridge positions. The enemy tossed 300 fighters and fighter-bombers into the struggle and lost 33 without getting within strafing distance.

In the Nijmegen sector only one small German bridgehead remains to be knocked out before the Allies control the area between the Waal Rhine and the Maas (Meuse) rivers west of Arnhem and north of Hertogenbosch where British troops are attempting to seal off more than 100,000 Nazi soldiers pinned between the narrow Arnhem corridor and the sea.

British troops captured Merxlas on the Belgian front as they advanced slowly and widened their two bridgeheads across the Antwerp-Turnhout Canal. Polish patrols are operating one mile farther north of Merxplas. The bridgehead at St. Leonard, 15 miles west of Merxplas, was expanded.

There was no confirmation at SHAEF of a German broadcast claim that either Nazi or Dutch saboteurs had destroyed the vital mile and one-half-long railroad bridge at Nijmegen. The enemy report said the wreckage had been spotted yesterday by a German pilot.

Canadian artillery and infantry on the Franch channel coast beat again at Calais after a 24-hour rmistice during which 10,000 French civilians were cleared from the beleaguered port.

During the pause in the hostilities, a Colonel Schroeder, the German commander of a garrison believed to number 7,000 or 8,000, told his opponents he had been ordered by Hitler to fight to the death and he proposed to do so.

NELSON RESIGNS AS WPB CHAIRMAN

Roosevelt Says He Will Be Given Foreign Relations Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson ended a turbulent career as WPB chairman today to take a new post described by President Roosevelt as a task of "major importance," connected with foreign economic relations.

Thirty-six-year-old J. A. (Cap) Krug, recently released by the navy to become acting chairman, took over as Nelson's successor with the pledge he would "try to keep things running on the rails you laid down."

In his letter accepting the resignation—a message warmly praising Nelson's part in arming the country—Mr. Roosevelt did not reveal the post he has in mind for the retiring production chief.

The president indicated, however, that he plans to use Nelson's ability in economic negotiations like his missions to China and Russia. The results achieved there, said Mr. Roosevelt, "make me feel strongly that your experience, insight and skill will be urgently needed by this country in laying the groundwork for post-war economic cooperation with other nations."

"I am counting on you to remain in the government in a high post of major importance," the White House message said.

Whether this meant the creation shortly of a new foreign economic agency in the government, with Nelson at its head, was not revealed. Nelson, who met reporters in his office shortly after the White House announcement, avoided that question. He would say only that the president had outlined the job to him "in general terms."

The former vice-president of Sears Roebuck read for newsmen the text of his letter of resignation, saying he felt his production assignment was complete, atfer four years in Washington; that he had planned to resign "ever since war production met its crucial test in the invasion of Europe," that he had delayed his departure

ST. OMER, France, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The last civilians of the from 17,000 to 20,000 fleeing Calais passed this way today under the threat of a battle about to open in their streets, yards and homes.

These people had just 24 hours to leave their city, the length of a "cease firing" agreement between the opposing forces that ended at noon today.

To St. Omer from besieged Calais the refugees came in Canadian army trucks driven by French army men under the direction of civil affairs organizers.

With them they brought bundles of personal belongings but only as much of their goods as they could carry on their backs. It was the same wearisome sight that France had so often seen on her roads.

From St. Omer they were moved to designated villages.

Hanging on the backs of many trucks were bicycles and baby carriages and inside the trucks were jammed old women and old men, boys and girls, small babies and young women but few young men.

The old people seemed the calmest of all. They had been through all this before in the last war and in the early part of this one.

DOVER FREED FROM BIG GUNS' THREATS

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Prayers of thanksgiving supplanted the screech of shells over the chalk cliffs today and the people danced in the streets of Dover as this capital of "Hellfire Corner" celebrated its liberation from four years of shellfire by Nazi long-range batteries across the straits.

"The mayor has received official information," said proclamations which rang from loud-speakers on trucks through the long-embattled towns of Dover, Folkstone and Deal, "that all the long-range guns on the other side of the channel have now been captured."

The people rushed from their homes, their shelters and their caves and set out on a carnival of rejoicing.

Flags appeared by the hundreds and fluttered from windows in all the towns. Even baby carriages flew Union Jacks, and older children—those who had not been set away—held their own flag-waving parades.

In their joy, the people of Folkestone remembered to thank their liberators. Street dancing stopped for the reading of a message dispatched to Canadian troops who yesterday captured the last guns which the Germans had fired furiously in recent weeks to use up ammunition before their capture.

"We desire to express our sincere, grateful thanks," they messaged Lt. Gen. Henry G. Crerar, commander, "to you and all your command. The people of this area followed anxiously the great efforts of Canadians in the hazardous job of clearing the French channel ports. Pass on our thanks to all ranks. Good luck and a safe return."

'HELLO, BOYS,' IS DUTCH GREETING

More Enthusiasm Shown As Danger From Germans Decreases

By Hal Boyle

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN HOLLAND, Sept. 25.—(Delayed).—(AP) The national salute by Hollanders to every jeepload of American soldiers is "Hello, boys."

Gone is that preliminary period of doubt and uncertainty when troops met with almost blank stares or covert "V" signs. Most of the Dutch are pretty well convinced that the Nazis won't be able to make a comeback and that the Yanks are here to stay until the war is over.

And since they are reasonably sure of their safety, they have been going way out in many cases to show how welcome the American army really is.

No country has been more of a surprise than that section of Holland now occupied by the first American army. Its wooded hills and green farmlands full of grazing black and white cows, and neat brick towns look more like a corner of rural Pennsylvania than the land of dykes.

In dress these people differ little from those the troops left behind in the small towns of America.

Somehow, most of the soldiers thought that all parts of Holland were full of quaintly attired folks and whirling windmills—just as a lot of people throughout Europe think Indians still pitch tepees and hunt buffalo in the suburbs of Manhattan.

"I expected to see windmills and women wearing white pointed caps and wooden shoes, and acres of tulip beds," said Pvt. Gordon Conrey, of Milford, N. H.

"It wasn't that way at all. Some people look just like they did in France and Belgium and I haven't come across a tulip yet. We asked about windmills and a man told us there was an old one somewhere in the neighborhood but it hadn't been used for years.

"Most of our boys have found people really glad to see us—but there sure was a lull when we first came in. They didn't seem to know whether to greet us or not.

"Their girls seem to be either very good-looking or just the opposite. They don't stack up to those in Paris though. The beer is darn good and only ten cents a glass. It has a good top on it—good enough to make you homesick."

Pvt. James Spilker of Fayetteville, Ohio, a driver who steered his jeep across as many miles of France as any man in the army, likes Holland because he can understand better what these flaxen-haired folk are talking about than he could in Belgium or Normandy.

"They have a lot of words almost like ours," he said. "I can pick up about two-thirds of what they say."

Dutch flags—their red, white and blue flag is like the French tricolor with colors reversed—fly everywhere. Most Hollanders wear an orange ribbon or fly an orange bunting with their flag to show loyalty to Queen Wilhelmina and the House of Orange.

Even the casual observer is impressed with the affection felt by the Dutch for their stout-hearted queen compared with the apathy evidenced by the Belgians for King Leopold. There is considerable resentment over his marriage while still a prisoner to the Germans and the homes of thousands of his subjects are disrupted by war.

INSURANCE FOR VETS EXPLAINED

Must Make Payments Direct And Convert Before Five Years

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Here are things for a veteran—and his family—to remember to do when he returns home after his discharge from the service:

Government insurance:

He'll probably wish to keep his National Service Life Insurance in force. This insurance he got in the army. It runs up to $10,000. If it lapses, he won't be able to buy similar protection for himself and family for the same cost.

Pay the premiums direct. (In the army he may have paid it direct but most likely had the money allotted out of his pay.) He should make his check or money order payable to the treasurer of the United States and mail it to the Collection Subdivision, Veterans' Administration, Washington, 25, D. C.

He can arrange to make the payments monthly, quarterly, every six months, or once a year.

His insurance originally was issued on what is called the five-year-level-premium-term. Before those five years are up he can convert it into ordinary life insurance, 20-payment life, or 30-payment life.

The new policy will have a regular cash value after the first year. Then he can borrow from it if necessary.

If he wishes to change his beneficiary, he should write the Director of Insurance, Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.

Private insurance:

Maybe, when he went into the service, he had private life insurance and arranged to have the government protect it for him by guaranteeing the premiums.

If so, when he leaves the service the premiums must be brought up to date with interest, within two years after his discharge. His insurance company or the Veterans' Administration will answer any questions for him.

Legal protection:

The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act generally protects service men and women up to 6 months after their discharge by making it possible for the courts to suspend enforcement of certain civil liabilities during that time.

In some cases federal and state laws provide for deferment or adjustment of tax payments by veterans. For information on federal income tax and other federal taxes, the veteran should go to the nearest office of the collector of internal revenue. His own state tax commission at the state capital will answer questions about state income tax and other state taxes.

Keeping his papers in order:

Every veteran has a serial, service or file number. He should keep a record of it and of other records—such as originals or legal copies of necessary papers—in a safe place where they can be found.

The reason for care with papers: Claims and requests for benefits will usually require certain information such as his serial number, details of his discharge, and, in some cases, proof of the relationship of dependents.

The most important records are the following: Army or marine corps serial number, navy service or file number, coast guard service number, discharge papers, disability claim—"C"—number, insurance policies, Social Security card, birth certificates of himself and family, marriage certificate, divorce decrees, last will and testament, and selective service registration card.

He should get those records in order now.

TEACHERS MAKE APPEAL TO COXE

Orleans Group Asks State Intervention Regarding Salaries

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A committee representing the Classroom Teachers Federation of New Orleans today appealed to Supt. of Education John E. Coxe and asked that the state intervene in the question of teachers' salaries in New Orleans.

Superintendent Coxe told the committee that the Orleans parish budget was received only a few days ago and added that the budget committee and his financial experts have not yet had an opportunity to study it.

The state budget committee with the power of approving or disapproving budgets of any parish school board is comprised of Gov. James H. Davis, State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell and Coxe.

Coxe said the committee would have the power to require the Orleans parish school board to budget additional funds for teachers' salaries if they feel the budget is inadequate or incorrect and said the board had the power of holding up all state funds until the matter is settled. However, the state superintendent did not indicate that such action would be taken in this particular case.

The committee from New Orleans which was headed by Mrs. Irene Owens, president of the federation, reported that last June 21 the state legislature adopted an emergency appropriation raising the amount per educable $2.50 to $22.50 and that it was understood the increase was to go to teachers' salaries.

They said the teachers received a "bonus" amounting to 5.6 per cent per year in their full June checks, but that when the first checks were received yesterday for the fall te of school the increase was left off.

Coxe said he would send Dr. Cl ence Schepps, state supervisor of nance for the department of educ tion, to New Orleans where he wou investigate the accounts and budge there and would submit Schepp findings to the state budget commi tee as quickly as possible." At th time, Coxe said, the budget comm tee will be in a better position render a final decision in the ma

More Enthusiasm Shown As Danger From Germans Decreases

By Hal Boyle

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN HOLLAND, Sept. 25.—(Delayed).—(AP) The national salute by Hollanders to every jeepload of American soldiers is "Hello, boys."

Gone is that preliminary period of doubt and uncertainty when troops met with almost blank stares or covert "V" signs. Most of the Dutch are pretty well convinced that the Nazis won't be able to make a comeback and that the Yanks are here to stay until the war is over.

And since they are reasonably sure of their safety, they have been going way out in many cases to show how welcome the American army really is.

No country has been more of a surprise than that section of Holland now occupied by the first American army. Its wooded hills and green farmlands full of grazing black and white cows, and neat brick towns look more like a corner of rural Pennsylvania than the land of dykes.

In dress these people differ little from those the troops left behind in the small towns of America.

Somehow, most of the soldiers thought that all parts of Holland were full of quaintly attired folks and whirling windmills—just as a lot of people throughout Europe think Indians still pitch tepees and hunt buffalo in the suburbs of Manhattan.

"I expected to see windmills and women wearing white pointed caps and wooden shoes, and acres of tulip beds," said Pvt. Gordon Conrey, of Milford, N. H.

"It wasn't that way at all. Some people look just like they did in France and Belgium and I haven't come across a tulip yet. We asked about windmills and a man told us there was an old one somewhere in the neighborhood but it hadn't been used for years.

"Most of our boys have found people really glad to see us—but there sure was a lull when we first came in. They didn't seem to know whether to greet us or not.

"Their girls seem to be either very good-looking or just the opposite. They don't stack up to those in Paris though. The beer is darn good and only ten cents a glass. It has a good top on it—good enough to make you homesick."

Pvt. James Spilker of Fayetteville, Ohio, a driver who steered his jeep across as many miles of France as any man in the army, likes Holland because he can understand better what these flaxen-haired folk are talking about than he could in Belgium or Normandy.

"They have a lot of words almost like ours," he said. "I can pick up about two-thirds of what they say."

Dutch flags—their red, white and blue flag is like the French tricolor with colors reversed—fly everywhere. Most Hollanders wear an orange ribbon or fly an orange bunting with their flag to show loyalty to Queen Wilhelmina and the House of Orange.

Even the casual observer is impressed with the affection felt by the Dutch for their stout-hearted queen compared with the apathy evidenced by the Belgians for King Leopold. There is considerable resentment over his marriage while still a prisoner to the Germans and the homes of thousands of his subjects are disrupted by war.

INSURANCE FOR VETS EXPLAINED

Must Make Payments Direct And Convert Before Five Years

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Here are things for a veteran—and his family—to remember to do when he returns home after his discharge from the service:

Government insurance:

He'll probably wish to keep his National Service Life Insurance in force. This insurance he got in the army, It runs up to $10,000. If it lapses, he won't be able to buy similar protection for himself and family for the same cost.

Pay the premiums direct. (In the army he may have paid it direct but most likely had the money allotted out of his pay.) He should make his check or money order payable to the treasurer of the United States and mail it to the Collection Subdivision, Veterans' Administration, Washington, 25, D. C.

He can arrange to make the payments monthly, quarterly, every six months, or once a year.

His insurance originally was issued on what is called the five-year-level-premium-term. Before those five years are up he can convert it into ordinary life insurance, 20-payment life, or 30-payment life.

The new policy will have a regular cash value after the first year. Then he can borrow from it if necessary.

If he wishes to change his beneficiary, he should write the Director of Insurance, Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.

Private insurance:

Maybe, when he went into the service, he had private life insurance and arranged to have the government protect it for him by guaranteeing the premiums.

If so, when he leaves the service the premiums must be brought up to date, with interest, within two years after his discharge. His insurance company or the Veterans' Administration will answer any questions for him.

Legal protection:

The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act generally protects service men and women up to 6 months after their discharge by making it possible for the courts to suspend enforcement of certain civil liabilities during that time.

In some cases federal and state laws provide for deferment or adjustment of tax payments by veterans. For information on federal income tax and other federal taxes, the veteran should go to the nearest office of the collector of internal revenue. His own state tax commission at the state capital will answer questions about state income tax and other state taxes.

Keeping his papers in order:

Every veteran has a serial, service or file number. He should keep a record of it and of other records—such as originals or legal copies of necessary papers—in a safe place where they can be found.

The reason for care with papers: Claims and requests for benefits will usually require certain information such as his serial number, details of his discharge, and, in some cases, proof of the relationship of dependents.

The most important records are the following: Army or marine corps serial number, navy service or file number, coast guard service number, discharge papers, disability claim—"C"—number, insurance policies, Social Security card, birth certificates of himself and family, marriage certificate, divorce decrees, last will and testament, and selective service registration card.

He should get those records in order now.

Building Permits

Permission was granted to remodel a frame building at 207 Louise Ann avenue. The costs are not to exceed $50 and day labor is to be used.

Permission was granted to U. S. Pierce to erect a frame building to be used as a store at 1617 DeSiard St. The costs are not to exceed $150.

Rationed Motorists Now Get Extra Gasoline Mileage

All over the country, thousands of rationed car owners, truck fleets, taxi cabs, motorcycles and tractor owners report gasoline savings up to 30%. These people have been enjoying extra gasoline mileage by installing a Vacu-matic to their carburetor. This new device is entirely automatic. Nothing to regulate or adjust and can be installed in 10 minutes. The Vacumatic Co., 7617-634-M State St., Wauwatosa (13) Wisconsin, are offering a Vacu-matic to anybody who will install it on their car and help introduce it to others. Write them today for particulars as to how you can get your Vacu-matic or just send your name and address on a penny post card. (Adv.)

TEACHERS MAKE APPEAL TO COXE

Orleans Group Asks State Intervention Regarding Salaries

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A committee representing the Classroom Teachers Federation of New Orleans today appealed to Supt. of Education John E. Coxe and asked that the state intervene in the question of teachers' salaries in New Orleans.

Superintendent Coxe told the committee that the Orleans parish budget was received only a few days ago and added that the budget committee and his financial experts have not yet had an opportunity to study it.

The state budget committee with the power of approving or disapproving budgets of any parish school board is comprised of Gov. James H. Davis, State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell and Coxe.

Coxe said the committee would have the power to require the Orleans parish school board to budget additional funds for teachers' salaries if they feel the budget is inadequate or incorrect and said the board had the power of holding up all state funds until the matter is settled. However, the state superintendent did not indicate that such action would be taken in this particular case.

The committee from New Orleans which was headed by Mrs. Irene Owens, president of the federation, reported that last June 21 the state legislature adopted an emergency appropriation raising the amount per educable $2.50 to $22.50 and that it was understood the increase was to go to teachers' salaries.

They said the teachers received a "bonus" amounting to 5.6 per cent per year in their full June checks, but that when the first checks were received yesterday for the fall te of school the increase was left off.

Coxe said he would send Dr. Cla ence Schepps, state supervisor of nance for the department of educ tion, to New Orleans where he wou investigate the accounts and budge there and would submit Schepp findings to the state budget committee as quickly as possible." At th time, Coxe said, the budget commi tee will be in a better position render a final decision in the mat

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 1, 1944.

The golden text is: "The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal" (II Cor. 4:18).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour" (Matt. 15:28).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us rejoice that we are subject to the divine 'powers that be.' Such is the true science of being" (p. 249).

Winter War?

It is now autumn, an extraordinary summer of blistering heat, of drouth, of hurricanes and of war having ended. The question uppermost in the minds of millions of persons is whether this will be another winter of war.

There have been high hopes of late that the war in Europe would end before snow falls. These hopes have their origin in the confident assurance of General Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery, both cautious men and well informed, and in the military picture as it has unfolded dramatically under the fierce impact of Allied attacks upon Germany from all directions.

These attacks have liberated France, carried Allied armies into Belgium, Holland and the Reich itself, destroyed Nazi domination of the Balkans, and driven far into the Baltic states and Poland. Now that German armies are defending German soil, however, there has been a marked change in the whole character of the war.

The mad flight of Germans has ended and a stand is being made. Concededly it is a stand of desperation by men who know their cause is lost but who are held at their grim and futile task by fear of the gestapo, and by the conviction, studiously cultivated by Goebbels and his propagandists, that unconditional surrender means their extermination.

Unfortunately, there seems to be in prospect a recurrence of old history. It was noted at the close of the first World War that 70 per cent of all American casualties occurred in the weeks after the German high command had advised the kaiser that the Germans could not win. While Wilhelm clung to hopes and clutched at straws, the casualty list mounted.

Allied troops are now meeting the most desperate German resistance in the war in Europe, a resistance which in fierceness and effectiveness provides substance for the fear of another winter of conflict. But it must not be overlooked that German ability to wage war has been crippled by casualties, by reduced production capacity, by limited resources and by shattered spirit.

VALOR AT ARNHEM

Every war produces its "thin red line," the breathtaking piece of heroism that stands out amid other epic deeds. In the last war the battered American Lost Battalion, trapped behind the enemy lines in the Argonne forest, held out five days and nights, without sleep and with little food, against all the enemy sent until reinforcements fought through to lift the siege.

Early in this war there was engrossed on the pages of history the valor of American stands on Wake and Bataan, and now at Arnhem British parachutists of the Allied First air-borne army defied superior Nazi forces and equipment and demands for surrender for almost two weeks.

A war correspondent with the encircled forces wrote in awed admiration that "the guts of these air-borne troops is wonderful," that the whole area was being shelled and mortared intensively and that the "medical corps is on the job around the clock." By Hitler's direction the cream of his SS troops were thrown into the battle. Tanks were brought up and heavy artillery. Still the trapped troops fought on to the end, hoping desperately for help during "heroic and horrible" days.

As part of the Allied plan to flank the Siegfried line and break through its right wing into northern Germany, the greatest air-borne operation of the war was decided upon. Its purpose was to seize vital bridges over Netherlands rivers and streams where the Rhine swings into Holland. Bad weather impaired air communications and air support. Food and ammunition ran low, and supplies dropped from planes fell often as not among the enemy.

The world will never forget the saga of the men whose courage and tenacity have written the epic of Arnhem.

LEOPOLD

All the world will listen with interest when London discloses what its future attitude toward King Leopold of Belgium is to be. When the Nazis invaded Belgium, the young king suspended hostilities in a manner that left the British forces vulnerable, leading to the Dunkerque evacuation.

London felt that he had let the Allies down and comparisons of him with his famous father were not complimentary to the young king. King Albert enacted one of the most heroic roles of the last war when he fought the Germans to the last ditch.

Apparently Leopold was made a prisoner by the Nazis and transported to Germany. At any rate, he has not been found in Belgium. But after the war he will no doubt turn up in Belgium seeking to resume the throne.

Observers believe he will ask the blessing of Britain, contending that he never signed an armistice and quit the war only because otherwise his armies would have been decimated.

DEMOBILIZATION IN BRITAIN

England awaits an important announcement about demobilization plans to be made by Labor Minister Ernest Bevin in parliament several days hence.

Popular expectation is that a cut in each of the three services will be proposed, with removal of men from each based on the "first-in-first-out" basis, with reservations. Overseas duty will count in the case of two men with equal service. A list of priority occupations is expected to cut a figure.

Because of the country's housing need, aggravated by bombings, building labor will get an early release.

Whatever became of the League of Nations?

Stalin will write that part of the peace which concerns Russia. That's an idea for Washington.

Jimmie Fidler
IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—It strikes me that a great many stars might do well to ponder the case of Bob Hope, who is going to emerge from this war period as one of the most idolized entertainers the world has ever known.

According to records, he has made personal appearances before more than 3,000,000 service men—approximately one-fourth of Uncle Sam's armed forces. In the present month alone, he was the subject of laudatory articles in Life, Reader's Digest, Magazine Digest, Time, Click and Pic. Thirteen syndicates sent out lengthy stories about his activities. No star in the history of show business has ever had such an enormous volume of favorable publicity. Judged from a cold business standpoint, it is worth millions of dollars.

Hope has earned every single line of it by doing a magnificent, unselfish job. That's why it's good publicity; it's based strictly on facts; it contains no exaggerations.

There are dozens of stars in Hollywood who had the same opportunities that Bob had, at the start of the war. Their picture commitments were no more of a handicap than his. But they've been content to give half-heartedly, if at all, of their time and effort, while he has given almost every minute, often driving himself to the limit of his endurance.

I'm 100 per cent sure that he has never given a thought to professional rewards, therefore he can't be begrudged them. And before envying him, every star in this town should carefully examine his own conscience and ask himself why he missed the boat.

For several years, Hollywood producers have been toiling to capture the Latin-American film markets and on the whole, doing a mighty poor job of it. Nine-tenths of the pictures they've whipped up, for the express purpose of wooing fans down yonder, have been musicals with frothy, absurd plots. Hollywood's decision to concentrate on that type of entertainment apparently is based on a conviction that Latin-American audiences are too child-like in their entertainment tastes to appreciate anything more involved than color, movement and pictorial beauty. The net result has been dismal failure; Mexicans and South Americans have been insulted more often than they've been pleased. Now comes the pay-off. The other day Cantinflas, the famous Mexican star, was guest of honor at a Hollywood press luncheon. Asked about Mexico's reception of America-made picture, he named, as the most popular film of the year, "Madame Curie," a production that disappointed at the American box-office because it was "too profound!"

Speaking of "Madame Curie," I'm reminded of one of my pet peeves—the fact that Walter Pidgeon continues to be sacrificed on the altar of Greer Garson's glory. I have no brief against Miss Garson; on the contarary, I consider her one of the finest actresses on the screen. But Pidgeon is fully her equal and I hate to see him go on indefinitely playing second fiddle when he's actually a first violinist. It's high time for MGM bosses to recognize this fact and give him a chance to shine on his own.

As a born Southerner, I'm amused by the report that Lena Horne's studio bosses asked Motion Picture Magazine to use a cover portrait of the sepia star, in order "to test reaction in the South." Miss Horne is a great entertainer and I'll gamble that nowhere in America does she have more fans than south of the Mason-Dixon line, where people are quick to appreciate fine showmanship. It's astonishing that men in an industry which serves all of America should know so little about the sentiments in a large part of the country.

Since my attacks, in this column, on the use of the screen for propagandizing party politics, I've been swamped with reports of specific instances. The most chucklesome is told by James Newcom, currently editing the picture, "Guest in the House." In 1924, when Coolidge was the Republican candidate, Newcom was a newsreel editor. President Coolidge had just been photographed on one of his famous fishing trips. The day before the film was to be released, one of the party kingpins called on the company to ask if there was any chance of changing the picture. Newcom bridled instantly, suspecting an invasion of Journalistic freedom. "What kind of a change?" he demanded. "Well," said the visitor, "Mr. Coolidge didn't catch a fish. Can't you insert a closeup of one and make him look a little better?"

BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Mrs. Henry McLemore

Dear Henry—No letters from you in a long time now. The last news that I had of your whereabouts was an A. P. dispatch saying you were in the invasion of the island of Morotai. Another story said that General MacArthur was there too. As you know, four-star Gen. Elizabeth Eastman and I run the war from here and every day we mark the progress that our armies have made on a big map on the dining room wall. So, next to Morotai we printed, "This island captured by S Sgt. Henry McLemore with assistance from D. MacArthur."

You'll never guess what, Henry. I had a letter from the syndicate asking me to come to New York for a business conference. I've never felt more important in my life. I'm writing to everyone and telling them to call me at the syndicate office in New York next week and I intend to bribe Miss Archer to say this when anyone calls: "Mrs. McLemore is in conference now but she will call you when she is free." Ha, that will startle everybody, won't it?

Ever since I knew I was going to New York next week I've been in a dizzy, senior grade, trying to get ready to go. I make endless lists that read like this: Call and stop newspapers. Remember leave note in milk bottle. Turn off ice box. Turn off hot water heater. Be sure light in linen closet is turned off. Remember take Cindy's food and leash and comb to Dad's. Remember take curlers, bobby pins and last box of Klennex. Remember leave key to the garage in same place so Willy can find it and mow lawn.

As you know from years back, I make out lists and remember practically everything except the Maine. Then, as you also know, I usually lose the lists before I've accomplished anything written on them.

I lost my third list yesterday and it made me so mad to think of all the time and trouble I had taken to type those lists out in such detail that I made out what I said to myself was simply a little "reminder" list and that would be all that I'd need. I scribbled it down on the back of an envelope and I haven't lost the "Caps" one. Indeed not. It's right on front of me and although only 24 hours have elapsed since I wrote it I can't make any more sense out of it than you can. Here are the first few items. TELL DU FO. RE STE NE. RE T G. (I finally figured that one out. It means remember take gloves.)

Honey, it's going to be a mighty funny feeling to go back to New York without you. There will be a thousand things to remind me of the early days of our marriage when we were so broke and so many things happened that almost got us down. Do you remember how we used to shake hands and say—"If the year in New York doesn't mow us under, nothing else ever can."—Well, it didn't, and I know in my heart that nothing is going to get you down out where you are.

I mailed you three more Christmas boxes today and they contain a lovely assortment of curios from the south Pacific which I was fortunate enough to be able to buy from a soldier who just got back from there. Now if you can just manage to send me a box of oranges for Christmas—

All my love,
Jean

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Matthew 4:1-11; 6:24-34; Luke 4:16-21

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

A program for meeting life's problems is a large order; but Jesus in His teachings and example has met it in a large way. The passages suggested for study offer guiding principles to help us in the immediate questions and problems that arise from day to day.

The story of the temptations of Jesus directly implies that the first and major problem that has to be faced is that of basic decision. What sort of life is ours going to be? Do we most want to be true and right, or are we more concerned about worldly success in money, power, or some satisfaction of our vanity? Jesus had to face these temptations, and so has everyone, directly or indirectly.

Men of very different sorts have had to make commanding, crucial decisions as to the sort of life they intended to live. Neither John Stuart Mill nor Thomas Carlyle was religious or Christian in the conventional sense yet both men recorded decisions in early life that one of them compared to the experience of "Methodist conversion."

There is not much chance of satisfactorily solving any of life's problems until that major and basic problem is solved. Perhaps the greatest loss in the passing of the older type of evangelism is the lack of the crucial decisions that were the vital and climactic aspect of the great campaigns of evangelists like D. L. Moody. It is this lack that leaves so many lives weak and floundering, and that marks the lives of many church members as futile and unfruitful in the religion they profess.

Compare the lives of the many church members who go to church when they feel like it, with the life of a real Christian who has made the service of God and his fellowmen the supreme thing in his life, and not a matter of whim, mood, or convenience. The kingdom of God and its choice is the first thing in life, according to Jesus. If you want to solve life's problems, get your life itself right at its very source.

A second thing is the attainment of faith, and trust in God. No life can be strong that is marked by doubt, distrust, or worry. Tennyson in "In Memoriam," wrote of his friend, Arthur Hallam, who fought his doubts and gathered strength," but there is no strength in persistent negative doubt. So also, there never was a situation, no matter how bad, that worry made in the least degree better. Yet faith is not always easy, and we would be less than human if we did not worry when things go wrong. We must learn in the school of the Master if we would attain the fulness of faith, and learn to live above worry, putting all our strength into making bad situations better, instead of allowing them to depress and conquer us.

And the third element of strength in solving life's problems is in learning and practicing the lesson of service to others. Jesus said the spirit of the Lord was upon Him because, in the language of the prophet Isaiah, He was annointed to preach the gospel to the poor, to heal the brokenhearted, and to fulfill all the rest of that great commission.

The words may change, but the substance remains. Every age and situation needs those who will love and serve. It is often the way of sacrifice, and sometimes of hardship. But those who have taken that way have found that, in helping to solve the problems of others, they have gone far toward solving their own.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

While the War Labor Board is conducting its public hearings on petitions of labor organizations to break the Little Steel Formula, it will be confronted with pleas that the issue be settled on the basis of the union's specific demands, and not on the basis of some trick new theory, setting up a postwar wage policy, or as a political football to be kicked around till after the election.

Labor leaders are beginning to infer that they are finding it more and more difficult to hold their unions in line. The wage issue has been around since last November, and at recent union conventions the leaders had a hard time keeping the rank and file from voting to abandon the no-strike pledge. Three times the repeal of that pledge barely escaped passage at the Auto Workers' convention, and it is still to be decided by a referendum of the more than a million members in this biggest union in the world. The Rubber Workers' convention also had a close call because some of their biggest locals wanted to repeal the pledge. By some standards, the United Mine Workers have already broken the pledge through their countenancing of strikes of supervisory employes. And so it goes.

'Powerhouse' Backs Move

Unions now involved in demands to break the Little Steel Formula include the entire A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., the Steelworkers, the Electrical, Aluminum, Glass, Auto, Packinghouse and Shipyard workers. It is far and away the most potent labor pressure group ever to marshal its forces behind a single demand—"defrosting of frozen wages," as it is called by Editor Len DeCaux of the C. I. O. News.

In this particular, the administration finds itself on a hot spot. Less than six months ago, marking the first anniversary of the president famous "hold the line" order of April 8, 1943, Director of Economic Stabilization Fred M. Vinson, Price Administrator Chester Bowles, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones and War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis issued a report to the president, bragging about how well the line had been held.

"The level of basic factory wage rates has been raised less than one and one-half cents an hour," said the report. "Wages have been stabilized.

"We must not jeopardize these gains by any change of policy or relaxation of effort in the critical months ahead," the report recommended towards the end. "The need for continued restraint and continued cooperation with every phase of the stabilization program is evident. Obviously, too, we should cling to the policies and machinery which have served us so effectively thus far."

These are noble sentiments, but again the prophets of doom are predicting that if the Little Steel Formula is now to be broken, somebody is going to have to eat 'em.

New Wage Charges

Chairman Davis of WLB has indicated that the board might come up with recommendations for changes in wage policy different from the changes demanded by the labor unions. The inference in this important statement is that the board might be thinking more about preventing wage reductions after the war, when the economic objective will be to maintain purchasing power and consumption.

It is a question how satisfactory any such new formula—bending the Little Steel Formula without breaking it—would be to the labor leaders. Steel Formula, the coal miners got portal-to-portal pay, the non-operating railroad brotherhoods got overtime, but these two groups got only minor adjustments in basic pay rates. What the present drive against the Little Steel Formula is all about is to get increases in basic pay rates on work weeks of 40 hours or less. Best indication of this trend came from the miners' convention in Cincinnati, when it was announced that they would ask for a dollar a day increase in basic pay, with adoption of the seven-hour day and five-day week in place of the nine-hour day and six-day week in force at present.

TECH ATHLETE IS NOW IN MARINES

RUSTON, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Pfc. Vic Cerise of New Orleans, a former Louisiana Tech athlete now serving somewhere out of San Francisco with a marine division, got one last glimpse of Ruston and Tech recently, but it wasn't as lingering a look as he would have preferred.

Advising that a train trip from Camp Lejeune, N. C., to the West Coast "brought me through the great little town of Ruston," Cerise wrote in a letter just received here:

"When you hear poeple say the marines move fast, believe them, for they are absolutely right. I had my head out of the window the whole time trying to see someone I knew, but as luck would have it, I didn't. I guess I shouldn't kick about not getting back on the campus before going overseas; I at least got one more look at the place."

Although Cerise was graduated from Tech at the end of the first trimester in 1943, he is planning on returning to Tech "for a while after this war."

William Maxwell of Haynesville, also a former Bulldog athlete and a Tech graduate of last October, is in Cerise's company, the letter pointed out. "Bill and I went through V-12, boot camp and Quantico together, and now we will fight together," Cerise said. "I hope we get to come back to Tech together."

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: A hurricane, I have observed, is one of the most difficult stories to cover, for newspaper or radio. There are good reasons for this. News sources, for the immediate stuff, are wiped out as the storm progresses. Wires are down. Wireless as the English call it, or radio, as we call it, depends upon wires, just as the printing presses do.

The hurricane is an erratic storm not obeying house rules, as does the tornado, with which I was so familiar in my Kansas days that I could make any reasonable tornado eat out of my hand.

Many of my readers live in territory that was hit much harder than was New York by the latest September hurricane. But I read the New York papers and listened to the radio, and I learned almost nothing about the sweep of the storm as it affected customers in Charleston, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Technical difficulties wrap such a news story up in thick woolens.

The spot that's being punished this minute is of slight interest by the time the story can be got from that spot and either printed or talked on the air.

The storm is moving forward. Interest, then, is in the spot that may be hit next, especially since you can get news from there, and you can't get anything out of a blacked-out community, where there are no wires working.

For instance: In the 1938 hurricane, Providence was one of the towns hardest hit. It was knocked groggy. We had a daughter whom I had to drive up there for the opening of her sophomore year in college.

But there's been a hurricane, I explained. Maybe we'd better not start.

Hurricane my eye! Can I be late to class on account of that?

We read the papers; listened to the radio. We knew about Providence when we got there, some days later. And we wished we had stayed at home.

As I write this, we are still waiting for telephone service to resume, but electric light and power have been turned on.

New York and suburbs were hit a rather stinging blow, even though it was called the tail of the hurricane. It was a much naughtier lash of the tail than we got in 1938, so far as I have been able to survey the picture. There will be differences of opinion about this, depending upon how hard your own neighborhood was hit. B[illegible] the customers who live far from hu[illegible]ricane territory might like to he[illegible] after the writer has had plenty [illegible] time to get his breath, how a [illegible] storm affects New York and envir[illegible]

Here's a lesson for all cities: Of [illegible] five boros making up New York [illegible] one escaped, comparatively unsca[illegible] That's Manhattan.

Why? Because all wires are und[illegible]ground in Manhattan. Have been [illegible] many years. Overhead wires com[illegible]cate storm damage incalculably.

Brave New York thought: Instead [illegible] boon-doggling and leaf-raking, whe[illegible] peace and plentiful idleness descend upon us, why can't we have work putting all wires underground? Wouldn't it pay dividends in the long run?

Now, because, in my belief, nobody got a picture of the hurricane, I purpose to use up some space telling you about it from the standpoint of one customer in New York. While it will seem tame and inconsequential to many readers whose homes were blown away and families killed, it will be just a workaday report, after passage of time for reflection, upon how a severe storm affects a city that is not accustomed to violent weather.

Winter War?

It is now autumn, an extraordinary summer of blistering heat, of drouth, of hurricanes and of war having ended. The question uppermost in the minds of millions of persons is whether this will be another winter of war.

There have been high hopes of late that the war in Europe would end before snow falls. These hopes have their origin in the confident assurance of General Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery, both cautious men and well informed, and in the military picture as it has unfolded dramatically under the fierce impact of Allied attacks upon Germany from all directions.

These attacks have liberated France, carried Allied armies into Belgium, Holland and the Reich itself, destroyed Nazi domination of the Balkans, and driven far into the Baltic states and Poland. Now that German armies are defending German soil, however, there has been a marked change in the whole character of the war.

The mad flight of Germans has ended and a stand is being made. Concededly it is a stand of desperation by men who know their cause is lost but who are held at their grim and futile task by fear of the gestapo, and by the conviction, studiously cultivated by Goebbels and his propagandists, that unconditional surrender means their extermination.

Unfortunately, there seems to be in prospect a recurrence of old history. It was noted at the close of the first World War that 70 per cent of all American casualties occurred in the weeks after the German high command had advised the kaiser that the Germans could not win. While Wilhelm clung to hopes and clutched at straws, the casualty list mounted.

Allied troops are now meeting the most desperate German resistance in the war in Europe, a resistance which in fierceness and effectiveness provides substance for the fear of another winter of conflict. But it must not be overlooked that German ability to wage war has been crippled by casualties, by reduced production capacity, by limited resources and by shattered spirit.

VALOR AT ARNHEM

Every war produces its "thin red line," the breathtaking piece of heroism that stands out amid other epic deeds. In the last war the battered American Lost Battalion, trapped behind the enemy lines in the Argonne forest, held out five days and nights, without sleep and with little food, against all the enemy sent until reinforcements fought through to lift the siege.

Early in this war there was engrossed on the pages of history the valor of American stands on Wake and Bataan, and now at Arnhem British parachutists of the Allied First air-borne army defied superior Nazi forces and equipment and demands for surrender for almost two weeks.

A war correspondent with the encircled forces wrote in awed admiration that "the guts of these air-borne troops is wonderful," that the whole area was being shelled and mortared intensively and that the "medical corps is on the job around the clock." By Hitler's direction the cream of his SS troops were thrown into the battle. Tanks were brought up and heavy artillery. Still the trapped troops fought on to the end, hoping desperately for help during "heroic and horrible" days.

As part of the Allied plan to flank the Siegfried line and break through its right wing into northern Germany, the greatest air-borne operation of the war was decided upon. Its purpose was to seize vital bridges over Netherlands rivers and streams where the Rhine swings into Holland. Bad weather impaired air communications and air support. Food and ammunition ran low, and supplies dropped from planes fell often as not among the enemy.

The world will never forget the saga of the men whose courage and tenacity have written the epic of Arnhem.

LEOPOLD

All the world will listen with interest when London discloses what its future attitude toward King Leopold of Belgium is to be. When the Nazis invaded Belgium, the young king suspended hostilities in a manner that left the British forces vulnerable, leading to the Dunkerque evacuation.

London felt that he had let the Allies down and comparisons of him with his famous father were not complimentary to the young king. King Albert enacted one of the most heroic roles of the last war when he fought the Germans to the last ditch.

Apparently Leopold was made a prisoner by the Nazis and transported to Germany. At any rate, he has not been found in Belgium. But after the war he will no doubt turn up in Belgium seeking to resume the throne.

Observers believe he will ask the blessing of Britain, contending that he never signed an armistice and quit the war only because otherwise his armies would have been decimated.

DEMOBILIZATION IN BRITAIN

England awaits an important announcement about demobilization plans to be made by Labor Minister Ernest Bevin in parliament several days hence.

Popular expectation is that a cut in each of the three services will be proposed, with removal of men from each based on the "first-in-first-out" basis, with reservations. Overseas duty will count in the case of two men with equal service. A list of priority occupations is expected to cut a figure.

Because of the country's housing need, aggravated by bombings, building labor will get an early release.

Whatever became of the League of Nations?

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—It strikes me that a great many stars might do well to ponder the case of Bob Hope, who is going to emerge from this war period as one of the most idolized entertainers the world has ever known.

According to records, he has made personal appearances before more than 3,000,000 service men—approximately one-fourth of Uncle Sam's armed forces. In the present month alone, he was the subject of laudatory articles in Life, Reader's Digest, Magazine Digest, Time, Click and Pic. Thirteen syndicates sent out lengthy stories about his activities. No star in the history of show business has ever had such an enormous volume of favorable publicity. Judged from a cold business standpoint, it is worth millions of dollars.

Hope has earned every single line of it by doing a magnificent, unselfish job. That's why it's good publicity; it's based strictly on facts; it contains no exaggerations.

There are dozens of stars in Hollywood who had the same opportunities that Bob had, at the start of the war. Their picture commitments were no more of a handicap than his. But they've been content to give half-heartedly, if at all, of their time and effort, while he has given almost every minute, often driving himself to the limit of his endurance.

I'm 100 per cent sure that he has never given a thought to professional rewards, therefore he can't be begrudged them. And before envying him, every star in this town should carefully examine his own conscience and ask himself why he missed the boat.

For several years, Hollywood producers have been toiling to capture the Latin-American film markets and on the whole, doing a mighty poor job of it. Nine-tenths of the pictures they've whipped up, for the express purpose of wooing fans down yonder, have been musicals with frothy, absurd plots. Hollywood's decision to concentrate on that type of entertainment apparently is based on a conviction that Latin-American audiences are too child-like in their entertainment tastes to appreciate anything more involved than color, movement and pictorial beauty. The net result has been dismal failure; Mexicans and South Americans have been insulted more often than they've been pleased.

Now comes the pay-off. The other day Cantinflas, the famous Mexican star, was guest of honor at a Hollywood press luncheon. Asked about Mexico's reception of America-made picture, he named, as the most popular film of the year, "Madame Curie," a production that disappointed at the American box-office because it was "too profound!"

Speaking of "Madame Curie," I'm reminded of one of my pet peeves—the fact that Walter Pidgeon continues to be sacrificed on the altar of Greer Garson's glory. I have no brief against Miss Garson; on the contarary, I consider her one of the finest actresses on the screen. But Pidgeon is fully her equal and I hate to see him go on indefinitely playing second fiddle when he's actually a first violinist. It's high time for MGM bosses to recognize this fact and give him a chance to shine on his own.

As a born Southerner, I'm amused by the report that Lena Horne's studio bosses asked Motion Picture Magazine to use a cover portrait of the sepia star, in order "to test reaction in the South." Miss Horne is a great entertainer and I'll gamble that nowhere in America does she have more fans than south of the Mason-Dixon line, where people are quick to appreciate fine showmanship. It's astonishing that men in an industry which serves all of America should know so little about the sentiments in a large part of the country.

Since my attacks, in this column, on the use of the screen for propagandizing party politics, I've been swamped with reports of specific instances. The most chucklesome is told by James Newcom, currently editing the picture. "Guest in the House." In 1924, when Coolidge was the Republican candidate, Newcom was a newsreel editor. President Coolidge had just been photographed on one of his famous fishing trips. The day before the film was to be released, one of the party kingpins called on the company to ask if there was any chance of changing the picture. Newcom bridled instantly, suspecting an invasion of Journalistic freedom. "What kind of a change?" he demanded. "Well," said the visitor, "Mr. Coolidge didn't catch a fish. Can't you insert a closeup of one and make him look a little better?"

BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Mrs. Henry McLemore

Dear Henry—No letters from you in a long time now. The last news that I had of your whereabouts was an A. P. dispatch saying you were in the invasion of the island of Morotai. Another story said that General MacArthur was there too. As you know, four-star Gen. Elizabeth Eastman and I run the war from here and every day we mark the progress that our armies have made on a big map on the dining room wall. So, next to Morotai we printed, "This island captured by S/Sgt. Henry McLemore with assistance from D. MacArthur."

You'll never guess what, Henry. I had a letter from the syndicate asking me to come to New York for a business conference. I've never felt more important in my life. I'm writing to everyone and telling them to call me at the syndicate office in New York next week and I intend to bribe Miss Archer to say this when anyone calls: "Mrs. McLemore is in conference now but she will call you when she is free." Ha, that will startle everybody, won't it?

Ever since I knew I was going to New York next week I've been in a dizzy, senior grade, trying to get ready to go. I make endless lists that read like this: Call and stop newspapers. Remember leave note in milk bottle. Turn off ice box. Turn off hot water heater. Be sure light in linen closet is turned off. Remember take Cindy's food and leash and comb to Dad's. Remember take curlers, bobby pins and last box of Klennex. Remember leave key to the garage in same place so Willy can find it and mow lawn.

As you know from years back, I make out lists and remember practically everything except the Maine. Then, as you also know, I usually lose the lists before I've accomplished anything written on them.

I lost my third list yesterday and it made me so mad to think of all the time and trouble I had taken to type those lists out in such detail that I made out what I said to myself was simply a little "reminder" list and that would be all that I'd need. I scribbled it down on the back of an envelope and I haven't lost the "Caps" one. Indeed not. It's right on front of me and although only 24 hours have elapsed since I wrote it I can't make any more sense out of it than you can. Here are the first few items. TELL DU FO. RE STE NE. RE T G. (I finally figured that one out. It means remember take gloves.)

Honey, it's going to be a mighty funny feeling to go back to New York without you. There will be a thousand things to remind me of the early days of our marriage when we were so broke and so many things happened that almost got us down. Do you remember how we used to shake hands and say—"If the year in New York doesn't mow us under, nothing else ever can."—Well, it didn't, and I know in my heart that nothing is going to get you down out where you are.

I mailed you three more Christmas boxes today and they contain a lovely assortment of curios from the south Pacific which I was fortunate enough to be able to buy from a soldier who just got back from there. Now if you can just manage to send me a box of oranges for Christmas—

All my love,
Jean

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Matthew 4:1-11; 6:24-34; Luke 4:16-21

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

A program for meeting life's problems is a large order; but Jesus in His teachings and example has met it in a large way. The passages suggested for study offer guiding principles to help us in the immediate questions and problems that arise from day to day.

The story of the temptations of Jesus directly implies that the first and major problem that has to be faced is that of basic decision. What sort of life is ours going to be? Do we most want to be true and right, or are we more concerned about worldly success in money, power, or some satisfaction of our vanity? Jesus had to face these temptations, and so has everyone, directly or indirectly.

Men of very different sorts have had to make commanding, crucial decisions as to the sort of life they intended to live. Neither John Stuart Mill nor Thomas Carlyle was religious or Christian in the conventional sense yet both men recorded decisions in early life that one of them compared to the experience of "Methodist conversion."

There is not much chance of satisfactorily solving any of life's problems until that major and basic problem is solved. Perhaps the greatest loss in the passing of the older type of evangelism is the lack of the crucial decisions that were the vital and climactic aspect of the great campaigns of evangelists like D. L. Moody. It is this lack that leaves so many lives weak and floundering, and that marks the lives of many church members as futile and unfruitful in the religion they profess.

Compare the lives of the many church members who go to church when they feel like it, with the life of a real Christian who has made the service of God and his fellowmen the supreme thing in his life, and not a matter of whim, mood, or convenience. The kingdom of God and its choice is the first thing in life, according to Jesus. If you want to solve life's problems, get your life itself right at its very source.

A second thing is the attainment of faith, and trust in God. No life can be strong that is marked by doubt, distrust, or worry. Tennyson in "In Memoriam" wrote of his friend, Arthur Hallam, who fought his doubts and gathered strength," but there is no strength in persistent negative doubt. So also, there never was a situation, no matter how bad, that worry made in the least degree better. Yet faith is not always easy, and we would be less than human if we did not worry when things go wrong. We must learn in the school of the Master if we would attain the fulness of faith, and learn to live above worry, putting all our strength into making bad situations better, instead of allowing them to depress and conquer us.

And the third element of strength in solving life's problems is in learning and practicing the lesson of service to others. Jesus said the spirit of the Lord was upon Him because, in the language of the prophet Isaiah, He was annointed to preach the gospel to the poor, to heal the brokenhearted, and to fulfill all the rest of that great commission.

The words may change, but the substance remains. Every age and situation needs those who will love and serve. It is often the way of sacrifice, and sometimes of hardship. But those who have taken that way have found that, in helping to solve the problems of others, they have gone far toward solving their own.

While the War Labor Board is conducting its public hearings on petitions of labor organizations to break the Little Steel Formula, it will be confronted with pleas that the issue be settled on the basis of the union's specific demands, and not on the basis of some trick new theory, setting up a postwar wage policy, or as a political football to be kicked around till after the election.

Labor leaders are beginning to infer that they are finding it more and more difficult to hold their unions in line. The wage issue has been around since last November, and at recent union conventions the leaders had a hard time keeping the rank and file from voting to abandon the no-strike pledge. Three times the repeal of that pledge barely escaped passage at the Auto Workers' convention, and it is still to be decided by a referendum of the more than a million members in this biggest union in the world. The Rubber Workers' convention also had a close call because some of their biggest locals wanted to repeal the pledge. By some standards, the United Mine Workers have already broken the pledge through their countenancing of strikes of supervisory employes. And so it goes.

'Powerhouse' Backs Move

Unions now involved in demands to break the Little Steel Formula include the entire A. F. of L., and the C. I. O., the Steelworkers, the Electrical, Aluminum, Glass, Auto, Packinghouse and Shipyard workers. It is far and away the most potent labor pressure group ever to marshal its forces behind a single demand—"defrosting of frozen wages," as it is called by Editor Len DeCaux of the C. I. O. News.

In this particular, the administration finds itself on a hot spot. Less than six months ago, marking the first anniversary of the president famous "hold the line" order of April 8, 1943, Director of Economic Stabilization Fred M. Vinson, Price Administrator Chester Bowles, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones and War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis issued a report to the president, bragging about how well the line had been held.

"The level of basic factory wage rates has been raised less than one and one-half cents an hour," said the report. "Wages have been stabilized.

"We must not jeopardize these gains by any change of policy or relaxation of effort in the critical months ahead," the report recommended towards the end. "The need for continued restraint and continued cooperation with every phase of the stabilization program is evident. Obviously, too, we should cling to the policies and machinery which have served us so effectively thus far."

Those are noble sentiments, but again the prophets of doom are predicting that if the Little Steel Formula is now to be broken, somebody is going to have to eat 'em.

New Wage Changes

Chairman Davis of WLB has indicated that the board might come up with recommendations for changes in wage policy different from the changes demanded by the labor unions. The inference in this important statement is that the board might be thinking more about preventing wage reductions after the war, when the economic objective will be to maintain purchasing power and consumption.

It is a question how satisfactory any such new formula—bending the Little Steel Formula without breaking it—would be to the labor leaders Steel Formula, the coal miners got portal-to-portal pay, the non-operating railroad brotherhoods got overtime, but these two groups got only minor adjustments in basic pay rates. What the present drive against the Little Steel Formula is all about is to get increases in basic pay rates on work weeks of 40 hours or less. Best indication of this trend came from the miners' convention in Cincinnati, when it was announced that they would ask for a dollar a day increase in basic pay, with adoption of the seven-hour day and five-day week in place of the nine-hour day and six-day week in force at present.

TECH ATHLETE IS NOW IN MARINES

RUSTON, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Pfc. Vic Cerise of New Orleans, a former Louisiana Tech athlete now serving somewhere out of San Francisco with a marine division, got one last glimpse of Ruston and Tech recently, but it wasn't as lingering a look as he would have preferred.

Advising that a train trip from Camp Lejeune, N. C., to the West Coast "brought me through the great little town of Ruston," Cerise wrote in a letter just received here:

"When you hear poeple say the marines move fast, believe them, for they are absolutely right. I had my head out of the window the whole time trying to see someone I knew, but as luck would have it, I didn't. I guess I shouldn't kick about not getting back on the campus before going overseas; I at least got one more look at the place."

Although Cerise was graduated from Tech at the end of the first trimester in 1943, he is planning on returning to Tech "for a while after this war."

William Maxwell of Haynesville, also a former Bulldog athlete and a Tech graduate of last October, is in Cerise's company, the letter pointed out. "Bill and I went through V-12, boot camp and Quantico together, and now we will fight together," Cerise said. "I hope we get to come back to Tech together."

New York Day By Day

Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: A hurricane, have observed, is one of the most difficult stories to cover, for newspaper or radio. There are good reasons fo this. News sources, for the immediate stuff, are wiped out as the storm progresses. Wires are down. Wireless as the English call it, or radio, as w call it, depends upon wires, just a the printing presses do.

The hurricane is an erratic storm not obeying house rules, as does the tornado, with which I was so familiar in my Kansas days that I could make any reasonable tornado eat out of my hand.

Many of my readers live in territory that was hit much harder than was New York by the latest September hurricane. But I read the New York papers and listened to the radio, and I learned almost nothing about the sweep of the storm as it affected customers in Charleston, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Technical difficulties wrap such a news story up in thick woolens.

The spot that's being punished this minute is of slight interest by the time the story can be got from that spot and either printed or talked on the air.

The storm is moving forward. Interest, then, is in the spot that may be hit next, especially since you can get news from there, and you can't get anything out of a blacked-out community, where there are no wires working.

For instance: In the 1938 hurricane, Providence was one of the towns hardest hit. It was knocked groggy. We had a daughter whom I had to drive up there for the opening of her sophomore year in college.

But there's been a hurricane, I explained. Maybe we'd better not start.

Hurricane my eye! Can I be late to class on account of that?

We read the papers; listened to the radio. We knew about Providence when we got there, some days later. And we wished we had stayed at home.

As I write this, we are still waiting for telephone service to resume, but electric light and power have been turned on.

New York and suburbs were hit a rather stinging blow, even though it was called the tail of the hurricane. It was a much naughtier lash of the tail than we got in 1938, so far as I have been able to survey the picture. There will be differences of opinion about this, depending upon how hard your own neighborhood was hit. But the customers who live far from hurricane territory might like to hear, after the writer has had plenty of time to get his breath, how a real storm affects New York and environs.

Here's a lesson for all cities: Of the five boros making up New York City, one escaped, comparatively unscathed. That's Manhattan.

Why? Because all wires are underground in Manhattan. Have been for many years. Overhead wires complicate storm damage incalculably.

Brave New York thought: Instead of boon-doggling and leaf-raking, when peace and plentiful idleness descend upon us, why can't we have work putting all wires underground? Wouldn't it pay dividends in the long run?

Now, because, in my belief, nobody got a picture of the hurricane, I purpose to use up some space telling you about it from the standpoint of one customer in New York. While it will seem tame and inconsequential to many readers whose homes were blown away and families killed, it will be just a workaday report, after passage of time for reflection, upon how a severe storm affects a city that is not accustomed to violent weather.

SEVERAL BICYCLES AT POLICE OFFICE

Police Chief B. L. Brantley last night said persons who have lost bicycles in recent months and failed to recover them should come by police headquarters to check over the several unclaimed bicycles that are cluttering up the police department's store room.

Persons who have lost bicycles which may be in those held by police may obtain them by properly identifying their property. Most of the bicycles in possession of police have been found over a period of time, some of them having been abandoned for some time in localities where residents suspected the "wheels" were stolen and called police.

OIL WELL RUMOR PROVES ERRONEOUS

A rumor that the huge gas well brought in last week by the Shell Petroleum Company in Caldwell parish, just south of the Ouachita parish line, had blown in as an oil producer yesterday proved erroneous, according to information from Caldwell parish.

It was stated by an official of the Louisiana Central Lumber Company of Clarks, owner of the tract, that a leaky valve, with which the well was first closed in, had been removed in order to install another valve, and that the well had been permitted to "run wild" for several hours. The noise of the roaring well could be heard for several miles, it was said, and it was this that led to the rumor that the well had blown in as an oil producer.

Proclamation

Once again we have the opportunity to demonstrate our prowess as a community of learning and culture. This situation is brought about through the efforts of the Monroe Civic Music Association to sponsor, on a cooperative, nonprofit basis, a series of fine concerts for Monroe, West Monroe and surrounding communities this winter. The opportunity being offered to the citizenry is to further develop the civic and cultural life of our community.

Because we acknowledge good music as a slight relaxation from our constant driving efforts to win this war, because we understand the emotional inspiration derived from good music, because we appreciate the necessity for such an international language, because the United States of America must undoubtedly become the post-war world music capital, because it is now our country's duty among the firmament of nations to keep music and the fine arts alive, and because we want our community to take the lead in all activities which will make our country an example for the rest of the world to follow, we, Harvey H. Benoit, Mayor of Monroe, and D. C. Golson, Mayor of West Monroe, do declare the week of October 2nd to October 7th, inclusive, to be recognized as "Civic Music Week" in Monroe and West Monroe.

SEVERAL BICYCLES AT POLICE OFFICE

Police Chief B. L. Brantley last night said persons who have lost bicycles in recent months and failed to recover them should come by police headquarters to check over the several unclaimed bicycles that are cluttering up the police department's store room.

Persons who have lost bicycles which may be in those held by police may obtain them by properly identifying their property. Most of the bicycles in possession of police have been found over a period of time, some of them having been abandoned for some time in localities where residents suspected the "wheels" were stolen and called police.

Proclamation

Once again we have the opportunity to demonstrate our prowess as a community of learning and culture. This situation is brought about through the efforts of the Monroe Civic Music Association to sponsor, on a cooperative, nonprofit basis, a series of fine concerts for Monroe, West Monroe and surrounding communities this winter. The opportunity being offered to the citizenry is to further develop the civic and cultural life of our community.

Because we acknowledge good music as a slight relaxation from our constant driving efforts to win this war, because we understand the emotional inspiration derived from good music, because we appreciate the necessity for such an international language, because the United States of America must undoubtedly become the post-war world music capital, because it is now our country's duty among the firmament of nations to keep music and the fine arts alive, and because we want our community to take the lead in all activities which will make our country an example for the rest of the world to follow, we, Harvey H. Benoit, Mayor of Monroe, and D. C. Golson, Mayor of West Monroe, do declare the week of October 2nd to October 7th, inclusive, to be recognized as "Civic Music Week" in Monroe and West Monroe.

We should be strictly honest, one with another, and with all men; let our word always be as good as our bond; avoid all ostentation of pride and vanity; and be meek, lowly, and humble; be full of integrity and honor; and deal justly and righteously with all men; and have the fear and love of God continually before us, and seek for the comforting influence of the Holy Ghost to dwell with us. When you have finished year earthly probation, can you be presented to the Lord without spot or blemish, a pure and honorable representative of the church and kingdom of God on the earth; will you inherit a celestial glory in the kingdom of God? Think about all those little things you do and see if the Lord would approve of them all.

OIL WELL RUMOR PROVES ERRONEOUS

A rumor that the huge gas well brought in last week by the Shell Petroleum Company in Caldwell parish, just south of the Ouachita parish line, had blown in as an oil producer yesterday proved erroneous, according to information from Caldwell parish.

It was stated by an official of the Louisiana Central Lumber Company of Clarks, owner of the tract, that a leaky valve, with which the well was first closed in, had been removed in order to install another valve, and that the well had been permitted to "run wild" for several hours. The noise of the roaring well could be heard for several miles, it was said, and it was this that led to the rumor that the well had blown in as an oil producer.

to be used almost exclusively for war orders; virtual elimination of all orders controlling metal products; and simplification of those regulations which must remain in force.

The following seven proposals are the essence of the report:

1. Replacement of present priorities with the single M. M. rating, which will include military lend-lease orders as well as direct military work.

2. Continuation of the emergency AAA priority rating, to be used only for breaking serious military or civilian production bottlenecks.

3. Authorization—on the day of Germany's surrender—for steel, copper and aluminum mills to deliver those materials without "CMP tickets" (allotments under the controlled materials plan), and complete elimination of CMP as soon as practicable thereafter.

4. A shift to the new priority policy which will cause a minimum of paper work and reshuffling of production schedules.

5. The revocation of about 100 of the 200 orders applying to chemicals, textiles and forest products; and the revocation of 250 of the remaining 500 orders. The remaining 150 regulations will be "greatly simplified." Those controlling metal products will be practically eliminated.

(Actually, WPB has about 700 orders in force, if schedules attached to some of the regulations and having the force of separate orders are counted. Thus calculated, about 500 orders and schedules will be dropped.)

6. Maintenance of "a full kit of tools" for emergency use. WPB will retain some controls over allocation and scheduling, maintain its organization and field staff; and continue "A compact group of industry divisions staffed by men with industrial know-how"; and continue its contact with business and labor through the industry and labor advisory committees.

7. A requirement that business furnish sufficient information on orders and schedules to permit prompt remedial action if trouble develops.

in such terrible shape from Italy-based Allied bombers and the steady blows of skilled Yugoslav and Allied saboteurs that the Germans have little chance of getting the bulk of their divisions out of the lower Balkans.

From Orsova, west Romanian town where the northern Soviet wing crossed the Danube, it is 350 miles to the Adriatic coast. The southern Hungarian border lies less than 150 miles to the northwest, and the Red army columns pushing on that last big wavering Axis satellite now are astride both banks of the Danube, which leads into Budapest.

Although Moscow still was silent for the fourth day after the Germans announced a Russian-Romanian crossing into southeastern Hungary, a Budapest communique announced that the Red army had captured Mako, three miles inside the pre-war Magyar frontier, threatening the Tisza river stronghold of Szeged, 15 miles to the west.

Soviet spearheads also drove seven miles north of Mako and reached Foldeak, only 100 miles from Budapest, the Hungarian bulletin said. Other Red army and Romanian units had crossed the frontier at various points between Szeged and Salonta, 80 miles to the northeast, it added.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Second Ukraine army commander, whose troops forced Romania to quit the war and join the Allies, was in charge of the entry into Yugoslavia and Hungary, while Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, Third Ukraine army leader, was deploying his troops along the Bulgarian-Yugoslav frontier to roll up the Germans in the south. Tolbukhin's forces also have crossed into Greece, unofficial reports said.

In southern Poland Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukraine army of Alpine contingents advanced along the Czechoslovak border in the threat to northern Hungary, capturing seven places during the day.

GERMANS WILL

(2) ruthless elimination of German domination of Europe's economy.

The present morale condition of the German people—as distinguished from their Nazi leaders—is widely reported to be one of hopelessness born of helplessness.

The British information services' weekly war commentary said today that "one of the most significant manifestations inside Germany is that Himmler's Gestapo is being seriously hindered in its work by public indifference which has caused a slump in the denunciation of (anti-Nazi) suspects."

But the British statement cautions that the German people still obey orders.

which have enrollment of 20,000 and a faculty of 800.

The field that the dean is to enter is not a new one as for years he has been interested in junior college work and the development of the most practicable courses to suit the needs of the fast expanding educational systems. He was in charge of a junior college clinic at the University of Texas the past summer. This was attended for six weeks by presidents of junior colleges from many states.

Dean Colvert was born in Vesey, Texas, Sept. 29, 1899. His parents removed to Eagle Mills, Ark., in 1905 and young Colvert in course of time was graduated at the University of Arkansas with a B. S. Degree in 1929. He received his Master's degree a year later, and later still did a year's graduate work at Louisiana State University. He received his doctor's degree at Peabody College.

He came to Monroe from Central College, Conway, Ark., where he was dean, to become president of the newly-created Ouachita Parish Junior College in Monroe. This institution, headed by him, first opened in September, 1931. In 1934 the institution's name was changed and it was taken over and operated as Northeast Center of Louisiana State University. The presiding official then became instead of president, dean of the institution. He has retained this title to the present time.

This institution has been from the outset highly popular and has made a contribution to the educational systems of this section that can not be fully estimated. A large number of young men and women from 12 to 15 parishes have in the past attended Northeast Junior College.

Dean and Mrs. Colvert have both been active in civic and church affairs as well as in educational circles. He has been active in the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club, president of Monroe Town Hall, and has given time and effort to the Monroe Civic Music Association and to the Community Chest. He also is one of the most active members of the First Baptist Church.

He is a member of the Louisiana Teachers' Association, Louisiana College Conference, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Tau Pi, Phi Delta Kappa and is a life member of the National Educational Association. He is author of a book on the public junior college curriculum, published in 1939. He has written extensively for the professional journals on the junior college movement, and has held numerous offices in regional and national associations.

the probable duration of the war there. That is Moscow. Neither Stalin nor any other accredited Soviet spokesman has had a recent say on that. Events in the east from the Baltic to the Danube gateways to the Balkans indicate that Russian thought on that point will be said in action, not words.

There was every indication, reflected even in Nazi broadcast threats, that the double-headed Russian campaign in the Carpathian passes and in Romania and now Yugoslavia, was shaking Hungary's insecure Nazi alignment foundations.

A junction of Russian northern and southern forces debauching into the Hungarian plain would probably trap substantial Nazi and Hungarian forces still holding the Carpathian-Transylvanian Alps far in the rear of Red Western spearhead columns. It would also quickly release heavy Russian forces for use elsewhere.

Russian mopping-up operations in the Baltic states have the same potential.

Russian and Allied forces are poised virtually equidistant from Berlin, just over 300 airline miles, on the Neder Rhine in the west and at Pultusk, north of Warsaw, and already across the Narew in the east.

Of the two attacks that from the east is probably more immediately filled with extreme danger for the foe. That is where the greatest German army mass still is concentrated.

LIGHTHOUSE PLANS OLD TIME GOSPEL

border turned to snow in the Vosges foothills, where the Seventh was making gains of up to three miles in the face of concentrations of artillery and rocket fire.

(The Berlin radio said the center of fighting still was on this front and acknowledged that breaches in the German lines northwest of Belfort had been widened.)

German patrols were aggressive in the face of the Seventh's advance, and the enemy was giving every indication of making a fierce stand in the Vosges.

While the Americans held frontal positions 11 miles west of Belfort at the village of Clairegoutte, French units in a three-mile gain to the north fought up to the entrance of the foothill pass at Chevastray, nine miles northwest of Belfort. They also took Belfahy, two miles north.

Other Seventh army units struck up to another secondary pass at Bruvelliers, well to the north and within 18 miles of one of the four major Vosges passes at Le Bonhomme.

The battle for Rambervillers, a road center 22 miles southeast of Nancy thundered on the Seventh in a two-mile gain captured St. Gorgon, one-mile south of the town and 21 miles west of the Vosges pass of Saales. A communique said the Seventh here was pushing east on a five-mile front.

North of Belfore the Germans were driven back after a counterattack west of Le Thillot, which itself is only seven miles from Russang pass, another gateway through the Vosges to the Rhine.

The American First army feeling out the Siegfried line was hampered by weather as wet and almost as cold but it was inching its way through pillboxes southwest of Prum and eight miles inside Germany.

The American attack spread from the Sittard area north of the besieged frontier industrial city of Aachen southward to near the German-Luxembourg border, and the communique reported "limited progress."

The doughboys hammered against Hurtgen, 14 miles southeast of Aachen, apparently with little success, but far to the south they cleared the Germans from the Luxembourg border towns of Wesserbillig and Monpach, six miles west of Trier, where they also are across the enemy's frontier.

The doughboys in northern France captured Haute-Kontz, near where the borders of France, Luxembourg and Germany's Saar come together. German patrols probed the First army front, looking for a developing American attack.

The Germans were even more sensitive, however, about the disposition of the Third army, whose arching lines 18 to 20 miles northeast of Nancy were thrust within 20 miles of the Saar basin, with its industry and coal mines.

They were slugging toe-to-toe with Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's forces on the Lorraine plain, without regard to the tak losses which in 48 hours have totalled as many as ordinarily equip a panzer division.

JACKSON AREA MAY BECOME 'CRITICAL'

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Jackson area may be classified in Group One (critical) manpower area unless workers discontinue leaving jobs with essential war employers and securing employment without referral by the United States Employment Service, the Jackson area management labor committee of the War Manpower commission announced today.

Areas where labor demands exceed the visible supply for the ensuing two month period are classified "critical," the announcement added. Communities in this group are prevented from receiving new contracts and existing contracts may be cut back.

"The Jackson area is faced with the most critical manpower problems since the beginning of the war," the committee said. "The 54 larger essential war plants in the Jackson area will need more than 1,600 workers for expansion in order to meet their production schedule during the next 30 days."

The committee asked war workers to remain on their present job.

It also urged Mississippians to recruit the necessary manpower for vital war plants now behind in production.

Employers were asked to cooperate with the local employment service.

to be used almost exclusively for war orders; virtual elimination of all orders controlling metal products; and simplification of those regulations which must remain in force.

The following seven proposals are the essence of the report:

1. Replacement of present priorities with the single M. M. rating, which will include military lend-lease orders as well as direct military work.

2. Continuation of the emergency AAA priority rating, to be used only for breaking serious military or civilian production bottlenecks.

3. Authorization—on the day of Germany's surrender—for steel, copper and aluminum mills to deliver those materials without "CMP tickets" (allotments under the controlled materials plan), and complete elimination of CMP as soon as practicable thereafter.

4. A shift to the new priority policy which will cause a minimum of paper work and reshuffling of production schedules.

5. The revocation of about 100 of the 200 orders applying to chemicals, textiles and forest products; and the revocation of 250 of the remaining 300 orders. The remaining 150 regulations will be "greatly simplified." Those controlling metal products will be practically eliminated.

(Actually, WPB has about 700 orders in force, if schedules attached to some of the regulations and having the force of separate orders are counted. Thus calculated, about 500 orders and schedules will be dropped.)

6. Maintenance of "a full kit of tools" for emergency use. WPB will retain some controls over allocation and scheduling, maintain its organization and field staff; and continue "A compact group of industry divisions staffed by men with industrial know-how"; and continue its contact with business and labor through the industry and labor advisory committees.

7. A requirement that business furnish sufficient information on orders and schedules to permit prompt remedial action if trouble develops.

in such terrible shape from Italy-based Allied bombers and the steady blows of skilled Yugoslav and Allied saboteurs that the Germans have little chance of getting the bulk of their divisions out of the lower Balkans.

From Orsova, west Romanian town where the northern Soviet wing crossed the Danube, it is 350 miles to the Adriatic coast. The southern Hungarian border lies less than 150 miles to the northwest, and the Red army columns pushing on that last big wavering Axis satellite now are astride both banks of the Danube, which leads into Budapest.

Although Moscow still was silent for the fourth day after the Germans announced a Russian-Romanian crossing into southeastern Hungary, a Budapest communique announced that the Red army had captured Mako, three miles inside the pre-war Magyar frontier, threatening the Tisza river stronghold of Szeged, 15 miles to the west

Soviet spearheads also drove seven miles north of Mako and reached Foldeak, only 100 miles from Budapest, the Hungarian bulletin said. Other Red army and Romanian units had crossed the frontier at various points between Szeged and Salonta, 80 miles to the northeast, it added.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Second Ukraine army commander, whose troops forced Romania to quit the war and join the Allies, was in charge of the entry into Yugoslavia and Hungary, while Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, Third Ukraine army leader, was deploying his troops along the Bulgarian-Yugoslav frontier to roll up the Germans in the south. Tolbukhin's forces also have crossed into Greece, unofficial reports said.

In southern Poland Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukraine army of Alpine contingents advanced along the Czechoslovak border in the threat to northern Hungary, capturing seven places during the day.

(2) ruthless elimination of German domination of Europe's economy.

The present morale condition of the German people—as distinguished from their Nazi leaders—is widely reported to be one of hopelessness born of helplessness.

The British information services' weekly war commentary said today that "one of the most significant manifestations inside Germany is that Himmler's Gestapo is being seriously hindered in its work by public indifference which has caused a slump in the denunciation of (anti-Nazi) suspects."

But the British statement cautions that the German people still obey orders.

which have enrollment of 20,000 and a faculty of 800.

The field that the dean is to enter is not a new one as for years he has been interested in junior college work and the development of the most practicable courses to suit the needs of the fast expanding educational systems. He was in charge of a junior college clinic at the University of Texas the past summer. This was attended for six weeks by presidents of junior colleges from many states.

Dean Colvert was born in Vesey, Texas, Sept. 29, 1899. His parents removed to Eagle Mills, Ark., in 1905 and young Colvert in course of time was graduated at the University of Arkansas with a B. S. Degree in 1929. He received his Master's degree a year later, and later still did a year's graduate work at Louisiana State University. He received his doctor's degree at Peabody College.

He came to Monroe from Central College, Conway, Ark., where he was dean, to become president of the newly-created Ouachita Parish Junior College in Monroe. This institution, headed by him, first opened in September, 1931. In 1934 the institution's name was changed and it was taken over and operated as Northeast Center of Louisiana State University. The presiding official then became instead of president, dean of the institution. He has retained this title to the present time.

This institution has been from the outset highly popular and has made a contribution to the educational systems of this section that can not be fully estimated. A large number of young men and women from 12 to 15 parishes have in the past attended Northeast Junior College.

Dean and Mrs. Colvert have both been active in civic and church affairs as well as in educational circles. He has been active in the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club, president of Monroe Town Hall, and has given time and effort to the Monroe Civic Music Association and to the Community Chest. He also is one of the most active members of the First Baptist Church.

He is a member of the Louisiana Teachers' Association, Louisiana College Conference, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Tau Pi, Phi Delta Kappa and is a life member of the National Educational Association. He is author of a book on the public junior college curriculum, published in 1939. He has written extensively for the professional journals on the junior college movement, and has held numerous offices in regional and national associations.

the probable duration of the war there. That is Moscow. Neither Stalin nor any other accredited Soviet spokesman has had a recent say on that. Events in the east from the Baltic to the Danube gateways to the Balkans indicate that Russian thought on that point will be said in action, not words.

There was every indication, reflected even in Nazi broadcast threats, that the double-headed Russian campaign in the Carpathian passes and in Romania and now Yugoslavia, was shaking Hungary's insecure Nazi alignment foundations.

A junction of Russian northern and southern forces debauching into the Hungarian plain would probably trap substantial Nazi and Hungarian forces still holding the Carpathian-Transylvanian Alps far in the rear of Red Western spearhead columns. It would also quickly release heavy Russian forces for use elsewhere.

Russian mopping-up operations in the Baltic states have the same potential.

Russian and Allied forces are poised virtually equidistant from Berlin, just over 300 airline miles, on the Neder Rhine in the west and at Palutsk, north of Warsaw, and already across the Narew in the east.

Of the two attacks that from the east is probably more immediately filled with extreme danger for the foe. That is where the greatest German army mass still is concentrated.

By Jack Hand

EW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—It kes no difference whether the ers or Browns are the rivals, the Louis Cardinals are the betting rite in the 40th World Series ning at Sportsman's park Wednes- but the American League entry he "people's choice."

ttling neck and neck down the erican League stretch in a race cannot be settled until the end of season tomorrow, St. Louis and roit have captured the fancy of average fan with support about evenly divided.

Luke Sewell's Brownies, who went out and won their first nine starts after being overlooked in the preseason picking, have been the big surprise of the 1944 campaign. Although it was openly predicted they would find themselves in over their heads by mid-season, they refused to be ousted except for a 15-day interlude in May, until they had their first real slump during the final eastern tour in August.

Counted out once again when the Yankees went into first place, the Browns refused to give up and caught the New Yorkers, only to be passed by the Tigers but stuck right to their coat tails and went into a tie for the lead again Friday night.

Detroit's followers have not had as long to gloat but they are more rabid because of the spectacular rise of their favorites since Dick Wakefield joined the seventh place club on July 13.

If a tie results in the junior loop, the Browns will head for Detroit Sunday night for the first playoff game in the league's history Monday while the Cardinals are riding the train home from New York.

Big Mort Cooper looms as the probable opening game starter for the National League champs but neither Steve O'Neill nor Sewell is able to go beyond today's games.

If the Cards and Browns play, there will be action every day without a letup starting Wednesday unless a seventh tilt is necessary. In that event there will be an off day October 10 to allow sale of tickets. If it's Detroit, the Cards will be at home Wednesday, Thursday and Friday then an off day for travel with the opener in Detroit Sunday, October 8, followed by every day play with the same exception if a seventh game is necessary.

Umpires Ziggy Sears and Tom Dunn of the National and Bill McGowan and George Pipgras of the American have been named and eligible player lists announced show 25 Brown players listed, 23 Tigers and 22 Cards.

Southworth will field a tested championship club that startled the baseball world two years ago by outspeeding the heavily favored Yankees and then amazed the same fans with reverse english by winning only one of five in losing the title to the New Yorkers last fall.

Of the 1943 Cards Harry Walker, Lou Klein, Al Brazle, Murry Dickson, Spud Krist, Ernie White, Harry Gumbert and George Munger are gone although Munger was around long enough to compile an 11-3 win record before he entered the service on July 11. Gumbert had a 4-2 mark when he was sold to Cincinnati June 15.

Emil Verban, a rookie from Columbus, is the only newcomer in the infield and Johnny Hopp has replaced Walker in center field. Ted Wilks, Syl Donnelly, Al Jurisich, Fred Schmidt and Bud Byerly are pitching additions, although Wilks is the only newcomer due for a starting berth in the series. Southworth probably will depend on Cooper, Wilks, Harry Brecheen and Max Lanier, unless the latter is troubled by his ailing shoulder.

The American League has a 24-15 edge in series titles and the National has won only three times in the last 10 years, two of the victories going to the Cards in 1934 and 1942.

PURDUE SCORES 40-7 WIN OVER MARQUETTE

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Coach Cecil Isbell's power-laden Purdue Boilermakers, spotting Marquette to a touchdown in the opening four minutes of play before gaining possession of the ball, caught fire the rest of the way to defeat the Hilltoppers, 40 to 7, in their home football opener today.

The Boilermakers stormed 64 yards for a score in their first offensive series and turned the contest into a rout in the second stanza.

It was Isbell's big three, Halfbacks Boris DiMancheff and Chalmers (Bumps) Elliott and Fullback Ed Cody, who contributed the most to the collapse of a Marquette defense which had stopped Michigan cold the preceding week. Dimancheff scored once, Elliott twice.

TEXAS TRIUMPHS OVER SOUTHWESTERN, 20-0

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dashing Bobby Layne of Dallas gave the University of Texas a first period two-touchdown lead over Southwestern of Texas today but the Steers had to battle hard thereafter to win another for a 20 to 0 victory before 12,000 spectators.

Layne retired after the first half and only in the final minutes of the game was substituted. Leroy Anderson, a naval trainee from Pleasant Prairie, Wis., was able to reach paydirt for the Longhorns, going over from the four.

NAVY BEATEN BY PRE-FLIGHT, 21-14

Graham Leads Team In Stunning Upset Of Highly-Touted Middies

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 30.—(AP)—There was a mighty thud on the banks of the Severn today as North Carolina preflight's Cloudbusters smashed Navy's potentially great football machine, 21-14, to dispel any hopes the Middies may have had of unchallenged 1944 rule.

It was the passing wizardry and all-around brilliance of Otto Graham, Northwestern's one-time scourge of the Big Ten Conference, that brought about the Naby's downfall. All over the field Graham's No. 22 had been in the forefront—tackling, blocking, passing and running—but in the last three minutes he uncorked the play that sent his cloudbusters to victory.

Time was running out when he gathered Hal Hamberg's punt on the fliers' 30. Like a flash he was off, twisting, weaving and side-stepping. At Midfield, the Middies, en masse, hemmed him in, but cooly he turned and lateralled five yards back to Frank Aschenbrenner, who raced unmolested 55 yards for the winning touchdown. The extra point by Orban Sanders was an anti-climax.

The midshipmen, playing their first game under their new head coach, Commander Oscar E. Hagberg, got away to a 7-0 advantage in the first period when Bobby Jenkins led an 88-yard march across the fliers' goal. The payoff was Jenkins' pass to Ben Martin for 29 yards and the score. Vic Finos added the first of his two extra points.

Then Graham stepped into the picture and generalled an 85-yard march to tie the score in the second period.

After two minutes in the third period Joe Partington scooped up Jim Pettit's fumble on the cloudbusters' 45 and dashed untouched across Navy's goal to give the pre-flighters a 14-7 lead. Four minutes later Navy had tied it up as Bobby Jenkins ran the ball almost all the way in a 75-yard advance. A 25-yard run put it on the one-foot mark and Joe Sullivan smashed over.

Early in the fourth Navy penetrated the fliers' defense to the 18, with Ralph Ellsworth, last year's Texas star, leading the way, but the cloudbusters held and the game slowed until Graham caught fire in those last four minutes. Navy used a host of substitutes but there was a marked lack of precision and determination in the middies play throughout as Hal Hamberg, last year's star, sat on the bench most of the game.

ARMY OVERWHELMS N. CAROLINA, 46-0

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Army's power and T formation provided entirely too much for North Carolina today as the Cadets opened their season with a 46 to 0 victory.

Starting halfway through the first quarter, Army provided at least one touchdown in every period as a horde of fleet-footed backs raced through the overpowered Tarheel line or skirted around the ends on complicated plays that featured forward-lateral passing combinations. After the first few minutes it wasn't even a contest and the Cadets used nearly every play in the book and most of their players in running up the score.

Speedy Glenn Davis racked up three of the touchdowns, one on a 73-yard run that opened the third quarter, but it was hard to pick the best among the flock of Cadet ball carriers. Dale Hall, Max Minor, Doug Kenna, Dean Sensanbaugher and Felix Blanchard, who played for the North Carolina freshmen two years ago, all registered impressive gains. Kenna, Army's "mystery man" of the past two seasons, was used sparingly as a ball carrier but threw passes that resulted in three Army scores.

Outweighed and outplayed, the Tarheels managed to register a net gain of only 14 yards on running plays, as compared to Army's 334, and 21 yards on forward passes. Only on returning kickoffs, which they did eight times, could they gain much ground, averaging 22 yards.

Davis' 73-yard run, which came on a quick opening play through the Carolina line, was the most sensational scoring play but not far behind it was Blanchard's 60-yard sprint at the end of a forward-lateral from Davis and End Barney Poole. Pitzer's score on a similar three-man play. On the latter, Kenna forward-passed to Refalko, who ran some 25 yards to the Carolina 30. With three men trying to down him, Rafalko spun and tossed a lateral to Pitzer.

MISSISSIPPI STATE WINS FROM JACKSON, 41 TO 0

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Mississippi State opened the football season today and defeated Jackson Army Air Base team by 41-0 before 2,500 fans at Scott Field.

Using three full teams, Coach Allyn McKeen's Maroons scored in every quarter. The first string played less than half the game.

In the game approximately 18 minutes, "Shorty" McWilliams, running back, spearheading State's offense, scored three touchdowns, two on runs of 65 yards.

GEORGIA TECH WINS FROM CLEMSON, 51-0

ATLANTA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Taking to the air when stymied on the ground, a spirited Georgia Tech eleven lashed out in every quarter here today and opened their season with a 51-0 rout of Clemson.

Combining behind-the-line laterals with long passes and end sweeps, the Engineers ran the Tigers dizzy and scored in every quarter, despite the fact that Coach W. A. Alexander used every man he had available, 43 in all.

The Yellow Jackets, Sugar Bowl and Southeastern Conference champions, punched out 20 first downs to seven for the Tigers, and piled up 323 yards rushing as compared with Clemson's 95. In the air, Georgia Tech completed eight of 17 passes, one for a touchdown, while the Tigers connected with one in 14 attempts, good for 19 yards.

Clemson threatened only once, in the second period, driving 40 yards down to the Engineers' nine-yard line. Georgia Tech's second and third stringers held for downs.

Allen "Dinky" Bowen, Greenville, Miss., freshman, and Tex Ritter, a Nashville V-12, formerly with Vanderbilt, vied with Frank Broyles, of Decatur, a junior, for offensive honors.

Sherrod figured in four of the five Horned Frog touchdowns either with his passing or running, bringing visions of Davey O'Brien, the T. C. U. immortal of 1938, to adherents of the purple.

It was a game in which about everything imaginable happened from a tackle intercepting a pass for a touchdown to a punter catching his own blocked kick and running 20 yards. LIONS PREP FOR JONESBORO TILT

Coach Riser To Send Ouachita Eleven Through Paces This Week

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions, who played good football last week in holding Coach "Hoss" Garrett's Ruston Bearcats to a 18-6 triumph, will start practice Monday for an expected hard fight with Jonesboro-Hodge at Jonesboro next Friday night, Coach George Riser said Saturday.

The Tigers of Jonesboro-Hodge dropped their opener to Fair Park of Shreveport but rebounded fast, beating Plain Dealing the following week and trimming Neville here Friday night by a 13-6 count.

Marvin Moon and J. E Tripp, Ouachita ends, played outstanding ball against Ruston, both on offense and defense, and should be at top speed in the forth coming tilt. Bernard Duchesne at right tackle played his best game of the year, and Hargiss and Frey backed up the line well. Frey's blocking and punting was far above average. Fay Duchesne, a 15-year-old youngster, showed up well, and Maurice Rawls' defense work was excellent.

A great deal of work is in store for the Lions this week, Coach Riser said. Loose tackling was largely responsible for their downfall last week, and emphasis will be placed on this phase of their play during practice sessions before the Jonesboro-Hodge game. Coach Riser said reports indicate that the Tigers have several backs who are exceptionally fast and that more accurate tackling will be necessary if the Lions expect to hold the Jackson parish eleven.

GEORGIA PRE-FLIGHTERS BEAT SOUTH CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Georgia Navy Preflight's football forces drove 86 yards in the third period today to gain a tie and later in the same period shook loose a runner for 52 yards to defeat South Carolina 20 to 14.

The Skycrackers ground game, led by Frank Stanczack, ex-Lafayette star, spelled the difference in the teams.

The Preflighters had 12 first downs to the Gamecock's nine and ran up 156 yards rush to South Carolina's 65. Through air, South Carolina outgained the Sailors 165 yards to 115.

NOTRE DAME WHIPS PITTSBURGH, 58-0

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Notre Dame's Irish, striking with unexpected speed and power, today served notice they'll again be very much in the running for the mythical national collegiate title they won last year as they smothered the University of Pittsburgh's Panthers under a barrage of aerials and a varied running attack, 58-0.

The Irish, slow in getting their offense rolling, completely disintegrated the Panther defense as they rolled up 45 points in the second half to leave the crowd of 50,000 breathless.

Until the half, the Panthers had kept pace with Notre Dame's running attack, but even then had no defense against the passes of Joe Gasparella and Frank Dancewicz. Two of the aerials were good for touchdowns in the first half with Bob Kelley, 19-year-old Chicagoan, scoring both. The aerial attack took the ball into scoring position for a third marker, with Kelly going over from the four.

LITTLE CATAWBA WINS FROM V. M. I., 7 TO 6

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Catawba Indians came from behind in the tihrd quarter of a homecoming game with V. M. I. here today to snatch a 7-6 victory.

Charlie Gabriel, Catawba back, passed seven yards into the end zone to Corroll Bowen, who made a diving catch. Lamar Dorton was rushed into the game to try for an extra point and his placement barely went over the cross bar.

The Cadets had taken the lead on the first play after the kickoff opening the third quarter when Johnny Hodnett, 144-pound substitute quarterback, broke through the center of the Catawba line, dashed through the secondary, and outran the safetyman 67 yards for the touchdown.

THE HOME BOYS GET CHANCE WITH TRIBE

Sporting an all-Louisiana squad for the first time since the early days of the local junior college, the Indian football squad has completed two weeks of grid training in which offensive work has been the main objective.

Northeast Junior College has drawn its talent this year chiefly from Monroe, Bastrop, Rayville, Delhi and Columbia, much as the Indians did in the first years of the school in 1931 and 1932. Frenchie Couvillion is farthest from home. He lives at Bunkie.

In its hey-day the Tribe had drawn its players from all sections of the country with some of its greatest players coming from as far as California and Pennsylvania.

Coach James L. Malone, with little better than prep school talent to work with, yesterday expressed himself as "very well satisfied with progress in the offensive state of work up to date.

Next week more time will begin to be spent on defensive fundamentals, and several short scrimmages are in store to help develop both offense and defense.

A brief schedule of about six games is in the making for the Tribesmen, but it will be about another month before they open their planned campaign.

LIONS PREP FOR JONESBORO TILT

Coach Riser To Send Ouachita Eleven Through Paces This Week

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions, who played good football last week in holding Coach "Hoss" Garrett's Ruston Bearcats to a 18-6 triumph, will start practice Monday for an expected hard fight with Jonesboro-Hodge at Jonesboro next Friday night, Coach George Riser said Saturday.

The Tigers of Jonesboro-Hodge dropped their opener to Fair Park of Shreveport but rebounded fast, beating Plain Dealing the following week and trimming Neville here Friday night by a 13-6 count.

Marvin Moon and J. E Tripp, Ouachita ends, played outstanding ball against Ruston, both on offense and defense, and should be at top speed in the forth coming tilt. Bernard Duchesne at right tackle played his best game of the year, and Hargiss and Frey backed up the line well. Frey's blocking and punting was far above average. Fay Duchesne, a 15-year-old youngster, showed up well, and Maurice Rawls' defense work was excellent.

A great deal of work is in store for the Lions this week, Coach Riser said. Loose tackling was largely responsible for their downfall last week, and emphasis will be placed on this phase of their play during practice sessions before the Jonesboro-Hodge game. Coach Riser said reports indicate that the Tigers have several backs who are exceptionally fast and that more accurate tackling will be necessary if the Lions expect to hold the Jackson parish eleven.

GEORGIA PRE-FLIGHTERS BEAT SOUTH CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Georgia Navy Preflight's football forces drove 86 yards in the third period today to gain a tie and later in the same period shook loose a runner for 52 yards to defeat South Carolina 20 to 14.

The Skycrackers ground game, led by Frank Stanczack, ex-Lafayette star, spelled the difference in the teams.

The Preflighters had 12 first downs to the Gamecock's nine and ran up 156 yards rush to South Carolina's 65. Through air, South Carolina outgained the Sailors 165 yards to 115.

WRESTLING SHOW FOR THIS WEEK CANCELLED

There will be no wrestling card at Gus Kallio's Arena next Thursday night, the promoter announced last night.

Kallio said he had tentatively matched Jack Curtis with Fred Carone for the main event, but when Curtis called him yesterday and said he couldn't fulfill the engagement, he cancelled his entire show.

Kallio said the usual weekly shows would be resumed next week.

NOTRE DAME WHIPS PITTSBURGH, 58-0

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Notre Dame's Irish, striking with unexpected speed and power, today served notice they'll again be very much in the running for the mythical national collegiate title they won last year as they smothered the University of Pittsburgh's Panthers under a barrage of aerials and a varied running attack, 58-0.

The Irish, slow in getting their offense rolling, completely disintegrated the Panther defense as they rolled up 45 points in the second half to leave the crowd of 50,000 breathless.

Until the half, the Panthers had kept pace with Notre Dame's running attack, but even then had no defense against the passes of Joe Gasparella and Frank Dancewicz. Two of the aerials were good for touchdowns in the first half with Bob Kelley, 19-year-old Chicagoan, scoring both. The aerial attack took the ball into scoring position for a third marker, with Kelly going over from the four.

LITTLE CATAWBA WINS FROM V. M. I., 7 TO 6

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Catawba Indians came from behind in the tihrd quarter of a homecoming game with V. M. I. here today to snatch a 7-6 victory.

Charlie Gabriel, Catawba back, passed seven yards into the end zone to Corroll Bowen, who made a diving catch. Lamar Dorton was rushed into the game to try for an extra point and his placement barely went over the cross bar.

The Cadets had taken the lead on the first play after the kickoff opening the third quarter when Johnny Hodnett, 144-pound substitute quarterback, broke through the center of the Catawba line, dashed through the secondary, and outran the safetyman 67 yards for the touchdown.

THE HOME BOYS GET CHANCE WITH TRIBE

Sporting an all-Louisiana squad for the first time since the early days of the local junior college, the Indian football squad has completed two weeks of grid training in which offensive work has been the main objective.

Northeast Junior College has drawn its talent this year chiefly from Monroe, Bastrop, Rayville, Delhi and Columbia, much as the Indians did in the first years of the school in 1931 and 1932. Frenchie Couvillion is farthest from home. He lives at Bunkie.

In its hey-day the Tribe had drawn its players from all sections of the country with some of its greatest players coming from as far as California and Pennsylvania.

Coach James L. Malone, with little better than prep school talent to work with, yesterday expressed himself as "very well satisfied with progress in the offensive state of work up to date.

Next week more time will begin to be spent on defensive fundamentals, and several short scrimmages are in store to help develop both offense and defense.

A brief schedule of about six games is in the making for the Tribesmen, but it will be about another month before they open their planned campaign.

DETROIT AND ST. LOUIS WIN TO REMAIN IN TIE FOR LEAD

Browns Blank Yanks, 2-0, While Newhouser Hurls Tigers To Win

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Lefthander Hal Newhouser, carving out his 29th pitching victory of the season, set down the Washington Senators with eight hits today as the Detroit Tigers won their 17th game from the Nats, 7 to 3, holding a share of first place with St. Louis.

Newhouser, fanning seven, gave only four hits through the first eight innings and Stan Spence's 17th homer in the sixth was Washington's only run until the ninth.

The first four Nats to bat in the last inning singled as Newhouser based up, but the lanky southpaw got the next three in order to quell the uprising after two more runs had scored.

The Tigers got one run in the first with the aid of an error and another in the second on Paul Richards' double and Roger Cramer's single.

Rudy York's 18 homer leading off the sixth started a three-run Detroit spree that spelled finis for Alex Carrasquel, Washington starter who gave nine hits in six frames.

The Tigers scored twice more in the eighth off Reliefer Roger Wolff on three hits and a passed ball.

York, with a homer and two singles, drove in two runs and Cramer with a double and two singles, batted in three for the Tigers. Johnny-Sullivan had three of Washington's eight hits off Newhouser, who worked with only two day's rest.

A crowd of 16,444 paid sat in on the contest.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, winner of 27 games for the Tigers was slated to oppose Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the Griff's knuckleballer, in the final game of the season tomorrow.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The United States Military Academy has just issued a booklet, written by the able Joe Cahill, based on the theme "Football Pays Dividends in Battle." . . . Today, when the 1944 cadet football team opens its season, we can think of nothing better than to quote a few passages about the eight football-playing officers whose careers are sketched.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower

When 21-year-old Ike Eisenhower entered West Point, he was known as a lightweight tackle from Salina, Kas., high school who couldn't be fooled more than once on a play . . . As a plebe he was shifted to the backfield and was on his way toward becoming a varsity standout when he broke a knee plunging into the tufts line. So Eisenhower finished his undergraduate career as a freshman coach and cheer leader. . . . "His special talents," says the booklet, "were his speed and ability to diagnose the plays of his opponents."

Gen. Joseph Stilwell

As a cadet, "Vinegar Joe's" 145 pounds made him a second-stringer. But when Army played Chicago in 1903 it was Stilwell who won the game . . . With the score tied at 6-6, Stilwell entered the game in the last few moments. A Chicago back fumbled and Walter Eckersall was called upon to punt . . . Back on the 45 yard line, Stilwell took the punt and, seeing a Chicago player ready to tackle him, signalled for a fair catch. . . . The over-anxious westerner interferred and the resulting penalty gave Army the ball on the 20-yard line, from where a field goal brought the winning points.

Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley

Another lightweight, Omar Bradley was kept on the Army "B" squad for two seasons before dogged determination won him a berth as Varsity end in 1913. He was noted for his tackling and offensive play. . . . As a star of the Army baseball team, Bradley had a three-year batting average of .383.

Remember Them?

In the famous Army-Navy 21-21 tie of 1926, Chuck Born played end for Army, black-haired "Blondy" Saunders was next to him at tackle; Art Meehan was quarterback and Tom Trapnell at left half . . . Now Brig. Gen. Born, sending bombers in his command over Germany, says: "The areas of enemy fighter strength are like defensive players on the gridiron. If we hold one, fool another and saturate a third, it means a figurative touchdown for us" . . . Col. Meehan, who "quarterbacked" the highly important bombing of Jap-held Wake Island, disappeared soon afterward in a mission over New Guinea . . . Lt. Col. Trapnell, whose heroism in defense of Bataan already is a legend, was last reported a prisoner of the Japs . . . Col. Paul Bunker, Army's first All American player back in 1901, was captured when Corregidor fell and died in a Japanese prison camp.

DARTMOUTH GAINS TIE WITH HOLY CROSS '11'

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 30—(AP)—Dartmouth and Holy Cross, rated as unknown quantities in Eastern intercollegiate football circles, came out of their opener unchanged today as they battled to a 6-6 tie.

Both teams struck through the air for their counters, the Indians getting their touchdown in the third period when Britt Lewis, their second-string sharpshooter, completed a 45-yard aerial to Gerry Peck, the starting right-winger.

PENNSYLVANIA UPSETS DUKE ELEVEN, 18 TO 7

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Pennsylvania took the wraps off a couple of 17-year-old kids from New Jersey today and came up with an early season upset by handing highly touted Duke, 1943 Southern Conference champion, an 18 to 7 defeat on wet, fog-bound Franklin Field.

The youngsters, each appearing in his first college game, were Alfred J. Sica, V-12 student from Toms River, N. J., and Anthony S. (Jack) Minisi of Newark—and they practically settled the issue in the first 18 seconds of the game. On the first play, after 17-year-old Eddie Lawless of Philly had run the kickoff back 34 yards to Duke's 46, Sica faded back, hit Minisi on the 16-yard line with a beautiful pass, and Minisi romped over with a touchdown without a hand touching him.

Minisi was the No. 1 ground gainer with 94 yards in 14 tries, while Eavis topped the Dukes by romping 51 yards on 15 jaunts. Duke's lone edge was on kick returns, by a 17-yard to 76 margin.

CAVARRETTA MAY LOSE TOP BATTING HONORS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—Phil Cavarretta, Chicago Cubs first baseman, who this week took over the National League lead in hits, won't get a chance to crash the select circle of batsmen who have made 200 hits a season—and probably will lose top honors.

The Cubs captain, with 195 hits and four games to play, was called home from Boston because of his wife's illness. His season's total of hits and his batting average of around .315, however, are the best in his 11 years with the Cubs. His previous season's high in hits was 162 in 1935 and last season's .291 was his previous top batting mark.

ILLINOIS RALLIES TO TIE GREAT LAKES '11'

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Sept. 30—(AP)—A valiant Illinois eleven that refused to quit after blowing a 19-6 half-time lead came from behind in the closing period today to tie the favored Great Lakes, 26-26.

Illinois' scat-backs, Sprinter Claude (Buddy) Young and Paul Patterson, baffled the seasoned Sailors, but it remained for third-string Fullback Orville Hall to boot the extra point that enabled the Illini to keep their undefeated record intact.

CORNELL WINS.

Game Wardens Join Plan To Enlist Sportsmen In New Campaign

With millions of ducks already on the move southward from their northern breeding grounds to prove the worth of Ducks Unlimited, non-prifit sportsmen's organization which has been greatly responsible for an estimated 450 per cent increase in the duck population over ten years ago, the organization is launching an intensive membership drive among sportsmen throughout the state.

A. C. Glassell, Shreveport, president of Ducks Unlimited, has announced the opening of a contest in which the services of the state's game wardens have been enlisted to gain the new members whose contributions will mean more and more ducks each succeeding year at their present rate of increase.

Although Ducks Unlimited is called a non-profit organization, the dividends it is paying off in ducks for the hunters of the nation and Louisiana in particular means "great profits in ducks" for the sportsmen.

Ben R. Downing, Monroe banker, has been named chairman of the district five, comprising the parishes of Union, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Lincoln, Jackson, Ouachita, Richland, Madison, Caldwell, Franklin and Tensas parishes, and his job will be to supervise the contesting game wardens of the parishes in his district.

In announcing the contest, Glassell said $1,100 in cash prizes and six excellent suits of clothes were being offered to the game wardens who bring in the most members and the most money.

The prizes will be as follows:

For collecting the most money—First prize, $250; second prize, $75; third prize, $50; fourth prize, $25; and ten next highest, $10 each.

Wardens will be given lists of hunters in their parish and those obtaining most members from the list in their respective parishes will also win awards of $50, $25, $15, and $10 in the order in which they rank in the drive.

All prize money is being given by Hobson N. Wheless and Glassell, both of Shreveport. Louisiana has been divided into six districts, and in addition to the cash prizes a suit of clothes will go to the warden of each district bringing in the most members.

Chairman Downing said the suit of clothing to be given the winning district five warden, was being offered by Hunt and Whitaker of Monroe. He also said wardens of the district would be supplied with lists of all persons purchasing hunting licenses for approaching season.

Time magazine of September 18 reported "In western Canada last week 140,000,000 ducks (a 10 per cent increase over last year, 450 per cent more than in 1934) flocked and fattened for the flight south. The great conservation experiment in North America's wild duck factory had hit the jackpot.

"Seven years ago, after the duck population had dropped to a miserable 30 million, sportsmen formed Ducks Unlimited (Canada) to restore drought-ridden breeding grounds and wage total war on duck-egg-eating crows and magpies. In the battle of the eggs, Ducks Unlimited paid 2 cents apiece for hundreds of thousands of crow and magpie eggs. In Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Northwest Territories, the conservation group built 130 duck refuges covering 1,200,000 acres.

"Now the cycle had made a full turn, and a million United States duck shooters looked forward to the best season in years."

The state conservation department and the Louisiana section of the national organization see eye-to-eye in the work to improve the duck population for better hunting and more ducks for breeding purposes after the shooting is over. Both organizations are cooperating in the work and the state conservation department recently "loaned" one of its members to show the picture "Ducks Unlimited" over the state.

Ducks Unlimited is operated by a board of trustees who receive no pay for their work. Glassell, the Shreveport oil man who heads the organization, last year gave $10,000 for the work, and the only dividends he expects to collect for the money he gave is some good duck shooting.

Despite the fact that the Louisiana dollars as well as dollars from all other parts of the country are being spent chiefly in Canada, the biggest percentage of all the duck increase will come to Louisiana to face the hunters' guns and for that reason Louisiana sportsmen should be expressing more concern about the welfare of Ducks Unlimited and its growth.

Louisiana hunters will reap the harvest of those ducks produced in Canada as the government wild life service has estimated that 80 per cent of the ducks produced annually winter in Louisiana.

Duck hunters of Ouachita parish responded greatly to Ducks Unlimited after seeing the picture of the same name here several weeks ago, but there are still many hunters in this area who have given little attention as yet to what the organization is doing. Ducks Unlimited hopes to bring about a realization among all hunters of what it is doing and receive their aid in keeping the program going.

VIRGINIA UPSET

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Capitalizing on two erratic passes from center in the fourth period, the North Carolina State football team upset the University of Virginia today in rain-soaked foreman field 13 to 0. Held scoreless three fourths of the game, the wolfpack recovered two fumbled passes in the end zone for the long scores of the day.

SEAHAWKS WIN EASILY

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Iowa Seahawks, holding their opponents scoreless until the final period, walloped the Olathe, Kan., naval air training station football team, 45 to 12, today. The Seahawks, racking up their second victory in three starts, swept to five touchdowns in the first half, Halfback Bus Mertes opening the scoring with a 56-yard sprint.

WISCONSIN NOSES OUT NORTHWESTERN, 7 TO 6

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 30—(AP)—Freshman Earl Girard of Wisconsin lived up to all his advance football notices today and at the finish it was his perfect kick from placement that enabled the Badgers to nose out Northwestern, 7 to 6, in the opening Western Conference game for both teams.

The wining score came in the third period after Northwestern had marched 68 yards in the second period to collect its touchdown. Allen Shafer lateraled the ball to Joe Campbell, who ran seven yards around his left end to score, carrying two tacklers with him as he fell over the goal line. With Shafer holding, Girard booted the wining point.

ARKANSAS A. AND M. BEATS MILLSAPS, 43-0

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Aggies of Arkansas A. and M. turned Tiger stadium into a racetrack here tonight as they ran roughshod over the Millsaps Majors to come out on the top end of a 43 to 0 score.

The Boll Weevils unleashed a string of brilliant backs that ran up the Majors' throats from every angle and kept the home team on the defensive all evening.

Bill Cromer, Jim Canady, and Wlton Ferrell each accounted for two touchdowns, while Little Bill Agee crossed into pay dirt once.

Cromer pulled off the most spectacular plays running 39 and 80 yards for his two touchdowns, as well as picking up plenty of ground to set up other scores. The Aggies rolled up 21 first downs against only five for the Millsaps eleven, which never offered a serious threat.

TENNESSEE WINS 26-13 VICTORY OVER KENTUCKY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. Sept. 30.—(AP) The University of Tennessee came back into the nation's football picture today, displaying a fast set of backs who outran the University of Kentucky 26-13.

Scoring in every period, the Tennessee Vols tallied three times on long runs and once on a 15-yard pass. Kentucky's touchdowns came on gallops of 77 and 46 yards.

Most spectacular run was by Buster Stephens, frosh back of Knoxville, who ran 91 yards to score on the opening kickoff of the second half.

Blocking was erratic by both teams and Kentucky was able to gain consistently through the Vol line only once, but was held for downs on the Vol four. Tennessee never launched a sustained drive deep into Wildcat territory after the first period.

W. AND M. WINS

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—William and Mary's Indians, returning to varsity football competition after a year's absence, showed speed galore here this faternoon to overwhelm the Fort Monroe gunners, 46-0. What the Tribe lacked in weight and experience it made up in speed and effective blocking.

OLE MISS WALLOPS FLORIDA, 26 TO 6

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 30 (AP)—Renewing inter-collegiate pl after a year's lay-off, the Univers of Mississippi Rebels unleashed smooth-working attack which stru through the air and on the gro to swamp the Florida Gators here tonight before a crowd of 10

Early in the second quarter, T mons, Mississippi left half, on a cr cross rounded Florida's end from own 31 for the first score.

After receiving Mississippi's kick their own 26, Florida worked t way to the Mississippi 12 wh Forbes, attempting to pass, stopped far behind his own line scrimmage, placing the ball back the 25. On the next play a nifty p Dyer to Rushing, was good for F ida's lone touchdown.

Mississippi, receiving Florida's kic off on their 30-yard line, worked its way to the Florida 10 with Pearce, Tiblier and Hooker showing the way. From this point Tiblier swept around left end for a touchdown. Mississippi attempted to run for the extra point and failed, making the score Mississippi 13, Florida 6.

Shortly after the kickoff, Wynn's pass was intercepted by Bruce who returned to Florida's 23. On the first play Hooker swiveled-hipped his way to another marker for Mississippi and the kick for the extra point was good.

Pearce of Mississippi intercepted a pass from Dyer, returning to the Florida 29, with Bruce executing a quarter-back sneak to the Florida 13. After working the ball to the one-foot line Hooker swept wide around end for their fourth score. The Rebels failed for the extra point.

DETROIT AND ST. LOUIS WIN TO REMAIN IN TIE FOR LEAD

Browns Blank Yanks, 2-0, While Newhouser Hurls Tigers To Win

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Lefthander Hal Newhouser, carving out his 29th pitching victory of the season, set down the Washington Senators with eight hits today as the Detroit Tigers won their 17th game from the Nats, 7 to 3, holding a share of first place with St. Louis.

Newhouser, fanning seven, gave only four hits through the first eight innings and Stan Spence's 17th homer in the sixth was Washington's only run until the ninth.

The first four Nats to bat in the last inning singled as Newhouser based up, but the lanky southpaw got the next three in order to quell the uprising after two more runs had scored.

The Tigers got one run in the first with the aid of an error and another in the second on Paul Richards' double and Roger Cramer's single.

Rudy York's 18 homer leading off the sixth started a three-run Detroit spree that spelled finis for Alex Carrasquel, Washington starter who gave nine hits in six frames.

The Tigers scored twice more in the eighth off Reliefer Roger Wolff on three hits and a passed ball.

York, with a homer and two singles, drove in two runs and Cramer with a double and two singles, batted in three for the Tigers. Johnny Sullivan had three of Washington's eight hits off Newhouser, who worked with only two day's rest.

A crowd of 16,444 paid sat in on the contest.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, winner of 27 games for the Tigers was slated to oppose Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the Griff's knuckleballer, in the final game of the season tomorrow.

BROWNS BLANK YANKS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The unpredictable St. Louis Browns squelched the New York Yanks, 2 to 0, for the third straight time today to hold their precious tie with the Detroit Tigers for the American League championship.

With only one game left to play, the title cannot be decided until tomorrow, or perhaps in a playoff, first in World's Series history, at Detroit on Monday.

Manager Luke Sewell of the Brownies, still grinning over the elimination of the Yanks plans to send Jack Jakucki, winner of 12 out of 20 games this season, against the faltering Yan-

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The United States Military Academy has just issued a booklet, written by the able Joe Cahill, based on the theme "Football Pays Dividends in Battle." . . . Today, when the 1944 cadet football team opens its season, we can think of nothing better than to quote a few passages about the eight football-playing officers whose careers are sketched.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower

When 21-year-old Ike Eisenhower entered West Point, he was known as a lightweight tackle from Salina, Kas., high school who couldn't be fooled more than once on a play . . . As a plebe he was shifted to the backfield and was on his way toward becoming a varsity standout when he broke a knee plunging into the tufts line. So Eisenhower finished his undergraduate career as a freshman coach and cheer leader. . . . "His special talents," says the booklet, "were his speed and ability to diagnose the plays of his opponents."

Gen. Joseph Stilwell

As a cadet, "Vinegar Joe's" 145 pounds made him a second-stringer. But when Army played Chicago in 1903 it was Stilwell who won the game . . . With the score tied at 6-6, Stilwell entered the game in the last few moments. A Chicago back fumbled and Walter Eckersall was called upon to punt . . . Back on the 45 yard line, Stilwell took the punt and, seeing a Chicago player ready to tackle him, signalled for a fair catch. . . . The over-anxious westerner interferred and the resulting penalty gave Army the ball on the 20-yard line, from where a field goal brought the winning points.

Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley

Another lightweight, Omar Bradley was kept on the Army "B" squad for two seasons before dogged determination won him a berth as Varsity end in 1913. He was noted for his tackling and offensive play. . . . As a star of the Army baseball team, Bradley had a three-year batting average of .383.

Remember Them?

In the famous Army-Navy 21-21 tie of 1926, Chuck Born played end for Army, black-haired "Blondy" Saunders was next to him at tackle; Art Meehan was quarterback and Tom Trapnell at left half . . . Now Brig. Gen. Born, sending bombers in his command over Germany, says: "The areas of enemy fighter strength are like defensive players on the gridiron. If we hold one, fool another and saturate a third, it means a figurative touchdown for us." . . . Col. Meehan, who "quarterbacked" the highly important bombing of Jap-held Wake Island, disappeared soon afterward in a mission over New Guinea. . . . Lt. Col. Trapnell, whose heroism in defense of Bataan already is a legend, was last reported a prisoner of the Japs. . . . Col. Paul Bunker, Army's first All American player back in 1901, was captured when Corregidor fell and died in a Japanese prison camp.

DARTMOUTH GAINS TIE WITH HOLY CROSS '11'

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dartmouth and Holy Cross, rated as unknown quantities in Eastern intercollegiate football circles, came out of their opener unchanged today as they battled to a 6-6 tie.

Both teams struck through the air for their counters, the Indians getting their touchdown in the third period when Britt Lewis, their second-string sharpshooter, completed a 45-yard aerial to Gerry Peck, the starting right-winger.

PENNSYLVANIA UPSETS DUKE ELEVEN, 18 TO 7

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Pennsylvania took the wraps off a couple of 17-year-old kids from New Jersey today and came up with an early season upset by handing highly touted Duke, 1943 Southern Conference champion, an 18 to 7 defeat on wet, fog-bound Franklin Field.

The youngsters, each appearing in his first college game, were Alfred J. Sica, V-12 student from Toms River, N. J., and Anthony S. (Jack) Minisi of Newark—and they practically settled the issue in the first 18 seconds of the game. On the first play, after 17-year-old Eddie Lawless of Philly had run the kickoff back 34 yards to Duke's 46, Sica faded back, hit Minisi on the 16-yard line with a beautiful pass, and Minisi romped over with a touchdown without a hand touching him.

Minisi was the No. 1 ground gainer with 94 yards in 14 tries, while Eavis topped the Dukes by romping 51 yards on 15 jaunts. Duke's lone edge was on kick returns, by a 17-yard to 76 margin.

CAVARRETTA MAY LOSE TOP BATTING HONORS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Phil Cavarretta, Chicago Cubs first baseman, who this week took over the National League lead in hits, won't get a chance to crash the select circle of batsmen who have made 200 hits a season—and probably will lose top honors.

The Cubs captain, with 195 hits and four games to play, was called home from Boston because of his wife's illness. His season's total of hits and his batting average of around .315, however, are the best in his 11 years with the Cubs. His previous season's high in hits was 162 in 1935 and last season's .291 was his previous top batting mark.

ILLINOIS RALLIES TO TIE GREAT LAKES '11'

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A valiant Illinois eleven that refused to quit after blowing a 19-6 half-time lead came from behind in the closing period today to tie the favored Great Lakes, 26-26.

Illinois' scat-backs, Sprinter Claude (Buddy) Young and Paul Patterson, baffled the seasoned Sailors, but it remained for third-string Fullback Orville Hall to boot the extra point that enabled the Illini to keep their undefeated record intact.

CORNELL WINS.

DUCKS UNLIMITED'S PROGRAM IS REAPING VAST DIVIDENDS

Game Wardens Join Plan To Enlist Sportsmen In New Campaign

With millions of ducks already on the move southward from their northern breeding grounds to prove the worth of Ducks Unlimited, non-prifit sportsmen's organization which has been greatly responsible for an estimated 450 per cent increase in the duck population over ten years ago, the organization is launching an intensive membership drive among sportsmen throughout the state.

A. C. Glassell, Shreveport, president of Ducks Unlimited, has announced the opening of a contest in which the services of the state's game wardens have been enlisted to gain the new members whose contributions will mean more and more ducks each succeeding year at their present rate of increase.

Although Ducks Unlimited is called a non-profit organization, the dividends it is paying off in ducks for the hunters of the nation and Louisiana in particular means "great profits in ducks" for the sportsmen.

Ben R. Downing, Monroe banker, has been named chairman of the district five, comprising the parishes of Union, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Lincoln, Jackson, Ouachita, Richland, Madison, Caldwell, Franklin and Tensas parishes, and his job will be to supervise the contesting game wardens of the parishes in his district.

In announcing the contest, Glassell said $1,100 in cash prizes and six excellent suits of clothes were being offered to the game wardens who bring in the most members and the most money.

The prizes will be as follows:

For collecting the most money—First prize, $250; second prize, $75; third prize, $50; fourth prize, $25; and ten next highest, $10 each.

Wardens will be given lists of hunters in their parish and those obtaining most members from the list in their respective parishes will also win awards of $50, $25, $15, and $10 in the order in which they rank in the drive.

All prize money is being given by Hobson N. Wheless and Glassell, both of Shreveport. Louisiana has been divided into six districts, and in addition to the cash prizes a suit of clothes will go to the warden of each district bringing in the most members.

Chairman Downing said the suit of clothing to be given the winning district five warden, was being offered by Hunt and Whitaker of Monroe. He also said wardens of the district would be supplied with lists of all persons purchasing hunting licenses for approaching season.

Time magazine of September 18 reported "In western Canada last week 140,000,000 ducks (a 10 per cent increase over last year, 450 per cent more than in 1934) flocked and fattened for the flight south. The great conservation experiment in North America's wild duck factory had hit the jackpot.

"Seven years ago, after the duck population had dropped to a miserable 30 million, sportsmen formed Ducks Unlimited (Canada) to restore drought-ridden breeding grounds and wage total war on duck-egg-eating crows and magpies. In the battle of the eggs, Ducks Unlimited paid 2 cents apiece for hundreds of thousands of crow and magpie eggs. In Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Northwest Territories, the conservation group built 130 duck refuges covering 1,200,000 acres.

"Now the cycle had made a full turn, and a million United States duck shooters looked forward to the best season in years."

The state conservation department and the Louisiana section of the national organization see eye-to-eye in the work to improve the duck population for better hunting and more ducks for breeding purposes after the shooting is over. Both organizations are cooperating in the work and the state conservation department recently "loaned" one of its members to show the picture "Ducks Unlimited" over the state.

Ducks Unlimited is operated by a board of trustees who receive no pay for their work. Glassell, the Shreveport oil man who heads the organization, last year gave $10,000 for the work, and the only dividends he expects to collect for the money he gave is some good duck shooting.

Despite the fact that the Louisiana dollars as well as dollars from all other parts of the country are being spent chiefly in Canada, the biggest percentage of all the duck increase will come to Louisiana to face the hunters' guns and for that reason Louisiana sportsmen should be expressing more concern about the welfare of Ducks Unlimited and its growth.

Louisiana hunters will reap the harvest of those ducks produced in Canada as the government wild life service has estimated that 80 per cent of the ducks produced annually winter in Louisiana.

Duck hunters of Ouachita parish responded greatly to Ducks Unlimited after seeing the picture of the same name here several weeks ago, but there are still many hunters in this area who have given little attention as yet to what the organization is doing. Ducks Unlimited hopes to bring about a realization among all hunters of what it is doing and receive their aid in keeping the program going.

VIRGINIA UPSET

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Capitalizing on two erratic passes from center in the fourth period, the North Carolina State football team upset the University of Virginia today in rain-soaked foreman field 13 to 0. Held scoreless three fourths of the game, the wolfpack recovered two fumbled passes in the end zone for the long scores of the day.

SEAHAWKS WIN EASILY

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Iowa Seahawks, holding their opponents scoreless until the final period, walloped the Olathe, Kan., naval air training station football team, 45 to 12, today. The Seahawks, racking up their second victory in three starts, swept to five touchdowns in the first half, Halfback Bus Mertes opening the scoring with a 56-yard sprint.

WISCONSIN NOSES OUT NORTHWESTERN, 7 TO 6

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Freshman Earl Girard of Wisconsin lived up to all his advance football notices today and at the finish it was his perfect kick from placement that enabled the Badgers to nose out Northwestern, 7 to 6, in the opening Western Conference game for both teams.

The wining score came in the third period after Northwestern had marched 68 yards in the second period to collect its touchdown. Allen Shafer lateraled the ball to Joe Campbell, who ran seven yards around his left end to score, carrying two tacklers with him as he fell over the goal line. With Shafer holding, Girard booted the wining point.

ARKANSAS A. AND M. BEATS MILLSAPS, 43-0

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Aggies of Arkansas A. and M. turned Tiger stadium into a racetrack here tonight as they ran roughshod over the Millsaps Majors to come out on the top end of a 43 to 0 score.

The Boll Weevils unleashed a string of brilliant backs that ran up the Majors' throats from every angle and kept the home team on the defensive all evening.

Bill Cromer, Jim Canady, and Wlton Ferrell each accounted for two touchdowns, while Little Bill Agee crossed into pay dirt once.

Cromer pulled off the most spectacular plays running 39 and 80 yards for his two touchdowns, as well as picking up plenty of ground to set up other scores. The Aggies rolled up 21 first downs against only five for the Millsaps eleven, which never offered a serious threat.

TENNESSEE WINS 26-13 VICTORY OVER KENTUCKY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. Sept. 30.—(AP) The University of Tennessee came back into the nation's football picture today, displaying a fast set of backs who outran the University of Kentucky 26-13.

Scoring in every period, the Tennessee Vols tallied three times on long runs and once on a 15-yard pass. Kentucky's touchdowns came on gallops of 77 and 46 yards.

Most spectacular run was by Buster Stephens, frosh back of Knoxville, who ran 91 yards to score on the opening kickoff of the second half.

Blocking was erratic by both teams and Kentucky was able to gain consistently through the Vol line only once, but was held for downs on the Vol four. Tennessee never launched a sustained drive deep into Wildcat territory after the first period.

OLE MISS WALLOPS FLORIDA, 26 TO 6

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 30—(AP)—Renewing inter-collegiate pl after a year's lay-off, the Univers of Mississippi Rebels unleashed smooth-working attack which stru through the air and on the gro to swamp the Florida Gators here tonight before a crowd of 10

Early in the second quarter, T mons, Mississippi left half, on a cr cross rounded Florida's end from own 31 for the first score.

After receiving Mississippi's kick their own 26, Florida worked t way to the Mississippi 12 wh Forbes, attempting to pass, stopped far behind his own line scrimmage, placing the ball back the 25. On the next play a nifty Dyer to Rushing, was good for F ida's lone touchdown.

Mississippi, receiving Florida's kickoff on their 30-yard line, worked its way to the Florida 10 with Pearce, Tiblier and Hooker showing the way. From this point Tiblier swept around left end for a touchdown. Mississippi attempted to run for the extra point and failed, making the score Mississippi 13, Florida 6.

Shortly after the kickoff, Wynn's pass was intercepted by Bruce who returned to Florida's 23. On the first play Hooker swiveled-hipped his way to another marker for Mississippi and the kick for the extra point was good.

Pearce of Mississippi intercepted a pass from Dyer, returning to the Florida 29, with Bruce executing a quarter-back sneak to the Florida 13. After working the ball to the one-foot line Hooker swept wide around end for their fourth score. The Rebels failed for the extra point.

By Harold Claassen

W YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—If a ede crawled across a map of nited States everyone of its 100 would touch a point where a ll surprise took place today.

ets were as numerous as ants at man's picnic with North Caro-pre-flight stunning Navy, 21 to ennsylvania scoring in the first onds while spilling Duke, 18 to sconsin tripping Northwestern, 7 California downing U. C. L. A. to 0 and Indiana measuring Michigan, 20 to 0.

And there were myriad other games where the margin of victory was the shocker. Pittsburgh was expected to give Notre Dame a stern est but crumbled in the second half. 8 to 0; Ohio State's civilian freshmen onquered Missouri, 54 to 0; Tennessee found Kentucky relatively easy, 6 to 13, and Army conquered North Carolina, 46 to 0.

Added to that list are the contests in which the favorite had to scurry for triumph such as Southern California's 18 to 6 verdict over College of the Pacific; Yale's late touchdown o defeat the coast guard academy, to 3, and Catawba's 7 to 6 win at Virginia Military Academy's expense. Wichita deadlocked Kansas State, 6-6 nd Holy Cross drew by the same core with Dartmouth.

Much of the excitement was caused by freshmen although at Annapolis it was the exploits of Otto Graham, former Northwestern All-American, who almost single-handed downed the Middies, pre-season choice for the mythical championship.

After keeping the fliers in the game all the way he grabbed a Hal lamberg punt with less than three minutes to go, hurried to midfield nd then lateralled to Frank Aschenbrenner who ran 55 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

Eddie Lawless, Penn frosh, grabbed e opening kickoff and toted it to e Duke 46 yard line—a romp of 34 rds. On the next play, Al Sica ssed to Jack Minisi for the score. All three are only 17. Joe Gasparella and Frank Dancewicz, 1944 arrivals at Notre Dame, helped pile up points at Pittsburgh where Bob Kelley, who became a regular late in 1943, got four touchdowns and two extra points.

Kentucky played Tennessee after being delayed for 14 hours by landslides on the railroad tracks. The Wildcat players arrived in Knoxville at 4 a. m. today and slept until noon.

The Second Air Force's goal-line was crossed for the first time this season as the super-bombers spilled Colorado, 33 to 6, with Lt. Glenn Dobbs hurling 12 consecutive completed passes. The Bainbridge Naval Base crushed Camp Lee, 43 to 0, and the Iowa Seahawks took Olathe, Kas., naval base, 45 to 12. Norman Navy trimmed Oklahoma University, 28 to 14. Georgia pre-flight showed strength in defeating South Carolina, 20 to 14.

In the same area, Georgia Tech walloped Clemson, 51 to 0, and on the West Coast Washington compiled another lopsided total, 65 to 6, over Whitman. Texas hurdled Southwestern 20 to 0, and Southern Methodist crushed North Texas, 49 to 0.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA BEATS PACIFIC, 18 TO 6

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Southern California used its superior manpower and capitalized on the breaks to beat Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of the Pacific eleven today, 18 to 6.

The Trojans had the power and reserve strength to outlast the clever and resourceful Tigers from Stockton, Calif. The Stagg attack, based on a flanker either to right or left, bothered Southern California no end, and it kept high the interest of the crowd of 22,000.

Coach Jeff Cravath's Trojans really opened up with its passing attack today and two of its touchdowns came via the air lanes, with the other fashioned by the fleet-footed Gordon Gray, a reformed end, who scooted 61 yards off left tackle in the fourth quarter.

HOUSTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Randolph Field's very big, very smart and very talented football team more than lived up to advance notices Saturday night by drubbing Jess Neely's youthful Rice Owls 50 to 0, before 20,000 dismayed fans.

kee in tomorrow's game, which will start at 2 p. m. (central war time). McCarthy's choice will probably be Mel Queen, a freshman recalled from Newark last month. He has won five of his last six starts.

The Veteran Denny Galehouse registered his ninth victory of the season by holding the faded world's champions to five hits, while the Brownies also got five off Walter "Monk" Dubiel. He was replaced by Pinch Batter Paul Waner in the eighth, and Floyd Bevens finished.

The Browns' triumph provided a glorious day for 12,918 roaring fans who groaned every time the scoreboard registered a tally for Detroit against Washington.

Blocked Punt In Final Quarter Gives Cyclones Close Victory

RUSTON, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—The Selman Field Cyclones defeated the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs here tonight, 13-7, when a Tech punt from behind their own goal misfired for the winning Selman touchdown in the last quarter.

J. N. Steward, forced to kick from his own end zone, had trouble handling the ball from center. Rushed by the surging Selman line, he was forced to kick before getting set and the ball got away bad to be gathered in by Selman's Don Harris on the Tech 10, and Harris went over for the winning touchdown. Dub Mattis kicked the point.

Selman scored first in the second quarter when Blackie Caldwell went over from the Bulldog five. Tech came right back to tie the score in the same quarter when Johnny Bibb passed to Cloyce Box from the Selman 18 and Box went over for the touchdown.

Louisiana Tech made eight first downs against only two for Selman.

The third quarter went scoreless, but the Cyclones were threatening from the six as the period ended. The Cyclones, after another prolonged punting duel, took the ball on the Tech 12 after a pass backfired. Caldwell got six through the middle but the Bulldogs tightened to hold for downs on their own three as the quarter ended.

Steward backed behind his own goal to attempt to kick out as the last quarter started. But he momentarily fumbled before getting off a poor kick that was gathered in by Don Harris on the Tech 10. And he went over for the second Selman touchdown. Mattis kicked the point to give Selman a 13-6 lead. Selman threatened again a moment later when Bishop recovered a Tech fumble on the Bulldog 29, but the Cyclones bogged down on the 14, and a pass, Bibb to Slough, was good for 33 yards and took the Techmen out of danger.

The first quarter was a punting duel all the way between Johnny Bibb, Tech, and Dub Mattis and Don Harris, Selman. Most of the play took place in midfield. A pass interception by A. G. Nelson, Tech back, late in the quarter took the ball to Selman's 45 with Hank Agusiewicz, Cyclone guard, looking particularly good for the visitors.

A pass interception started Selman on the first touchdown drive. Center Jim Abernathy intercepted a Bibb pass on the Tech 45 and went to the 35. Mattis and Mack Bishop chalked up the first down on four line plunges to the Tech 20. Bishop and Blackie Caldwell then took charge the rest of the way with Caldwell going over for the first touchdown from the Tech five. Bill Harbour's kick for the point was low.

But the Bulldogs struck right back, taking the kickoff on their own 18 and staging an 82-yard drive to pay dirt to tie up the game. Bob Hamblin, Pete Devita and Hugh Bowers sparked the Bulldog drive to the Selman 24. J. N. Stewart then got loose for eleven. Devita lost five, a pass fell incomplete, and then Bibb got away a pass to Cloyce Box almost on the goal line and Box went over. Bibb tried an end run for the point but failed. The half ended with the score 6-6.

L. S. U., ALABAMA BATTLE TO 27-27 DRAW IN OPENER

35,000 SPECTATORS SEE THRILLING GRID BATTLE

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiaan State's Tigers and the Alabama Crimson Tide swapped point for point here tonight in a sensational 27-27 tie before 35,000 fans in the season opener for both of the Southeastern Conference teams.

The Bengal Tigers had to come from behind to tie the score on a fourth quarter blocked punt after Alabama's Freshman Harry Gilmer had put the Tide ahead 27-21 with a 95-yard touchdown on a kickoff return in the third period. L. S. U. substitute End Clyde Lindsey broke through to block Gilmer's punt on the Alabama 35-yard line, scooped the ball out of the air and scored standing up. Freshman Back Andy Lay's attempted conversion from placement missed and with it went the Tigers' chance of handing Frank Thomas' team its first opening defeat in 14 years.

Elwyn (Ripper) Rowan, freshman fullback from Memphis Tenn., put the Tigers ahead in the first minute of play when he broke through on a quick-opening play and chased 76 yards to score. Lay converted and the Tigers led 7-0.

Alabama struck back in the opening period and after recovering a fumble on the Tiger 17, substitute Back Lowell Tew ran around left end for a touchdown and Hugh Morrow kicked the point to tie the score.

Louisiana State's second team went into the game early in the second quarter and Y. A. Tittle, freshman passer extraordinary, whipped the ball 30 yards to Wingback Dan Sandifer who took it on to the four and staggered over. Lay again converted.

The fighting Tide, playing their first game in two seasons, roared back for two more touchdowns before the half ended. Tew circled end for 17 yards and Gilmer scored a few minutes later from the 24. Morrow kicked both points to put Alabama ahead 21-14.

Both of the Tigers' second half scores came on blocked punts. Felix Trapani blocked Gilmer's third quarter punt on the Tide 26 and fell on the ball over the goal for a touchdown.

Lay's placement tied the count 21-21, and before the crowd settled down the speedy Gilmer took the Tiger kickoff on the five and sprinted 95 yards to put Alabama back into the lead. Morrow's kick missed its mark.

The Tigers made a last minute scoring threat by driving to the Alabama 21-yard line on Freshman Y. A. Tittle's passing, but the threat ended when Alabama's Norwood Hodges intercepted on the 9-yard stripe.

Louisiana State rolled up 181 yards rushing to 156 for Alabama and made 11 first downs to 'Bama's 8.

MINNESOTA CONQUERS NEBRASKA TEAM, 39-0

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30. — (AP) — Minnesota's line play and running attack was too much for a green Nebraska Cornhusker eleven today and the Gopher romped to a 39 to 0 victory in their annual game.

So far superior was Minnesota's defense that the Huskers were limited to two first downs, one by penalty and one by rushing. Minnesota's improved line stopped the visitors cold and Nebraska showed a net gain of only 18 yards from scrimmage while Minnesota piled up 364 yards.

kee in tomorrow's game, which will start at 2 p. m. (central war time). McCarthy's choice will probably be Mel Queen, a freshman recalled from Newark last month. He has won five of his last six starts.

The Veteran Denny Galehouse registered his ninth victory of the season by holding the faded world's champions to five hits, while the Brownies also got five off Walter "Monk" Dubiel. He was replaced by Pinch Batter Paul Waner in the eighth, and Floyd Bevens finished.

The Browns' triumph provided a glorious day for 12,918 roaring fans who groaned every time the scoreboard registered a tally for Detroit against Washington.

Blocked Punt In Final Quarter Gives Cyclones Close Victory

RUSTON, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—The Selman Field Cyclones defeated the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs here tonight, 13-7, when a Tech punt from behind their own goal misfired for the winning Selman touchdown in the last quarter.

J. N. Steward, forced to kick from his own end zone, had trouble handling the ball from center. Rushed by the surging Selman line, he was forced to kick before getting set and the ball got away bad to be gathered in by Selman's Don Harris on the Tech 10, and Harris went over for the winning touchdown. Dub Mattis kicked the point.

Selman scored first in the second quarter when Blackie Caldwell went over from the Bulldog five. Tech came right back to tie the score in the same quarter when Johnny Bibb passed to Cloyce Box from the Selman 18 and Box went over for the touchdown.

Louisiana Tech made eight first downs against only two for Selman.

The third quarter went scoreless, but the Cyclones were threatening from the six as the period ended. The Cyclones, after another prolonged punting duel, took the ball on the Tech 12 after a pass backfired. Caldwell got six through the middle but the Bulldogs tightened to hold for downs on their own three as the quarter ended.

Steward backed behind his own goal to attempt to kick out as the last quarter started. But he momentarily fumbled before getting off a poor kick that was gathered in by Don Harris on the Tech 10. And he went over for the second Selman touchdown. Mattis kicked the point to give Selman a 13-6 lead. Selman threatened again a moment later when Bishop recovered a Tech fumble on the Bulldog 29, but the Cyclones bogged down on the 14, and a pass, Bibb to Slough, was good for 33 yards and took the Techmen out of danger.

The first quarter was a punting duel all the way between Johnny Bibb, Tech, and Dub Mattis and Don Harris, Selman. Most of the play took place in midfield. A pass interception by A. G. Nelson, Tech back, late in the quarter took the ball to Selman's 45 with Hank Agusiewicz, Cyclone guard, looking particularly good for the visitors.

A pass interception started Selman on the first touchdown drive. Center Jim Abernathy intercepted a Bibb pass on the Tech 45 and went to the 35. Mattis and Mack Bishop chalked up the first down on four line plunges to the Tech 20. Bishop and Blackie Caldwell then took charge the rest of the way with Caldwell going over for the first touchdown from the Tech five. Bill Harbour's kick for the point was low.

But the Bulldogs struck right back, taking the kickoff on their own 18 and staging an 82-yard drive to pay dirt to tie up the game. Bob Hamblin, Pete Devita and Hugh Bowers sparked the Bulldog drive to the Selman 24. J. N. Stewart then got loose for eleven, Devita lost five, a pass fell incomplete, and then Bibb got away a pass to Cloyce Box almost on the goal line and Box went over. Bibb tried an end run for the point but failed. The half ended with the score 6-6.

L. S. U., ALABAMA BATTLE TO 27-27 DRAW IN OPENER

35,000 SPECTATORS SEE THRILLING GRID BATTLE

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiaan State's Tigers and the Alabama Crimson Tide swapped point for point here tonight in a sensational 27-27 tie before 35,000 fans in the season opener for both of the Southeastern Conference teams.

The Bengal Tigers had to come from behind to tie the score on a fourth quarter blocked punt after Alabama's Freshman Harry Gilmer had put the Tide ahead 27-21 with a 95-yard touchdown on a kickoff return in the third period. L. S. U. substitute End Clyde Lindsey broke through to block Gilmer's punt on the Alabama 35-yard line, scooped the ball out of the air and scored standing up. Freshman Back Andy Lay's attempted conversion from placement missed and with it went the Tigers' chance of handing Frank Thomas' team its first opening defeat in 14 years.

Elwyn (Ripper) Rowan, freshman fullback from Memphis Tenn., put the Tigers ahead in the first minute of play when he broke through on a quick-opening play and chased 76 yards to score. Lay converted and the Tigers led 7-0.

Alabama struck back in the opening period and after recovering a fumble on the Tiger 17, substitute Back Lowell Tew ran around left end for a touchdown and Hugh Morrow kicked the point to tie the score.

Louisiana State's second team went into the game early in the second quarter and Y. A. Tittle, freshman passer extraordinary, whipped the ball 30 yards to Wingback Dan Sandifer who took it on to the four and staggered over. Lay again converted.

The fighting Tide, playing their first game in two seasons, roared back for two more touchdowns before the half ended. Tew circled end for 17 yards and Gilmer scored a few minutes later from the 24. Morrow kicked both points to put Alabama ahead 21-14.

Both of the Tigers' second half scores came on blocked punts. Felix Trapani blocked Gilmer's third quarter punt on the Tide 26 and fell on the ball over the goal for a touchdown.

Lay's placement tied the count 21-21, and before the crowd settled down the speedy Gilmer took the Tiger kickoff on the five and sprinted 95 yards to put Alabama back into the lead. Morrow's kick missed its mark.

The Tigers made a last minute scoring threat by driving to the Alabama 21-yard line on Freshman Y. A. Tittle's passing, but the threat ended when Alabama's Norwood Hodges intercepted on the 9-yard stripe.

Louisiana State rolled up 181 yards rushing to 156 for Alabama and made 11 first downs to 'Bama's 8.

MINNESOTA CONQUERS NEBRASKA TEAM, 39-0

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Minnesota's line play and running attack was too much for a green Nebraska Cornhusker eleven today and the Gopher romped to a 39 to 0 victory in their annual game.

So far superior was Minnesota's defense that the Huskers were limited to two first downs, one by penalty and one by rushing. Minnesota's improved line stopped the visitors cold and Nebraska showed a net gain of only 16 yards from scrimmage while Minnesota piled up 364 yards.

SOME PARTIES TO WRITE IN NAMES

Socialists And Prohibitionists Not Qualified In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Correspondence with the attorney general's office indicated today that the Louisiana Socialist and Prohibition parties would have to meet additional legal technicalities before the secretary of state accepts their lists of presidential electors for the November 7 general election ballot.

Neither party, in the attorney general's opinion, has fulfilled technical requirements to get on the printed ballot, but either group could still, if numerically sufficient, send its electors to Washington by writing their names in the blank third column of the ballot, as "independents."

The state will have at least one official independent candidate for U. S. senator. Maurice E. Clark of New Orleans, self-styled "people's poet," notified the secretary of state he had fulfilled all the technical requirements—and attached several of his poems.

The technical requirement Clark satisfied was to notify civil district court clerks in each parish that he had consented to be a candidate, a provision noted on the ballot itself as necessary before the vote can be counted for any independent.

The Prohibition party's latest activities included obtaining several opinions from the state legal department on just how electors could be voted for as independent candidates, the answer being that any time up to 10 days before the election they could qualify by notifying court clerks as did Clark—all still a possibility.

The Socialist party, on the other hand, wanted a ticket of electors printed on the ballot, and informed the secretary of state it had held a meeting of its own "state central committee" for that purpose, in New Orleans last September 10.

The party secretary also attached a list of 1,000 signatures, as required in the general election law, and Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. sent the file to the attorney general for an opinion.

J. Clyde Pearce, special assistant attorney general, ruled that the secretary was not authorized to print the names of the candidates, on two points: That all the names on the petition were not, as required by the general election law, certified by parish registrars of voters as being Socialist party members, and that the party "has no legal existence in Louisiana."

The last point gets back to the state primary law, declaring that a party cannot be officially recognized as such unless it has cast at least five per cent of the entire vote cast "in the last gubernatorial election or the last cast for presidential electors."

"Therefore," Pearce ruled, "the action of a group of persons styling themselves the 'state central committee of the Socialist party of Louisiana' can have no legal effect." He also cited the side point that the excerpt of minutes of the party meeting referred to the "Socialist party of Louisiana," the petitions specified only "Socialist party," and the accompanying letter was labeled "Socialist party U. S. A."

Further complicating the picture this year, is that—at present the secretary of state has certifications for electors of only one party, those submitted by the Republicans some time ago. The Democratic state central committee has asked him to "disregard" those it submitted last March.

This supposedly will be settled October 7 when the Democratic central committee meets to name elector-nominees to succeed those who resigned rather than pledge "Roosevelt-Truman."

NELSON RESIGNS

"I am very happy about the whole thing," Nelson went on. "I am delighted that Cap (Krug) got the job. The reconversion program has been managed as I would have hoped to do it if I had been in active command here in the last few weeks."

Krug, formerly a navy lieutenant commander and before that a key vice-chairman of WPB, was installed as acting chairman on the day of Nelson's departure on a presidential mission to China a little over a month ago.

He has run the agency firmly since that time, with heavy emphasis on speeding reconversion plans. He has served notice that he will not tolerate "sniping" or the stewing of dissension in WPB—conditions of which Charles E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman complained in resigning from WPB just before Nelson left.

As his first official act, Krug outlined WPB's program for lifting production controls on V-day in Europe—a sweeping plan which will eliminate 350 of the existing 500 WPB orders.

Nelson scouted reports that he might take a job in private industry. "I have never permitted anyone to offer me a job," he said. "I have always said: 'Wait until I have done all I can to help win the war.'"

Nelson invited Krug into the office when a cameraman asked that they pose together.

"I wish I could say that I'm happy, too," Krug said. "But to be frank, I could wish you were going to keep on sitting there"—indicating the chairman's chair—"and that I could keep on sitting here"—indicating his position on the sidelines.

Still retaining his office here despite the fact that his authority over the employes in the organization had been terminated, Brumfield said that he had taken the matter up with Washington headquarters of the OPA "and I shall abide by their decision."

Meanwhile the Shreveport office is functioning under the temporary direction of E. L. Bersley, sent here by the regional office at Dallas Friday to replace Brumfield.

From Dallas Saturday came word that Orth, acting regional director, was continuing his efforts to obtain a federal writ to have Brumfield ejected, forcibly if need be, from the office he refused to turn over to Bersley.

A steady stream of callers visited Brumfield Saturday in his office that has been denied telephone service since Bersley took over. Bersley is directing activities of the OPA in an office next to that of Brumfield. The same reception room serves both offices.

Bersley and top executives of the various department of the office here admitted that the situation was regrettable and unfortunate. Brumfield agreed but added that he also wanted to keep his job and was prepared for a showdown fight from which there will be no retreat.

This means undoubtedly that OPA Administrator Bowles himself will likely have the final say in the matter. It was also regarded as unlikely that federal court action to remove Brumfield from office would be instituted without an approving nod from Washington inasmuch as the status of Orth at Dallas is that of temporary director.

BRITISH DRIVEN

Seven miles farther west the fighting which had blazed around Savignano subsided in the thick weather. Sharp German counterattacks on the southwest caused some leading British elements to withdraw, however.

The Germans made a supreme effort to dislodge the Doughboys from Monte Battaglia, 11 miles from their highway pivot of Imola on the road from Rimini which runs northwest to Bologna, a prime Fifth Army objective. Unsuccessful, the Germans were forced to withdraw both east and west of the mountains since American fire from the summit commanded supply roads.

This may have been a factor in the moderate gains reported to the west, where the Americans captured Grignole and sent patrols on a mile northwest into Belvidere, 18 miles south and slightly east of Bologna and 14 miles from the Rimini-Bologna highway.

To the west American units in a three-mile advance took the mountain hamlet of Filigare, on one of the main north-south highways leading into Bologna, 19 miles north, also the village of Montefiediente, six miles west of Filigare.

The British seized Monte Fuso, 29 miles from Forli, and Presiola, 16 1-2 miles from Faenza.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Grain futures markets held strong throughout today's session and the advance met little opposition. Profit taking developed on the bulges but a broad short covering movement apparently was under way and the offerings were absorbed readily.

At the close wheat was 1 5-8 to [illegible] higher than yesterday's finish, December $1.63 1-2-5-8.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Selected stocks, paced by aircrafts and assorted specialties, kept on the recovery trail today with sizeable blocks of low-priced issues putting volume at one of the largest for a two-hour session in the past two months.

Hayes Manufacturing, liveliest performer, came out in deals of 1,000 to 10,000 shares, apparently further buoyed by word the company was planning to expand its business by acquiring controlling interest in another manufacturing concern.

Activity quickened at intervals after the opening but some leaders were a bit sluggish. Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated near the close. Transfers were about 500,000 shares.

Bonds were steady and commodities improved.

SOME PARTIES TO WRITE IN NAMES

Socialists And Prohibitionists Not Qualified In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Correspondence with the attorney general's office indicated today that the Louisiana Socialist and Prohibition parties would have to meet additional legal technicalities before the secretary of state accepts their lists of presidential electors for the November 7 general election ballot.

Neither party, in the attorney general's opinion, has fulfilled technical requirements to get on the printed ballot, but either group could still, if numerically sufficient, send its electors to Washington by writing their names in the blank third column of the ballot, as "independents."

The state will have at least one official independent candidate for U. S. senator. Maurice E. Clark of New Orleans, self-styled "people's poet," notified the secretary of state he had fulfilled all the technical requirements—and attached several of his poems.

The technical requirement Clark satisfied was to notify civil district court clerks in each parish that he had consented to be a candidate, a provision noted on the ballot itself as necessary before the vote can be counted for any independent.

The Prohibition party's latest activities included obtaining several opinions from the state legal department on just how electors could be voted for as independent candidates, the answer being that any time up to 10 days before the election they could qualify by notifying court clerks as did Clark—all still a possibility.

The Socialist party, on the other hand, wanted a ticket of electors printed on the ballot, and informed the secretary of state it had held a meeting of its own "state central committee" for that purpose, in New Orleans last September 10.

The party secretary also attached a list of 1,000 signatures, as required in the general election law, and Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. sent the file to the attorney general for an opinion.

J. Clyde Pearce, special assistant attorney general, ruled that the secretary was not authorized to print the names of the candidates, on two points: That all the names on the petition were not, as required by the general election law, certified by parish registrars of voters as being Socialist party members, and that the party "has no legal existence in Louisiana."

The last point gets back to the state primary law, declaring that a party cannot be officially recognized as such unless it has cast at least five per cent of the entire vote cast "in the last gubernatorial election or the last cast for presidential electors."

"Therefore," Pearce ruled, "the action of a group of persons styling themselves the 'state central committee of the Socialist party of Louisiana' can have no legal effect." He also cited the side point that the excerpt of minutes of the party meeting referred to the "Socialist party of Louisiana," the petitions specified only "Socialist party," and the accompanying letter was labeled "Socialist party, U. S. A."

Further complicating the picture this year, is that—at present the secretary of state has certifications for electors of only one party, those submitted by the Republicans some time ago. The Democratic state central committee has asked him to "disregard" those it submitted last March.

This supposedly will be settled October 7 when the Democratic central committee meets to name elector-nominees to succeed those who resigned rather than pledge "Roosevelt-Truman."

until he could get WPB started on its reconversion program.

"I am very happy about the whole thing," Nelson went on. "I am delighted that Cap (Krug) got the job. The reconversion program has been managed as I would have hoped to do it if I had been in active command here in the last few weeks."

Krug, formerly a navy lieutenant commander and before that a key vice-chairman of WPB, was installed as acting chairman on the day of Nelson's departure on a presidential mission to China a little over a month ago.

He has run the agency firmly since that time, with heavy emphasis on speeding reconversion plans. He has served notice that he will not tolerate "sniping" or the stewing of dissension in WPB—conditions of which Charles E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman, complained in resigning from WPB just before Nelson left.

As his first official act, Krug outlined WPB's program for lifting production controls on V-day in Europe—a sweeping plan which will eliminate 350 of the existing 500 WPB orders.

Krug moved out of Nelson's office and into the one left vacant by Wilson. Nelson told reporters he would continue to make his headquarters at WPB for a time.

Nelson scouted reports that he might take a job in private industry. "I have never permitted anyone to offer me a job," he said. "I have always said: 'Wait until I have done all I can to help win the war'."

Nelson invited Krug into the office when a cameraman asked that they pose together.

"I wish I could say that I'm happy, too," Krug said. "But to be frank, I could wish you were going to keep on sitting there"—indicating the chairman's chair—"and that I could keep on sitting here"—indicating his position on the sidelines.

ance with its regulations without recourse to unnecessary litigation and antagonism of the public."

Still retaining his office here despite the fact that his authority over the employes in the organization had been terminated, Brumfield said that he had taken the matter up with Washington headquarters of the OPA "and I shall abide by their decision."

Meanwhile the Shreveport office is functioning under the temporary direction of E. L. Bersley, sent here by the regional office at Dallas Friday to replace Brumfield.

From Dallas Saturday came word that Orth, acting regional director, was continuing his efforts to obtain a federal writ to have Brumfield ejected, forcibly if need be, from the office he refused to turn over to Bersley.

A steady stream of callers visited Brumfield Saturday in his office that has been denied telephone service since Bersley took over. Bersley is directing activities of the OPA in an office next to that of Brumfield. The same reception room serves both offices.

Bersley and top executives of the various department of the office here admitted that the situation was regretable and unfortunate. Brumfield agreed, but added that he also wanted to keep his job and was prepared for a showdown fight from which there will be no retreat.

That means, undoubtedly, that OPA Administrator Bowles himself will likely have the final say in the matter. It was also regarded as unlikely that federal court action to remove Brumfield from office would be instigated without an approving nod from Washington inasmuch as the status of Orth at Dallas is that of temporary director.

be reinforced, German tanks rumbled up along with enemy infantry and forced them back across the stream.

Seven miles farther west the fighting which had blazed around Savignano subsided in the thick weather. Sharp German counterattacks on the southwest caused some leading British elements to withdraw, however.

The Germans made a supreme effort to dislodge the Doughboys from Monte Battaglia, 11 miles from their highway pivot of Imola on the road from Rimini which runs northwest to Bologna, a prime Fifth Army objective. Unsuccessful, the Germans were forced to withdraw both east and west of the mountains, since American fire from the summit commanded supply roads.

This may have been a factor in the moderate gains reported to the west, where the Americans captured Giugnola and sent patrols on a mile northwest into Belvidere, 18 mides south and slightly east of Bologna and 14 miles from the Rimini-Bologna highway.

To the west American units in a three-mile advance took the mountain hamlet of Filigare, on one of the main north-south highways leading into Bologna, 19 miles north, also the village of Montefredente, six miles west of Filigare.

The British on their right were approaching Forli, 52 miles northwest of Rimini, and Faenza, 18 miles farther on, both on the Rimini-Bologna highway.

The British seized Monte Fuso, 20 miles from Forli, and Presioia, 16 1-2 miles from Faenza.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Selected stocks, paced by aircrafts and assorted specialties, kept on the recovery trail today with sizeable blocks of low-priced issues putting volume at one of the largest for a two-hour session in the past two months.

Hayes Manufacturing, liveliest performer, came out in deals of 1,000 to 10,000 shares, apparently further buoyed by word the company was planning to expand its business by acquiring controlling interest in another manufacturing concern.

Activity quickened at intervals after the opening but some leaders were a bit sluggish. Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated near the close. Transfers were about 500,000 shares.

Bonds were steady and commodities improved.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved by Mrs. Barney Rowe, after which the treasurer, Mrs. Shirley Courtney, gave her report, which was also approved.

The president stated that Central Grammar P.-T. MUST BREAK UP GERMAN SPIRIT

This Essential, Declares Town Hall Speaker If Peace Is To Prevail

Almost everyone is agreed—and the peaceful peoples of the earth are determined—that such a savage struggle as is draining the world's lifeblood today must not happen again. But opinions differ widely on how Germany whose militaristic spirit has repeatedly plunged the world into chaos, should be handled.

A diplomat, scholar, statesman and linguist, Andre Michalopoulos, former Greek minister of information, in the United States, is one of those who advocates turning a strong, stern, implacable face to Germany.

He will speak on the Town Hall program at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, Monday at 8:15 p. m.

"As the first step toward the attainment of a durable peace, the spirit of the German people must be broken," Michalopoulos declares. "This evil spirit," he goes on the say, "has massacred, starved and oppressed over 250,000,000 honorable men and women during the past four and a half years. It is neither an injustice nor an Utopian delusion to claim the breaking of the spirit of the German people as the proper and moral act of retribution—not of vengeance—for unspeakable crimes deliberately committed and unquestionably sanctioned by a whole generation of Germans, furthering the ingrained traditions of previous generations."

Mr. Michalopoulos explains that he does not mean by this that Germans should in turn be massacred, starved and oppressed. But he does believe that their liberty should be subject to guardianship for a period of thirty years—until a new generation has grown up . . . a generation which will have had an opportunity to absorb civilized teachings.

Such a guardianship, Mr. Michalopoulos admits, will be a vast enterprise, entailing great expense to the United Nations, but, he says, "the world will have to pay in order to avoid the fatal disaster of a third war." If there were a third war, Germany, he believes would eventually emerge victorious.

Speaking of the machinery for such a peace project, Mr. Michalopoulos says: "An adequate international police force must be established. And in order to give this force authority and executive effect, it is necessary that during the first few years, at least, it comes under the direct joint control of America and Britain—with the advisory cooperaiton of the other democratic powers."

Mr. Michalopoulos warns that there must be no back-sliding, no relaxation of vigilance such as followed the first World War. "Means must be found to make people as a whole, and not as a party, aware of their international responsibilities and to make them pledge their loyalty to these responsibilities for the period, however long it may be necessary to guarantee the security of the world."

As a contribution to peace, Mr. Michalopoulos suggests that the nations of the world put a ban on the private manufacture of arms—"a ban as severe as that which prohibits the preparation and use of opium and other noxious drugs."

The world looks to America and Great Britain for leadership in the post-war world, Michalopoulos says. If these great powers shirk their responsibilities, or approach them without vision and vitality, the civilized world is doomed, he believes.

CHORAL SINGING OFFERED HERE

Extending an invitation to all who are interested in choral singing, Northeast Junior College announces the offering of choral music as a part of the evening school program.

In hundreds of other communities the need for a "singing source" of recreation and self-expression has been met by the organization of community choral groups. The values of spirited group singing as an effective morale builder have been proved in the battle areas overseas, and in the factories, schools, churches, and community organizations at home.

Emphasis in the evening groups being offered at Northeast Junior College, will be placed on singing for its own enjoyment. The only prerequisites are a desire to sing and the ability to carry a part. Three groups are being started; each group will meet one evening each week for two hours. One college credit may be earned for participation in each group. The gleemen will meet on Monday evenings.

Miss Irma Ahola, instructor of voice and music theory at Northeast Junior College, will direct the choral groups. Anyone interested in joining is invited to contact Miss Ahola or W. L. Perkins, coordinator of the Louisiana extension service at the college.

F. D. R. CALLED AMBITIOUS MAN TRYING TO HOLD PLACE

By D. Harold Oliver
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

While the presidential candidates were getting their wind yesterday for another week of political outpouring, Vice-President Wallace again played on the theme that President Roosevelt will be the better post-war job-provider.

The Republican national committee meanwhile asserted in its weekly clipsheet "On the Home Front," sent to more than 6,000 weekly newspapers and G. O. P. county chairmen, that the president in his September 23 speech to the Teamsters' Union was "forced to abandon his role as commander in chief."

Wallace, in a speech prepared for delivery in Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh, emphasized a point he dwelt on earlier in the week in eastern Pennsylvania.

"I don't say Roosevelt will give you full employment," said Wallace, "but he will come a lot closer to it than the other candidate. He will not depend, like the other candidate, on giving the green light to Wall Street. The common folks will not vote for the man who puts Wall Street first and the people second."

In its clipsheet, The Republican national committee asserted with reference to Mr. Roosevelt's September 23 speech:

"Forced to abandon his role as commander in chief, the fourth-term candidate made no reference to his famed 'Dr. Win-the-War' slogan. By his reference to the New Deal—after publicly pronouncing it dead a few months ago—Washington political observers say Roosevelt lost stature, that he has been forced into his rightful role as an ambitious man seeking to retain himself in office."

Meanwhile Rep. Clare Booth Luce, Republican, Connecticut, made the news conference comment that "the American people should have been led into the war—not lied into it."

"The facts leading up to Pearl Harbor and our almost certain involvement were never presented to the American Congress or the American people," she said.

The decision of Senator Ball, Republican, Minnesota, not to campaign for Dewey at this time was called "most unfortunate" by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip.

Ball had said that he was not convinced of the strength of Dewey's convictions on foreign policy.

"I feel Governor Dewey's statement on foreign policy is broad enough and positive enough," declared Wherry, "that anyone, Republican or Democrat, could be satisfied with it."

Review of the week: The week just closed boxed the campaign into three general divisions: The second half of the Roosevelt-Dewey opening word duel, the Hillman-Browder concentration of a counterattack on Dewey, and a fresh anti-Roosevelt upsurge among some Southern Democrats.

Dewey appeared so pleased with his Oklahoma City "you asked for it—here it is" reply to the president's teamsters' speech that newsmen traveling with him got the idea that he might do most of his own speech-writing from now on, especially where Roosevelt thrusts are deemed to warrant quick retaliatory blows.

Dewey, with a lot of assistance, had an Oklahoma City speech prepared before he started on his cross-country tour. But he tore it up and wrote a new one himself in 12 hours when the president threw everything but the book at him in his September 23 address.

Balancing Republican Chairman Herbert Brownell's description of Dewey's whole tour as "brilliantly successful" was the statement of Democratic Publicity Chief Paul Porter that Mr. Roosevelt's "fraud" blast at Dewey was the "most masterful political speech" he ever delivered.

Dewey's theme that the president is "indispensable to Sidney Hillman and the Political Action Committee, and to Earl Browder, the ex-convict and pardoned Communist leader," finally brought Hillman and Browder out of their war tents. The former charged Dewey with "willful deception" in not quoting fully from the president's 1937 "quarantine of aggressors" speech, in accusing Mr. Roosevelt of not preparing the nation's defenses adequately.

"If America had listened to the quarantine speech there would have been no war," said the P. A. C. leader.

Browder, American Communist leader, asserted that election of Dewey would be an "invitation to Europe to plunge immediately or soon into the most devastating civil war," and end United States cooperation with Russia.

In the South, half of Louisiana's 10 Democratic presidential electors resigned in opposition to a fourth term and state party leaders made plans to replace them.

Texas anti-Roosevelt Democrats formed a "Texas Regulars" electoral slate in opposition to a pro-fourth term group and succeeded in getting on the ballot. But a new anti-Roosevelt independent party lost its suit to get electors on the ballot in Florida.

A prospective husband and wife must remain secluded together for 40 days before the wedding ceremony in Java.

Selman Field Officers' Wives Are Engaged In Various Activities Here

Mrs. Reid Is Head Of Wives' Club

Diversified Program Planned For Members Of Officers' Wives' Club

The war has brought many charming feminine personalities to Monroe and prominent among them is Mrs. W. H. Reid, wife of Selman Field's commanding officer. Mrs. Reid, during her short residence in this city has created a special niche for herself in Monroe's social world and at Selman Field where she serves as president of the Officers' Wives' Club. This club is sponsoring activities for all army personnel, is carrying out the wishes of the NAAFW. Every officers' wife is urged to join the club and assume her share of the volunteer work which the club is carrying on. Five departments of this club as set up by the NAAFW include public relations, volunteer utilization branch, Red Cross, spotters and special activities.

We are fortunate in having in our midst other charming personalities, wives of officers at Selman Field. They are identified with the social and civic life of the city and will leave a distinct void when the war is over and they depart from Monroe. They are all taking a prominent part in the activities of the Officers' Wives' Club and are cooperating beautifully with Mrs. Reid.

Mrs. Reid, speaking of the Officers' Wives' Club at Selman Field said: The club is working in direct cooperation with the National Army Air Forces Women's Association, of which it is a member, in carrying on many useful activities.

The National Army Air Forces Women's Association, better known as the NAAFW, is set up under the direction of Mrs. H. H. Arnold, president. Serving in the executive branch NAAFW are: Mrs. Barney M. Giles, first vice-president; Mrs. Carl A. Spaatz, second vice-president; Mrs. J. T. McNarney, third vice-president; Mrs. B. C. Nowland, secretary and Mrs. H. M. McClelland, treasurer.

In addition to the affiliation of women's clubs with the NAAFW provision has been made for the individual membership of air force women. Such individual members may wear NAAFW wings, will receive copies of NAAFW publications and will, of course, hold their membership status regardless of location and change of station. Individuals may become "members-at-large" and their dues are one dollar per year.

The public relations department collects and disseminates information locally. It aims to acquaint the public with the activities of the officers' wives and to keep all officers' wives informed of what the club is doing and what each individual may be called upon to do. Mrs. G. H. Salisbury and Mrs. R. A. Unangst are in charge of public relations.

The volunteer utilization branch is the women's branch of the AER (Army Emergency Relief). Officers' wives are cooperating with the AER in advising and assisting army families when they need help. In this volunteer work the women will be called upon to aid with job placement, hospitalization, housing problems and in many emergencies. Mrs. L. H. Perry has charge of the volunteer Utilization Branch and her committee consists of: Chaplains' aides (altar guild committee), Mrs. R. M. Page, chairman, co-chairman, Mrs. J. A. Rowe and Mrs. J. B. Thornhill. Visiting committee: Mrs. Robert Burns, chairman, and Mrs. Samuel Grossman, Mrs. Robert Irish, Mrs. Hugh McCollum and Mrs. Paul Sparks.

Courtesy committee: Mrs. D. P. Johnson and Mrs. C. L. Morrison. Hospital visiting committee (local) Mrs. R. H. Price, chairman; and Mrs. C. V. Hobbs, Mrs. E. W. Joudrey, Mrs. George Harlow, Mrs. U. B. Walker. Clerical aids: Mrs. James Mooney. Housing: Mrs. Jack Clouse.

Mrs. George Church is head of all Red Cross activities for the club. It is hoped that all officers' wives will participate in one or more of the following activities: Nurses aid, with Mrs. W. J. Ward, chairman; motor corps, Mrs. R. H. Borodt, chairman; surgical dressings, Mrs. Earl Naiden, chairman; staff assistant, Mrs. Foster Law, chairman; canteen, Mrs. Paul Sparks, chairman; sering, Mrs. John Richards, chairman; knitting, Mrs. Robert Harrison and Mrs. Robert Harwood, chairmen.

The Spotters is an important project of the club. It's purpose is to locate all officers' wives and to keep a file of each wife's qualifications so that she may serve in the various needs of volunteer work. Mrs. S. B. Red is chairman of the Spotters and her committee is composed of the following: Mrs. R. H. Price, Mrs. Jack Wendell, Mrs. U. B. Walker, Mrs. R. J. Whimpner, Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. Eleanor Law, Mrs. A. Price, Mrs. Tom Macartney, Mrs. Joe Koenig, Mrs. Hugh Stancill and Mrs. Jack Abrams.

Mrs. George W. Trousdale will sponsor the Spotters' project for the town army wives.

Mrs. J. R. Leeton is chairman of all special activities for the club. Mrs. Leeton is also chairman of entertainment and her co-chairmen are: Mrs. Frank Stapor, Mrs. W. C. Gibson and Mrs. R. E. Buckwalter. Other special activities of the club are the sports' activities, which include golf, tennis, bowling, riding and a figure control class. Mrs. Charles Beril is head of sports. Mrs. W. H. Reid sponsors the NCO Club women's activities. Mrs. R. V. DeMichele is chairman of the post hospital committee. Mrs. Paul Sparks sponsors the Cadet Club women's activities.

All officers' wives are urged to give as much of their time as they can to the volunteer work. Miss Lusk Bride Of Sgt. Rockhold

Simplicity Characterizes Wedding Of Young Couple At Bride's Home

Of exceeding interest to their many friends throughout the state, was the marriage of Miss Olive Elizabeth Lusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lusk of this city, and M T/Sgt. Raymond Dallas Rockhold, marine corps reserves, son of Mrs. E. E. Rockhold of Baton Rouge, La.

The wedding was solemnized in the home of the bride's parents at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, September 16, with the Rev. A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating in a ceremony, characterized by simplicity and quiet dignity, in the presence of only relatives and close friends.

Attractive arrangements of white altheas, chrysanthemums and gladioli were used at vantage points throughout the reception suite. The double doorway, where the couple stood to exchange their nuptial vows, was flanked on either side by tall baskets holding white gladioli. Southern smylax, interspersed with white altheas, was used with considerable artistry in decorative effect over the archway.

Mrs. James A. Rockhold of Summerfield, La., sister-in-law of the groom, served the bride as her matron of honor. She wore a violet crepe model with a corsage of gold gladioli and a small black hat.

Sergeant Rockhold was attended by Mr. Aaron P. Seamster of Monroe.

The bride wore a lovely light gray crepe ensemble trimmed in gold and orchid buttons, and a corsage of tube roses centered with a white orchid. Her small hat was fashioned of black velvet and fuchsia feathers, and her accessories were of black. She carried out the tradition of wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Lusk home. Receiving with Mrs. Lusk, who wore a violet crepe model with a corsage of orchid and yellow gladioli, was the groom's mother, who was in blue crepe, with which she wore a corsage of white asters.

Handsome hand embroidered linen covered the bride's table where the wedding cake, a tiered confection surmounted by Marine and bride figurines, formed the central decor. Tall white tapers in silver holders burned on either side. At one end frappe was served from a large crystal bowl by the bride's aunt, Miss Effie Golson, who wore a handsome black crepe model and a corsage of crimson gladioli. Silver receptacles held individual cakes embossed in valley lilies, and mints that were passed among the guests. Those who assisted in the courtesies were Mrs. M. L. Golson in cream lace with a corsage of painted daisies, Miss Bess Sharp in a printed crepe with a corsage of red rosebuds, Miss Winifred McWhorter in a gold and brown model with gold gladioli and Miss Sybil Daughtry, who wore a gray light wool costume with white trimmings and a corsage of painted daisies in shades of orchid.

Guests were privileged to inspect the display of lovely wedding gifts that included silver, china and crystal in the bride's chosen patterns and many other handsome pieces.

The couple will make their home in Santa Barbara, Calif., where the groom is stationed.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University from which she received the B. A. degree. She returned to the college here as a member of the staff and for the past two years she has held the position of registrar. She has been sponsor of the Purple Jackets at the college and has been active in various organizations in town, including the Y. W. C. A., Civil Air Patrol and the USO.

Sergeant Rockhold attended Louisiana State University, where he majored in physical education. For the past 21 months he has seen service in the South Pacific. He wears several campaign bars and his group received the Presidential citation.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were the groom's sisters, Mrs. Rhines Smith of Baton Rouge and Mrs. William Chaney of Bossier City; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Rockhold of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. Helen Materne.

MRS. RAYMOND ROCKHOLD

Mrs. Rockhold, the former Miss Olive Elizabeth Lusk, was one of the season's charming brides. Her marriage to Sergeant Rockhold took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lusk of this city.

Books To Read Now

Freedom to read the books of our own choosing is one of the greatest privileges people of this nation enjoy. Whether you are looking for diversion, information, or inspiration, the public libraries in Monroe and West Monroe offer you a wide selection of books, both old and new, good companions for all.

Novels and stories with the present-day war background are very profuse at present, and some of them are a kind that will enjoy long popularity. Among the noted ones are "Fair Stood the Wind for France," Herbert Bates; "Transit," Anna Seghers; "Avalanche," Kay Boyle; "While Still We Live," Helen MacInnes; "The Sea Eagle," James Aldridge; "A Bell for Adano," John Hersey; "Pastoral," Nevil Shute; "A Walk in the Sun," Harry Brown; "Hotel Berlin," Vicki Baum, and "Simone," Feuchtwanger.

Just "off press" is James Street's new novel "By Valor and Arms," an historical novel about the battle for Vicksburg, the adventures of the Confederate ram-clad "Arkansas" and the Union ram "Queen of the West." Though some of the characters in "By Valor and Arms" have appeared in "Oh Promised Land" and "Tap Roots," this new book is in no sense a sequel.

Enjoyable fiction in a lighter vein, available at the libraries are "Change of Heart," Faith Baldwin; "Intruder in Marriage," Berta Ruck; "Heart's Haven," Sara Bassett; "Joanna," Helen Ashton; "Footways," Alice Colver; "The Girl Next Door," Anne Brooks; "First Love," Peggy Gaddis; "More Than Conqueror," Grace L. Hill; "Alibi for Isabel," Mary R. Rinehart; "Time for Each Other," Margaret Ranbeck, and "Dr. Whitney's Secretary," Dorothy Walker.

New mystery thrillers include "Amethyst Spectacles," Frances Crane; "The Book of the Dead," Elizabeth Daly; "Dead Man's Float," Dean Amber; "Till Death Us Do Part," John Carr; "Towards Zero," Agatha Christie; "The Case of the Crooked Candle," Erle Gardner; "Johnnie," Dorothy Hughes; "Bury the Hatchet," Manning Long; and "All Over But the Shooting," Richard Powell.

Off For New York City

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, will leave Monroe October 5 to attend the national board meeting to be held in New York City, October [illegible] at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The national executive board is composed of the officers, standing committee chairmen and department chairmen of the general federation of state presidents. This meeting will be devoted strictly to business discussion and will offer a time for the state presidents to present problems arising in their state organizations.

Mrs. La Fell Dickinson, national president, will have the board members to tea from 5 to 7 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Theresa Booth Wells, director of the Good Housekeeping Club Service, has extended an invitation to Mrs. Tisdale to be a guest at a luncheon given by the Good Housekeeping Club Service. Many state presidents will attend this luncheon and at this time will be privileged to meet some of the outstanding writers and staff members of the Good Housekeeping magazine.

Mrs. Tisdale will remain in New York for the Herald Tribune Forum which will be held October 16, 17, 18.

While in New York Mrs. Tisdale will be a guest at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Anne Lindbergh's Book Reviewed

The current Literature Club held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday afternoon, September 27, in the home of Mrs. Jordan Barton.

The meeting as called to order by the new president, Mrs. Barton, and the club collect was read in unison. A short business session was held, during which the plans for the coming year were discussed. One of the projects presented to the club concerned entertainment for the convalescents at Selman Field post hospital. The members also agreed to furnish cookies for the Red Cross Canteen. Plans were made to meet at the Red Cross center and roll bandages every other meeting. Mrs. Allen West was welcomed as a new member.

At the conclusion of the business session, the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs W. O. Webb. Mrs. William Whitfield gave a very interesting paper from an article by Leopold Lippman, entitled "When the Veteran Comes Home." Mrs. Leon Dennis reviewed "The Steep Ascent" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh. She said in part:

"Anne Morrow Lindberg's new book is, in form, a long short story. In her foreword she says it is fiction and not biography. 'Or, to be more accurate, it is a fictional account of an actual incident.' It tells the story of a flight of a young woman(and her pilot husband) on the first day's flying from their home in England to Egypt and the sun—the most dangerous part, right over the Alps and down into Italy. It is a keen and exciting adventure story. Its charm and grace are rooted in the fabric of the author's mind and is the fruit of her philosophy. For Eve, the heroine, and Anne Lindbergh are in dissolubly one "The Steep Ascent" has the qualities and fragrance of spirit of Mrs. Lindburgh's own mind and heart as to what makes the happiness and meaning of life. She relates the intuitive perception of the beauty and loneliness and wistfulness of the human soul."

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs R. L. Conway Jr., Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Leon Dennis, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. G. B. Watkins, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield and Mrs. Allen West.

Mrs. Virginia Futch, Louisville, Ky., wife of Pvt. Edward J. Futch, now in Italy, is spending a week's vacation with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Futch of West Monroe.

She will return to her work at the DuPont Powder Plant at Charlestown, Ind., Tuesday.

Miss Lusk Bride Of Sgt. Rockhold

Simplicity Characterizes Wedding Of Young Couple At Bride's Home

Of exceeding interest to their many friends throughout he state, was the marriage of Miss Olive Elizabeth Lusk, aughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lusk of this city, and M T/Sgt. aymond Dallas Rockhold, marine corps reserves, son of Mrs. . E. Rockhold of Baton Rouge, La.

The wedding was solemnized in the home of the bride's arents at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, September 16, with the ev. A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist Church, oficiating in a ceremony, characterized by simplicity and quiet ignity, in the presence of only relatives and close friends.

Attractive arrangements of white theas, chrysanthemums and gladioli ere used at vantage points throughout the reception suite. The double doorway, where the couple stood to exchange their nuptial vows, was flanked on either side by tall baskets holding white gladioli. Southern smylax, interspersed with white altheas, was used with considerable artistry in decorative effect over the archway.

Mrs. James A. Rockhold of Summerfield, La., sister-in-law of the groom, served the bride as her matron of honor. She wore a violet crepe model with a corsage of gold gladioli and a small black hat.

Sergeant Rockhold was attended by Mr. Aaron P. Seamster of Monroe.

The bride wore a lovely light gray crepe ensemble trimmed in gold and orchid buttons, and a corsage of tube roses centered with a white orchid. Her small hat was fashioned of black velvet and fuchsia feathers, and her accessories were of black. She carried out the tradition of wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Lusk home. Receiving with Mrs. Lusk, who wore a violet crepe model with a corsage of orchid and yellow gladioli, was the groom's mother, who was in blue crepe, with which she wore a corsage of white asters.

Handsome hand embroidered linen covered the bride's table where the wedding cake, a tiered confection surmounted by Marine and bride figurines, formed the central decor. Tall white tapers in silver holders burned on either side. At one end frappe was served from a large crystal bowl by the bride's aunt, Miss Effie Golson, who wore a handsome black crepe model and a corsage of crimson gladioli. Silver receptacles held individual cakes embossed in valley lilies, and mints that were passed among the guests. Those who assisted in the courtesies were: Mrs. M. L. Golson in cream lace with a corsage of painted daisies, Miss Bess Sharp in a printed crepe with a corsage of red rosebuds, Miss Winifred McWherter in a gold and brown model with gold gladioli, and Miss Sybil Daughtry, who wore a gray light wool costume with white trimmings and a corsage of painted daises in shades of orchid.

Guests were privileged to inspect the display of lovely wedding gifts that included silver, china and crystal in the bride's chosen patterns and many other handsome pieces.

The couple will make their home in Santa Barbara, Calif., where the groom is stationed.

She returned to the college here as a member of the staff and for the past two years she has held the position of registrar. She has been sponsor of the Purple Jackets at the college and has been active in various organizations in town, including the Y. W. C. A., Civil Air Patrol and the USO.

Prominent Wedding In Winnsboro Claims The Interest Of Many Friends

A beautiful wedding of more than passing interest was solemnized at the Winnsboro First Baptist Church when Miss Eloise Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burton Evans, became the bride of Chief Petty Officer W. Odean Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Webb of Lake Charles, with the Rev. Dana Terry performing an impressive double ring ceremony and the Rev. C. B. Hall, pastor, giving the wedding prayer, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

The church was exquisitely decorated for the occasion. The chancel, banked with woodwardia ferns, southern smilax and white clematis, formed a background for two large baskets of sciadopitys verticillata, with shell pink and white rose-of-sharon, tied with long streamers of white satin ribbon, outlining a rail to the altar where 28 graduated white cathedral branched candelabra were placed.

During the program of prenuptial music, the candles were lighted by Mrs. G. D. Mullins and Mrs. John J. Kerst, sisters of the bride, who wore floor-length, pink sheer models with corsages of shaded pink asters. Mrs. Walter Woods, at the piano, played Liebestraum's Bridal Chorus, by Liszt, the recessional of Mendelsohn, and accompanied Mrs. Edgar Lowery who sang in beautiful voice "I Love You Truly" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." The "Wedding March" from Wagner's Lohengrin announced the entrance of the attendants and the bride, who was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore the traditional white satin gown with tight fitting bodice, full skirt and long train. The bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, embroidered with seed pearls. Her hip-length veil of illusion, held by a satin halo and orange blossoms, inspired by Mary, Queen of Scots, covered the face. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of tuberoses centered with orchids.

The bridal attendants were: Miss Jennie Lou Evans, cousin of the bride and Miss Wilma Thames; Mrs. H. D. Mullins, Mrs. John J. Kerst, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Francis Dell Herod, Mrs. Vivian Hamilton, Mrs. Judy Martin and Mrs. Nylene Asp. Their gowns were floor-length models in pastel shades. They wore shoulder corsages of asters.

Mr. M. L. Hoffpier of Lake Charles served the bridegroom as best man. The ushers were J. B. Evans Jr., brother of the bride, and Bobby Evans of Ruston, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table in the dining room was radiant with candlelight and centrally adorned with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake, surmounted with figurines of a bride and bridegroom. Iced fruit frappe was served with small cakes.

Chief and Mrs. Webb left for Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif. Mrs. Webb chose for traveling a blue wool gabardine suit, with white accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Webb and Mr. M. L. Hoffpier, of Lake Charles; Mrs. Wid Evans of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Evans, Miss Jenny Lou Evans and Bobby Evans of Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Evans Jr., of Mobile, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Dignity, beauty, and solemnity, characterized the wed- ng of Miss Mildred Carolyn Keller, daughter of Mr. and s. Paul Keller and Lieutenant James Roark Phillips, son of . and Mrs. A. L. Phillips of Marion, La., Tuesday Septem- 26, at five o'clock in the evening.

he ceremony took place at the nan Field Catholic chapel with erend M. A. Mullen performing impressive ceremony in the pres- of the family and intimate nds.

athedral tapers flamed high on altar festooned with garlands of te asters tied with white satin bons. White chrysanthemums banked the chancel and overflowed from tall white pedestal urns placed in the background.

While the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Dr. Ben Cobb, Mr. John Atkinson and Mr. Ardis Lee Phillips, the organist, Mrs. Lydia Nichols, rendered a prenuptial concert. She also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Louise Endom, the bride's godmother, who sang in beautiful voice, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "O Promise Me."

The bride's two attendants, Miss Gladys Emma Whitfield and Miss Marillyn Marshall, wore identical gowns of taffeta trimmed in bands of self material. The bodices were tight fitting and the sleeves were three-quarter length. The skirts were long and full and they both wore caps of tulle and taffeta. They carried arm bouquets of lavendar and pink asters tied with long lengths of lavendar ribbons.

The ring-bearer, John Guerriero Jr., wearing a formal black suit, carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

The best man was Dr. Philip Cenac.

The bride, walking altarward with her father who gave her in marriage, wore the traditional white satin gown fashioned with a tight fitting bodice and long sweeping train. The yoke of mousseline was embroidered in pearls. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, were long and tight fitting. Her veil of illusion was caught to a Victorian cap. She carried a white ivory bound prayer book marker with a spray of orchids and stephanotis. All the age-old superstitions were observed including the wearing of something old. The imported lace handkerchief was carried by generations of brides in the family. The wedding gown was first worn by the bride's sister, Miss Bettie Keller, when she became the bride of Mr. Jack Caplis.

Due to the exigencies of war the large, formal reception at the Keller home was of necessity cancelled. However an informal reception took place following the ceremony with members of the wedding party, members of the family and a few intimate friends in attendance. The Keller home, ideally adapted for entertaining offered a charming setting with the reception suite and dining room adorned with beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Keller extended courtesies in a smart black semi-formal, with long, tight fitting sleeves. The deep yoke of aqua mousseline was embroidered in irridescent beads with corsage of orchids. Mrs. Phillips, the bridegroom's mother, wore a black lace formal model with corsage of pink gladioli.

The bride and bridegroom cut their beautifully embossed, three-tiered wedding cake n the dining room here the bride's table, overlaid with handsome imported lace was developed exclusively in silver. White tapers in silver caldelabra burned at the four corners. Toasts to the young couple were drunk in champagne and a variety of confections were passed among the guests.

The bride traveled in a handsome ailleur of brown with aqua Eton cket and brown accessories. A cor- ge of orchids created additional rn.

llowing a brief honeymoon the young couple will journey to Los Angeles, Calif., where Lt. Phillips will be stationed.

The bride, a popular member of the younger set is a graduate of St. Matthew's Parochial School and Northeast Junior College. She received her B.S. degree from the Louisiana State University. She is a member of Kappa Delta and Delta Beta Sigma sororities and a member of the Spinster Club.

September has been a busy month for the two clubs of the Business and Professional Girls' Clubs of the Y. W. C. A., one of the agencies supported by the Community Chest, and one in which the groups have had interesting and inspiring programs.

This service was a lovely candlelight ceremonial. The old and new officers lighted beautiful colored candles representing: Impartiality, Dependability, Striving, Loyalty, Courage, Joy, Leadership. The new president lighted a tall blue taper for all Business Girls of the Y. W. C. A. and a tall white taper for the Y. W. C. A.'s all over the world. Miss Jean Smith, accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag, sang two lovely vocal numbers. Miss Charlene Hayes read the ceremonial and Miss Bess Sharp gave the interpretation of the "Y" and the Business Girls' program and the challenge to the new officers who are: President Ellamae Albritton; first vice president, Freeda Mickel; second vice president, Mrs. Louise Phillips; recording secretary, Winifred McWhorter; corresponding secretary, Ella Pearl Sutton; parliamentarian, Katherine Averette. After the devotional Miss Mickel turned the program over to Lieutenant Kunow of the WACs who presented the picture on Medical Technicians and Aides of the WACs. Miss Theo Belle McClean, Mrs. Frances Nuzum, Lieutenant Kunow, and Corporal Wander were guests for supper.

Books Reviewed For Club Women

Two Widely Read Books Reviewed Before Welcome Branch Book Club

"Germany" was the subject under discussion when members of Welcome Branch Book Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Harry Moore. Mrs. E. E. Lawson and Mrs. L. S. Whitson served as co-hostesses.

"Der Feuhrer" by Conrad Heiden, the year's outstanding biography of Adolph Hitler was reviewed by Mrs. V. S. Garrett. The book presents a first hand, clear description of Hitler's rise to power, step by step.

Mrs. T. H. Scott brought a timely review of the book "What to do With Germany" by Conrad Nizer. She said in part, "Mr. Nizer believes that proposals such as extermination, breeding out, political dismemberment and compulsory migration are 'medicines without cure' for the future of Germany. There is only one cure that will work—Justice.

"Germany must be occupied by a large military force for many years. The group leaders must be punished with the death penalty. The leaders of German mass organizations and all German officers above the rank of colonel should be indicted and tried. German industry must be controlled.

"To re-educate the German people Mr. Nizer proposes that a great international university be established in a neutral country. Trustworthy German teachers and other picked teachers from all over the world should be chosen as instructors for the German people. As soon as promising young Germans graduate from the International University they should return as teachers to their own people. Education would be compulsory for all. Factory workers could attend night school. By persistence and endless repetition, the masses of the German people must be started on a new tradition. Prussian training must be forever abolished.

'Emancipation could be set forth in a few important days of the world's history: 1215, when the Magna Charta was signed, Sept. 12, 1787, when the final draft of the Consitution of the United States was reported. Such a day is upon us now. All mankind will have cause for many centuries to look upon it and judge whether we missed or not its historic challenge. We must not fail."

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, newly elected president of the Book Club, presided over the business session. Mrs. George Phebus, first vice-president, told club members that Miss Catherine Adragna has been chosen by the club to receive the nursing scholarship this year. She is the third nurse receiving the benefit of the nursing scholarship sponsored by the club.

Bookfellows

The Monroe Bookfellows held it's first meeting of the 1944-45 club year in the home of Mrs. F. C. Bennett with Mrs. Evelyn Atkinson serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. J. R. White, president, presided over a brief business session, at which time the members answered roll call with quotations from Elizabeth B. Browning and Rudyard Kipling. Correspondance from national headquarters was read by the secretary, Mrs. Atkinson.

The ritual of the Torch Ceremony used by the National Order of Bookfellows was carried out in honor of Mrs. Evelyn Green Russell, who recently became a life-time member of the National Order of Bookfellows.

Mrs. Bennett gave an interesting report on the life of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, relating facts concerning her childhood, which was strictly disciplined by her father, a long period of illness, and the beautiful romance with Robert Browning, whose vitality served as a powerful tonic for her health and an inspiration in her work.

Elizabeth was a poet of great renown during the victorian period. Her "Sonnets from the Portuguese" served to correct the most serious of her poetical failings and through them she has revealed her love for Robert.

Mrs. Atkinson gave a splendid paper on Rudyard Kipling, begining with a brief sketch of his personal life.

Born in Bombay, India, his father was a pottery designer and a connoisseur of Indian Art. On his mothers' side he was related to the nobility of England, and was a cousin of Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister.

His first six years were spent in India, where he was nursed by native ayahs, and learned Hindustani concurrently with English, and absorbed much of the spirit of India at his most impressionable age. His adolescent and youthful years, which were spent in England, were not remarkable.

Returning to India at 18, he entered the field of journalism, living a strenuous and harried life. He added to the news of the day columns of original scribbling.

In 1892 he married an American woman, and they went immediately to Bermont, remaining there four years.

It is said that Kipling's fame "came out of the east like a great dawn" and early reached the pinacle maintained for nearly half a century. His fame was planet-wide, and he was the recipient of many honors, including doctorates from various universities, and the nobel prize for literature.

He was also called the spokesman for the Anglo-Saxon race; for though he traveled everywhere, he always remained an unalloyed Englishman, carrying his English opinions, ideas, manners, clothes and speech into every corner of the earth. Never was so wide a traveler so little affected by foreign customs and people. He observed them with the eye of a born journalist, and always "reported" them, but never made concessions. He judged everybody and everything, even the beasts of the jungle, by English standards.

Although Kipling is a humorist his finest work is not in this field. His humor is not the conventional British type, but his numerous scenes depend mainly upon exaggeration and incongruity, which are more American, than British characteristics. The dominant note in his idea of mirth is buffoonery, which is sometimes the refuge of a serious man from serious problems. It is fortunate that Kipling's literary reputation depends not on his humor, but on his imagination, which is unsurpassed.

In his prose writings, Kipling is perhaps better at depicting action than character, which is one of the reasons why his short stories are finer than his novels. Even his most beloved characters are men of action. His heroes have an English straight forwardness, even when they are natives, like Gunga Din. His noblest animals are models of English efficiency.

This apostle of hard work is the author of beautiful and sympathetic stories for children. Treating them with dignity, reporting them accurately and tenderly respecting their weakness and innocence.

Mrs. Atkinson pointed out that to be able to write good verse to occasion is a very rare gift. Kipling had it and employed that gift very seriously, producing some excellent poems of this character. He also excelled in another form of occasional poem—the hymn, a familiar example being his "Recessional." The great hymn writer is very rare, and Kipling might have been one of the most notable.

Kipling is so different from other-poets, that the lazy critic is tempted merely to say that he is not a poet at all, and let it go at that.

Much of Kipling's verse has been set to music with lasting success. Mrs. Atkinson referred to "Recessional," which has its place in our hymnals; "Mandelay" has long been the answer to a baritone's prayer. Of his prose writings, at least two—"The Jungle Book" and "Captains Courageous" have been made into widely heralded motion pictures. Uncounted others have become by-words in literature, such as The Vampire, The White Man's Burden, Gunga Din, When Earth's Last Picture Is Painted, The Ladies, If. All these have practically become household words. Yet to stop with these would be an immeasurable loss, for a serious reading and study of work of this truly great writer will yield to anyone a veritable mind of literary treasure.

Concluding the meeting an informal coffee hour was enjoyed.

Confidentially

Romance is not always moonlight, flowers, perfume. Romance is the years we share together. The laughs we had, the tears we shed, the meals we cooked.

No, romance is not always looking glamorous or having soft words breathed into our ears. It is someone saying with a frown when the biscuits are burned, "Well, never mind. It can't be helped . . . I'll get breakfast downtown . . . give us a kiss. See you tonight. And waves as he shuts the door.

There is a distinct romantic note about Dr. and Mrs. William Bendel's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. They will spend it at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City in company with their mother, Mrs. Samuel Bendel and Dr. and Mrs. Louis Gariepy of Detroit, Mich., who will journey to New York to toast their sister, Mrs. Bendel and Dr. Bendel and to enjoy the festivities with them. En route to New York they will spend a few days in Philadelphia where Dr. Bendel has received a fellowship at the medical center.

Friends witnessed the departure Friday morning of Lt. and Mrs. James Sparks and their son, James Jr., with exceeding regret. They will reside in Jacksonville, Fla., where Lieutenant Sparks will be stationed with the United States navy air corps. He recently returned from a year's duty overseas and was granted a 30-day leave at home in this city.

Outstanding among the prenuptial courtesies honoring Miss Mildred Keller, bride of recent date, was the dinner party in the home of Dr. and Mrs. B. M. McKoin, Edgewater Gardens, with Mrs. J. B. Swanson, hostess.

Miss Keller wore on this occasion a lovely model of pink crepe with corsage of sweetheart roses. Her hostess presented her with a gift of china in her chosen pattern.

The table was centered with tiers of white roses and a delicious three-course dinner was served to: Misses Florence Fluker, Rosanne Reid, Jean Tabb, Kathleen Myers, Gladys Whitfield, Marillyn Marshall, the honoree and the hostess.

The buffet luncheon in the home of Mrs. A. J. Renaud, honoring Miss Keller was on the side of things charming. Pink roses were banked throughout the reception suite and formed a decoration decor for the luncheon table.

Miss Keller wore one of her lovely trousseau models of lavender sheer wool, with a corsage of sweetheart roses. Her gift from her hostess was a beautiful china vase.

The delicious luncheon was served to Misses Jackie Voorhies, Martha Renaud, Sybil Renaud, Marillyn Marshall, Gladys Whitfield, Armandine Renaud and Katye Renaud, and Mesdames Paul Keller, A. K. Gunter, W. B. Herrick, Mildred Voorhies, John Guerriero, and A. J. Renaud.

Mrs. W. B. Herrick ,was another hostess entertaining at luncheon for Miss Keller. Also named as honor guest at this time was Mrs. A. K. Gunter of New Orleans, sister of the bride's mother. Mrs. Gunter was in town to attend the wedding of her niece.

SAVES TIME AND MONEY

By HILDE SCHULER

It's your hat that MAKES your costume and it's your cuticle that MAKES your manicure, and at last there has been invented and brought on the market a little streamlined gadget called "SOFTOL" that enables even the busiest and laziest of us to have well-groomed nails!

No more do you tip over the bottle of cuticle oil remover on your best negligee, search madly for the missing orange stick and raise a storm because someone has borrowed your best manicure scissors to pry off a tin cover.

This new fountain pen like gadet may be carried in your handbag or pocket after filling—and there is a bottle of cuticle remover that goes with it, which holds enough liquid for 100 manicures or pedicures.

This "TWO-IN-ONE" gadget is also very much sought after by those in the service—both men and women—for in those little knapsacks they carry around there isn't much room for a manicuring kit, hand cream, etc. And being on the go so much with strange water and hard work their hands and cuticles dry out terrifically.

Moreover, "SOFTOL" is swell to use on the stubborn cuticle of the toenails—with results equal to a professional's. Girls, remember it's so easy to enhance your leg make-up . . .

And that is not all—it actually helps to remove callouses too!

The entire outfit sells for One Dollar—and may be found at:

Books Reviewed For Club Women

Two Widely Read Books Reviewed Before Welcome Branch Book Club

"Germany" was the subject under discussion when members of Welcome Branch Book Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Harry Moore. Mrs. E. E. Lawson and Mrs. L. S. Whitson served as co-hostesses.

"Der Feuhrer" by Conrad Heiden, the year's outstanding biography of Adolph Hitler was reviewed by Mrs. V. S. Garrett. The book presents a first hand, clear description of Hitler's rise to power, step by step.

Mrs. T. H. Scott brought a timely review of the book "What to do With Germany" by Conrad Nizer. She said in part, "Mr. Nizer believes that proposals such as extermination, breeding out, political dismemberment and compulsory migration are 'medicines without cure' for the future of Germany. There is only one cure that will work—Justice.

"Germany must be occupied by a large military force for many years. The group leaders must be punished with the death penalty. The leaders of German mass organizations and all German officers above the rank of colonel should be indicted and tried. German industry must be controlled.

"To re-educate the German people Mr. Nizer proposes that a great international university be established in a neutral country. Trustworthy German teachers and other picked teachers from all over the world should be chosen as instructors for the German people. As soon as promising young Germans graduate from the International University they should return as teachers to their own people. Education would be compulsory for all. Factory workers could attend night school. By persistence and endless repetition, the masses of the German people must be started on a new tradition. Prussian training must be forever abolished.

"Emancipation could be set forth in a few important days of the world's history: 1215, when the Magna Charta was signed, Sept. 12, 1787, when the final draft of the Consitution of the United States was reported. Such a day is upon us now. All mankind will have cause for many centuries to look upon it and judge whether we missed or not its historic challenge. We must not fail."

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, newly elected president of the Book Club, presided over the business session. Mrs. George Phebus, first vice-president, told club members that Miss Catherine Adragna has been chosen by the club to receive the nursing scholarship this year. She is the third nurse receiving the benefit of the nursing scholarship sponsored by the club.

Newly appointed chairman are Mrs. Zell Smith, war service chairman, and Mrs. Fred Hornberger, public welfare chairman. Mrs. L. V. Tarver, retiring chairman of the library commission, revealed that the library sponsored by the club, located on the grounds of Cooley Sanitorium has been moved to the main hospital building. It now contains over 581 books, catalogued by the patients themselves. Mrs. T. H Scott is the new library commission chairman.

Interest was centered in the many original paintings of the hostess, Mrs. Harry Moore. Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. F. W. Dawson, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. J. T. Eubank, Mrs. Fred Hornberger, Mrs V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs Ralph Gibson, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. George Phebus Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. J. R. White Mrs Leroy Whitson, and Mrs. Paul T Wright. Visitors were Mrs. Kemp Martin and Mrs. Paul Gale.

Bookfellows

The Monroe Bookfellows held it's first meeting of the 1944-45 club year in the home of Mrs. F. C. Bennett with Mrs. Evelyn Atkinson serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. J. R. White, president, presided over a brief business session, at which time the members answered roll call with quotations from Elizabeth B. Browning and Rudyard Kipling, Correspondance from national headquarters was read by the secretary, Mrs. Atkinson.

The ritual of the Torch Ceremony used by the National Order of Bookfellows was carried out in honor of Mrs. Evelyn Green Russell, who recently became a life-time member of the National Order of Bookfellows.

Mrs. Bennett gave an interesting report on the life of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, relating facts concerning her childhood, which was strictly disciplined by her father, a long period of illness, and the beautiful romance with Robert Browning, whose vitality served as a powerful tonic for her health and an inspiration in her work.

Elizabeth was a poet of great renown during the victorian period. Her "Sonnets from the Portuguese" served to correct the most serious of her poetical failings and through them she has revealed her love for Robert.

Mrs. Atkinson gave a splendid paper on Rudyard Kipling, begining with a brief sketch of his personal life.

Born in Bombay, India, his father was a pottery designer and a connoisseur of Indian Art. On his mothers' side he was related to the nobility of England, and was a cousin of Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister.

His first six years were spent in India, where he was nursed by native ayahs, and learned Hindustani concurrently with English, and absorbed much of the spirit of India at his most impressionable age. His adolescent and youthful years, which were spent in England, were not remarkable.

Returning to India at 18, he entered the field of journalism, living a strenuous and harried life. He added to the news of the day columns of original scribbling.

In 1892 he married an American woman, and they went immediately to Bermont, remaining there four years.

It is said that Kipling's fame "came out of the east like a great dawn" and early reached the pinacle maintained for nearly half a century. His fame was planet-wide, and he was the recipient of many honors, including doctorates from various universities, and the nobel prize for literature.

He was also called the spokesman for the Anglo-Saxon race; for though he traveled everywhere, he always remained an unalloyed Englishman, carrying his English opinions, ideas, manners, clothes and speech into every corner of the earth. Never was so wide a traveler so little affected by foreign customs and people. He observed them with the eye of a born journalist, and always "reported" them, but never made concessions. He judged everybody and everything, even the beasts of the jungle, by English standards.

Although Kipling is a humorist his finest work is not in this field. His humor is not the conventional British type, but his numerous scenes depend mainly upon exaggeration and incongruity, which are more American, than British characteristics. The dominant note in his idea of mirth is buffoonery, which is sometimes the refuge of a serious man from serious problems. It is fortunate that Kipling's literary reputation depends not on his humor, but on his imagination, which is unsurpassed.

In his prose writings, Kipling is perhaps better at depicting action than character, which is one of the reasons why his short stories are finer than his novels. Even his most beloved characters are men of action. His heroes have an English straight forwardness, even when they are natives, like Gunga Din. His noblest animals are models of English efficiency.

This apostle of hard work is the author of beautiful and sympathetic stories for children. Treating them with dignity, reporting them accurately and tenderly respecting their weakness and innocence.

Mrs. Atkinson pointed out that to be able to write good verse to occasion is a very rare gift. Kipling had it and employed that gift very seriously, producing some excellent poems of this character. He also excelled in another form of occasional poem—the hymn, a familiar example being his "Recessional." The great hymn writer is very rare, and Kipling might have been one of the most notable.

Kipling is so different from other-poets, that the lazy critic is tempted merely to say that he is not a poet at all, and let it go at that.

Much of Kipling's verse has been set to music with lasting success. Mrs. Atkinson referred to "Recessional," which has its place in our hymnals; "Mandelay" has long been the answer to a baritone's prayer. Of his prose writings, at least two—"The Jungle Book" and "Captains Courageous" have been made into widely heralded motion pictures. Uncounted others have become by-words in literature, such as The Vampire, The White Man's Burden, Gunga Din, When Earth's Last Picture Is Painted, The Ladies, If. All these have practically become household words. Yet to stop with these would be an immeasurable loss, for a serious reading and study of work of this truly great writer will yield to anyone a veritable mind of literary treasure.

Concluding the meeting an informal coffee hour was enjoyed.

Confidentially

Romance is not always moonlight, flowers, perfume. Romance is the years we share together. The laughs we had, the tears we shed, the meals we cooked.

No, romance is not always looking glamorous or having soft words breathed into our ears. It is someone saying with a frown when the biscuits are burned, "Well, never mind. It can't be helped . . . I'll get breakfast downtown . . . give us a kiss. See you tonight. And waves as he shuts the door.

Romance? No, romance is not moonlifht, flowers . . . romance is the years we spend together.

There is a distinct romantic note about Dr. and Mrs. William Bendel's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. They will spend it at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City in company with their mother, Mrs. Samuel Bendel and Dr. and Mrs. Louis Gariepy of Detroit, Mich., who will journey to New York to toast their sister, Mrs. Bendel and Dr. Bendel and to enjoy the festivities with them. En route to New York they will spend a few days in Philadelphia where Dr. Bendel has received a fellowship at the medical center.

Friends witnessed the departure Friday morning of Lt. and Mrs. James Sparks and their son, James Jr., with exceeding regret. They will reside in Jacksonville, Fla., where Lieutenant Sparks will be stationed with the United States navy air corps. He recently returned from a year's duty overseas and was granted a 30-day leave at home in this city.

By HILDE SCHULER

It's your hat that MAKES your costume and it's your cuticle that MAKES your manicure, and at last there has been invented and brought on the market a little streamlined gadget called "SOFTOL" that enables even the busiest and laziest of us to have well-groomed nails!

No more do you tip over the bottle of cuticle oil remover on your best negligee, search madly for the missing orange stick and raise a storm because someone has borrowed your best manicure scissors to pry off a tin cover.

This new fountain pen like gadet may be carried in your handbag or pocket after filling—and there is a bottle of cuticle remover that goes with it, which holds enough liquid for 100 manicures or pedicures.

This "TWO-IN-ONE" gadget is also very much sought after by those in the service—both men and women—for in those little knapsacks they carry around there isn't much room for a manicuring kit, hand cream, etc. And being on the go so much with strange water and hard work their hands and cuticles dry out terrifically.

Moreover, "SOFTOL" is swell to use on the stubborn cuticle of the toenails—with results equal to a professional's. Girls, remember it's so easy to enhance your leg make-up . . .

And that is not all—it actually helps to remove callouses too!

The entire outfit sells for One Dollar—and may be found at:

UNITED WAR FUND

AND

Twin City Community Chest

DRIVE OPENS MONDAY, OCTOBER 9TH

AND CONTINUES THROUGH SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28TH

The Answer To The $78,000 Question . . .

What is the Twin City Community Chest and United War Fund?

It is an organization which helps to support the 22 Agencies of the National War Fund, and the 10 Agencies of local importance which rely on a generous public for their income. A list of these agencies appears below.

What does it Aim to do?

Its object is to speed victory by helping our fighting men through such organizations as the USO and the War Prisoners Aid . . . to speed victory by helping our Allies, both those liberated and those still to be freed . . . to speed victory by taking care of the sick and needy and the character building of our youths at home, whose call must not go unheard.

Why does it ask me to help?

Because all those in need look to you for help, because it relies on the generosity and humanity of the people of Ouachita Parish to give, and give freely, out of the kindness of their hearts.

Victory seems near. Why should I help Our Allies?

Because they have fought, and fought gallantly, side by side with our fighting forces overseas, and because we cannot turn a deaf ear to the cry of little children for bread. Although the fighting may be over, the vital work of helping our Allies to their feet again, making them self-supporting and contributing members of a world at peace, has hardly begun. We who have must help those who have not, so that we need never fight in another World War.

Everybody is making money now--why should I give to the Community Chest?

Because in war and in peace the activities of the 10 local agencies continue, relieving and comforting those who are too young, too old or too sick to help themselves. Also the character building of our youths at home.

What with War Bonds, Withholding Taxes and this and that, I am giving every Penny I can spare--Why give more?

Because you have more from which to give. You know this is true. Some Americans are giving all—their lives on the field of battle. Does your sacrifice match theirs?

Okay, then--how much should I give?

The Twin City Community Chest and United War Fund is asking for $78,000.00 from the people of Ouachita Parish. If every worker will give TWO DAYS' PAY the need will be met, and the work of the United War Fund and Twin Cities Community Chest in 1945 will continue without interruption.

How do I give?

You will be asked to give to the United War Fund and Twin Cities Community Chest in the plant or office where you work or at your residence by one of the voluntary, unpaid Chest workers.

How do I know my contribution will go where it will do the most good?

A committee of unpaid workers keeps in continuous touch throughout the year with the agencies that are supported by the Twin Cities Community Chest and United War Fund. Through their careful and unselfish efforts, your contribution achieves its maximum effect.

Can I deduct my contribution from my Income Tax?

Yes. Income Tax schedules encourage liberal contributions.

HERE COMES CHARLIE, THE GUARD, WITH OUR FISH. WE'RE ALL SET.
THERE YOU ARE, MR. TRACY, ALL PACKED IN ICE. YOU'VE GOT SOME FINE EATING THERE
THANKS, CHARLIE. THIS FALL FISHING IS ALL RIGHT. I'LL SEE YOU NEXT SUMMER

ONE HOUR LATER
SO YOU'RE ANXIOUS TO GET HOME, TOO, EH? WELL, SO AM I. I'VE GOT SOME STUDYING TO DO.
GOSH, THIS MARSH GRASS HAS CERTAINLY GROWN UP SINCE I LAST USED THIS ROAD
YOU SEE, THIS WHOLE AREA, JUNIOR, IS A PEAT BOG. THEY WERE NEVER ABLE TO DRAIN IT AND FARM IT. IT'S ALL SWAMP AND SLUE GRASS.
IT'S LONELY LOOKING AND SCARY, TRACY HEY!

YES-THE WORLD LOST A GREAT FRIEND WHEN IT LOST OUR BIM GUMP. A MAN WHO DEVOTED A LIFETIME TO GIVING!
YET--ALL THE WONDERFUL THINGS HE DID IN HIS LIFE, WERE AS NOTHING COMPARED TO HIS FINAL GESTURE OF GOOD WILL TOWARD HIS FELLOW MAN-
HE WILLED ALMOST HIS ENTIRE FORTUNE TO DESERVING CAUSES. SCHOOLS, HOSPITALS, LIBRARIES--
THERE SHOULD BE A MONUMENT ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY--
THERE IS-IN THE HEARTS OF MILLIONS!
MY B-BIM ALWAYS SAID-"IT'S NOT WHAT YOU SAY, BUT WHAT YOU GIVE THAT MEASURE'S THE WORTH OF THE LIFE YOU L-LIVE"
AND DIDN'T HE ALWAYS SAY-"HAPPINESS IS A TWIN-YOU MUST GIVE IT TO OTHERS TO WIN IT-SOB-FOR Y-YOURSELF"
OH STOP THIS SENTIMENTAL DRIVEL!! HE LEFT US PRACTICALLY PENNILESS.
BUT THEY WERE A GIFT FROM OLD ELIJAH HAWK, MAMA-
YEAH? WELL FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS MIGHT KEEP MILLIE AND MYSELF AND OUR POOR INNOCENT FERDINAND FROM STARVING-
ANYWAY-I THINK I WILL SELL THESE DOORSTOPS-THEY'RE CERTAINLY NOT MUCH USE TO US-
THEY'RE GONE!! SOMEBODY STOLE THEM AND PUT ROCKS IN THEIR PLACE!

YES - THE WORLD LOST A GREAT FRIEND WHEN IT LOST OUR BIM GUMP. A MAN WHO DEVOTED A LIFETIME TO GIVING!
YET -- ALL THE WONDERFUL THINGS HE DID IN HIS LIFE, WERE AS NOTHING COMPARED TO HIS FINAL GESTURE OF GOOD WILL TOWARD HIS FELLOW MAN -
HE WILLED ALMOST HIS ENTIRE FORTUNE TO DESERVING CAUSES. SCHOOLS, HOSPITALS LIBRARIES ---
THERE SHOULD BE A MONUMENT ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY ---
THERE IS - IN THE HEARTS OF MILLIONS!
MY B-BIM ALWAYS SAID - "IT'S NOT WHAT YOU SAY, BUT WHAT YOU GIVE THAT MEASURES THE WORTH OF THE LIFE YOU L-LIVE"
AND DIDN'T HE ALWAYS SAY - "HAPPINESS IS A TWIN - YOU MUST GIVE IT TO OTHERS TO WIN IT - SOB - FOR Y-YOURSELF"
OH STOP THIS SENTIMENTAL DRIVEL!! HE LEFT US PRACTICALLY PENNILESS.
BUT THEY WERE A GIFT FROM OLD ELIJAH HAWK, MAMA -
Reg U S Pat Off. Copyright 1944 by The Chicago Tribune
STOW IT, YOU OLD -- BAT! HE LEFT YOU ENOUGH TO LIVE THE LIFE YOU WERE NOT ACCUSTOMED TO - AND BESIDES, IT'S TIME WE QUIT BEING LEECHES !!!

THEY'RE GONE !! SOMEBODY STOLE THEM AND PUT ROCKS IN THEIR PLACE!

THE VOLLEY FROM THE RIFLES OF EMIN-NAGRA'S MEN HAD DONE ITS WORK. SCATTERED ABOUT THE DAZED TARZAN, IN GROTESQUE ATTITUDES OF DEATH, LAY DOMBAT AND MANY OF THE APE TRIBE.
CALLED OUT: "SEIZE THE WHITE APE!"

NAGRA ROSE FROM HIS ROYAL DIVAN W TARZAN AND BULAK WERE BROUGHT BEFORE HIM. HI EYES WIDENED IN AMAZ MENT
KOROJAK STEPPED TOWARD TARZAN AND THE WHITE APE. DEADLY HATRED BLAZED FROM HIS EYES AS HE RECALLED HIS EARLIER ENCOUNTER WITH THE APE-MAN. "MARCH!" HE COMMANDED.
WHILE PREPARATIONS WENT FORWARD TO BREAK CAMP, THE CAPTIVES WERE LED TO A STOUT LITTER AND THERE SECURELY SHACKLED.

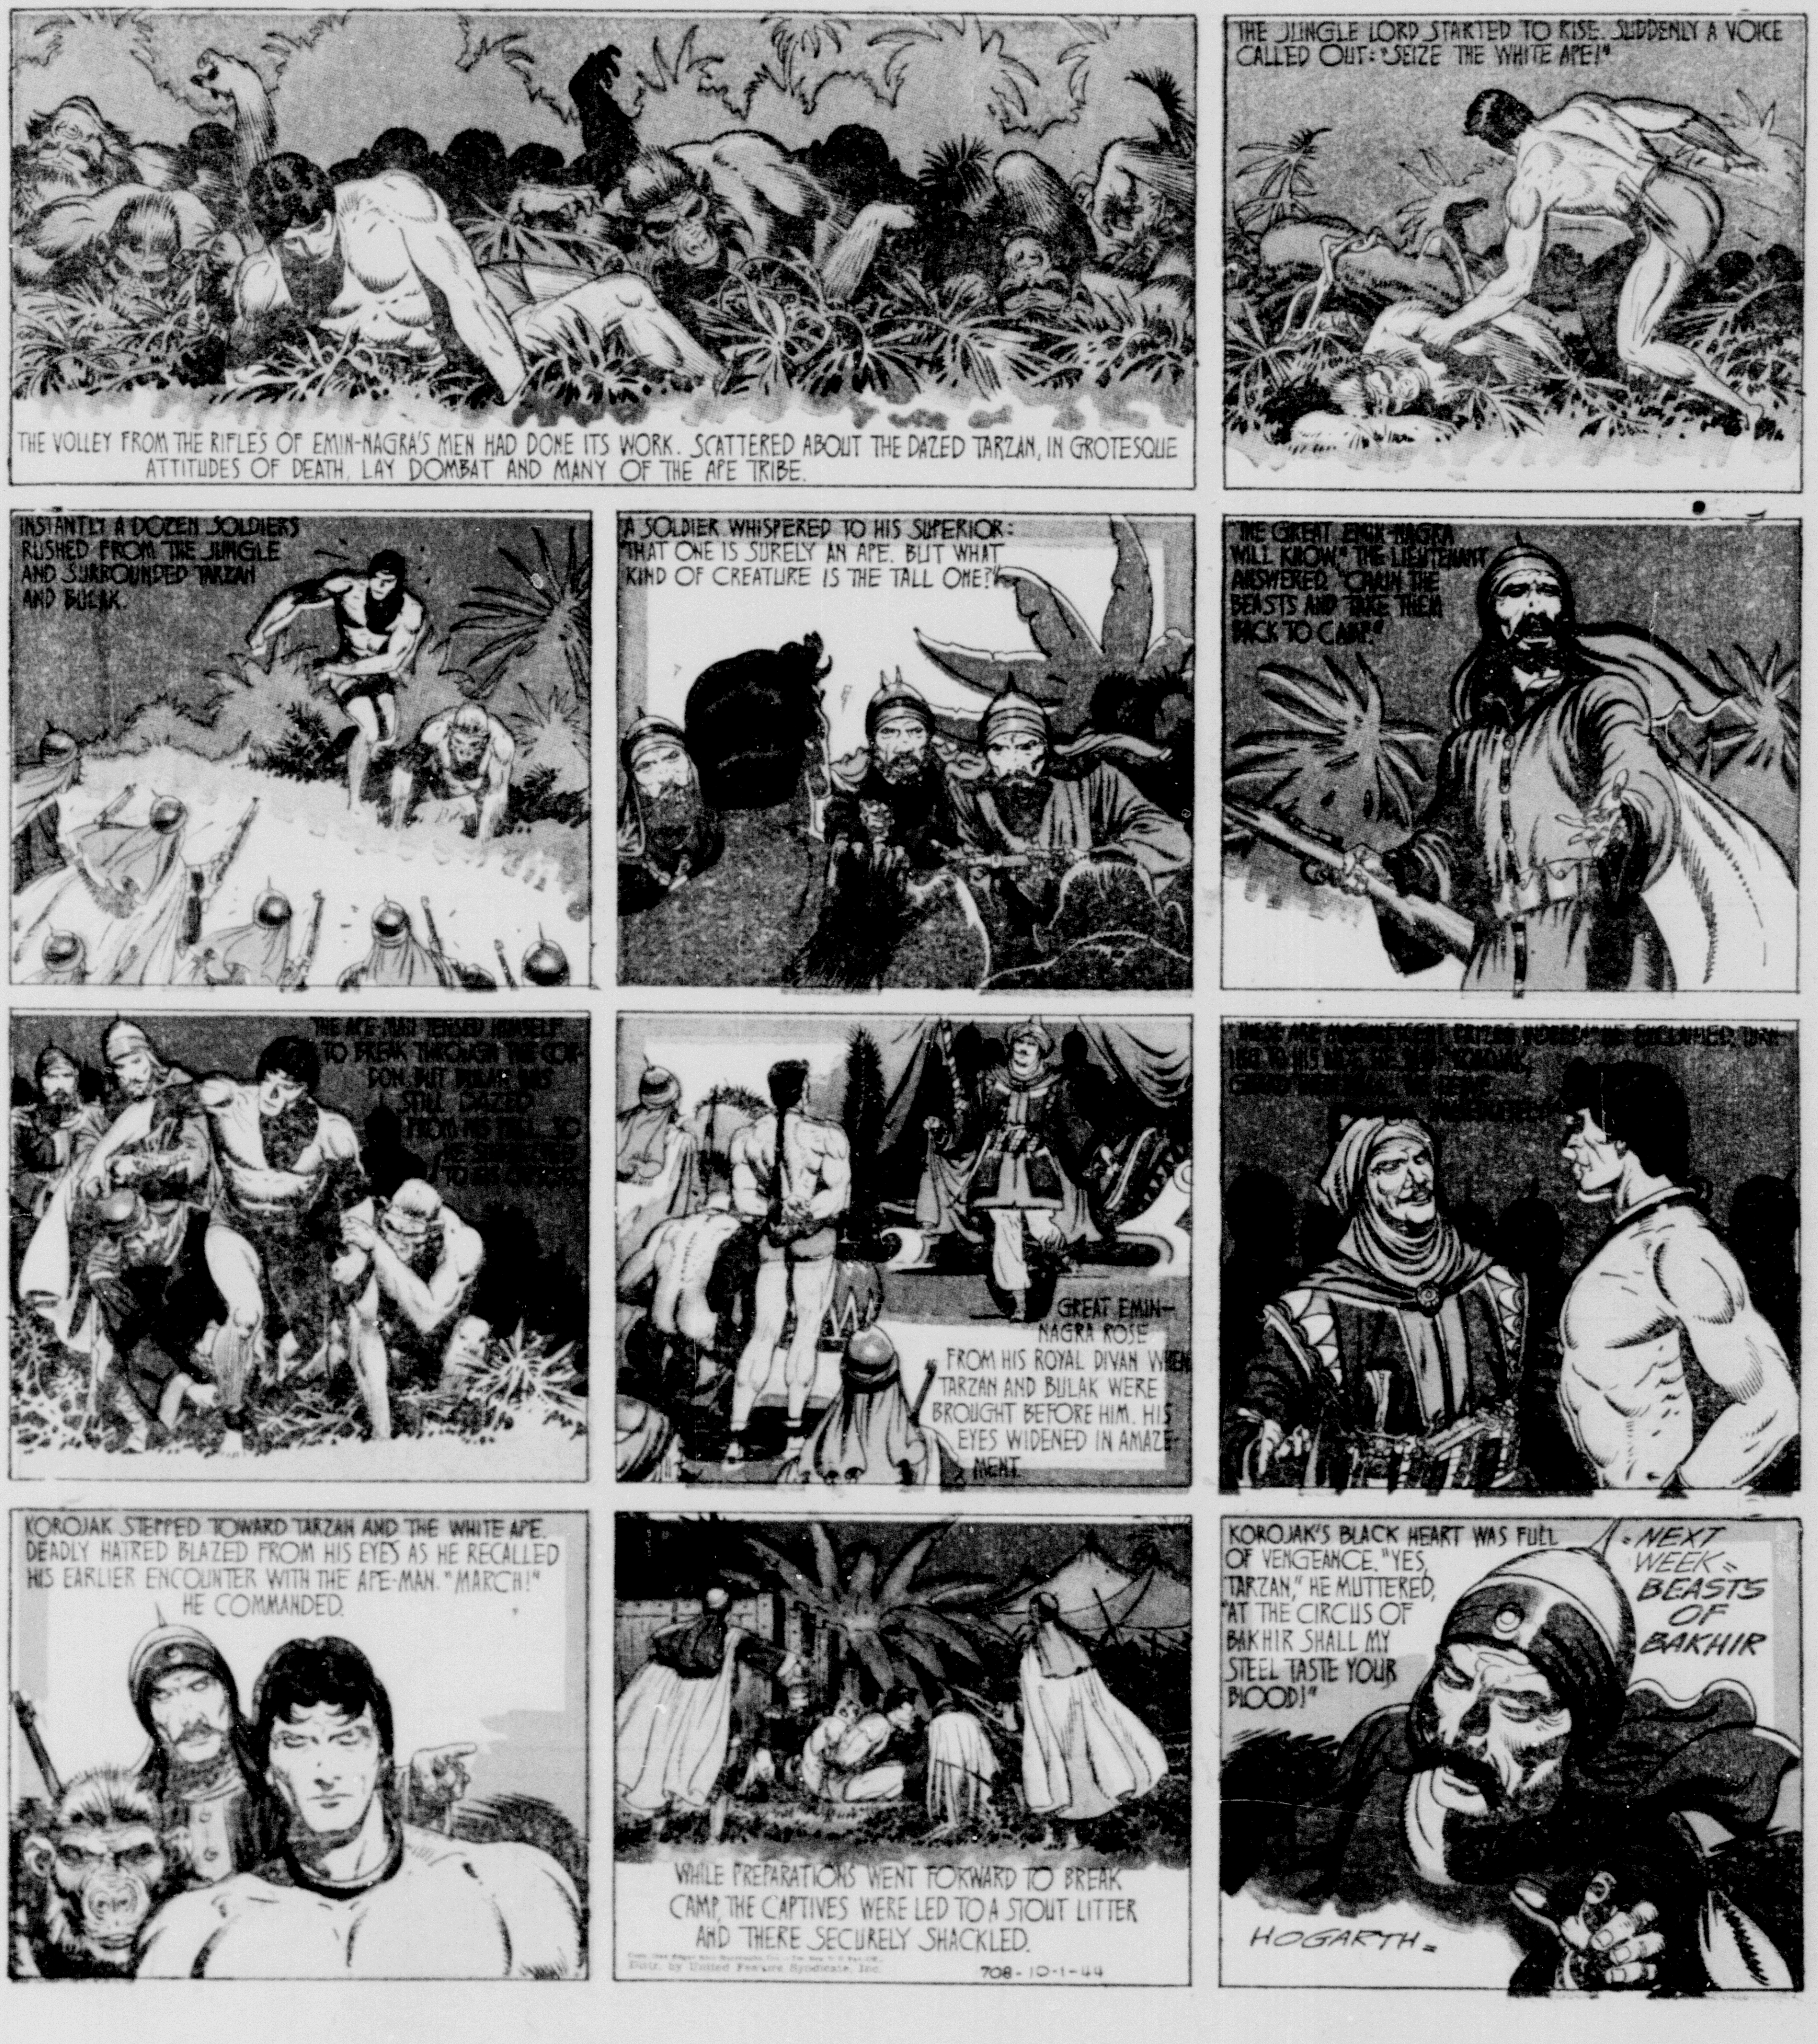
CAPTIVES



THE VOLLEY FROM THE RIFLES OF EMIN-NAGRA'S MEN HAD DONE ITS WORK. SCATTERED ABOUT THE DAZED TARZAN, IN GROTESQUE ATTITUDES OF DEATH, LAY DOMBAT AND MANY OF THE APE TRIBE.
THE JUNGLE LORD STARTED TO RISE. SUDDENLY A VOICE CALLED OUT: "SEIZE THE WHITE APE!"
INSTANTLY A DOZEN SOLDIERS RUSHED FROM THE JUNGLE AND SURROUNDED TARZAN AND BULAK.
A SOLDIER WHISPERED TO HIS SUPERIOR: "THAT ONE IS SURELY AN APE. BUT WHAT KIND OF CREATURE IS THE TALL ONE?"
"THE GREAT EMIN-NAGRA WILL KNOW," THE LIEUTENANT ANSWERED. "CHAIN THE BEASTS AND TAKE THEM BACK TO CAMP!"
THE APE-MAN TENSED HIMSELF TO BREAK THROUGH THE CORDON, BUT BULAK WAS STILL DAZED FROM HIS FALL, SO HE SUBMITTED TO HIS CAPTORS.
GREAT EMIN-NAGRA ROSE FROM HIS ROYAL DIVAN WHEN TARZAN AND BULAK WERE BROUGHT BEFORE HIM. HIS EYES WIDENED IN AMAZEMENT.
"THESE ARE MAGNIFICENT [illegible]," HE EXCLAIMED. [illegible] KOROJAK, [illegible]
KOROJAK STEPPED TOWARD TARZAN AND THE WHITE APE. DEADLY HATRED BLAZED FROM HIS EYES AS HE RECALLED HIS EARLIER ENCOUNTER WITH THE APE-MAN. "MARCH!" HE COMMANDED.
WHILE PREPARATIONS WENT FORWARD TO BREAK CAMP, THE CAPTIVES WERE LED TO A STOUT LITTER AND THERE SECURELY SHACKLED.

KOROJAK'S BLACK HEART WAS FULL OF VENGEANCE. "YES, TARZAN," HE MUTTERED, "AT THE CIRCUS OF BAKHIR SHALL MY STEEL TASTE YOUR BLOOD!"
